Truman Asks Voters To 'Save the Country'; Dewey Urges Economy

Cuts in Spending, Taxes and Prices Hinged on Peace, New Yorker Says

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

Albuquerque, N. Mex., Sept. 22.—Gov. Thomas E. Dewey tonight called for more cuts in Government spending and taxes to help bring down prices, but hinged all three GOP pledges on world peace.

"America's No. 1 domestic problem is world peace," he said. "We can only master the question of swollen prices, debt and taxes in a world at peace."

Dewey promised to "wage the peace as successfully as we waged the war" before an audience in the crowded University of New Mexico gymnasium following his first contact with John Foster Dulles in Paris since the latter went to Paris for the U. N. Assembly meeting.

Gets Dulles Report

He urged America use aid funds to help weld a strong European federation as "an enormous bulwark to peace."

Allen W. Dulles, Dewey staff adviser and brother of the United States delegate to the U. N. Assembly, talked to Dewey's chief foreign adviser by telephone from the train for 20 minutes last night.

Dulles' report on the opening Assembly session in Paris and Berlin conversations with the foreign ministers was immediately relayed to Dewey.

All day the GOP presidential nominee, still "under wraps" on the foreign policy issue, stumped the Colorado and New Mexico range country, making folksy talks to the crowds en route and putting in plugs for Pat Hurley, GOP nominee for the Senate.

In the third major speech of his campaign, at Albuquerque tonight Dewey said today's high prices stem mainly from unavoidable World War II spending but charged the Administration with deliberately augmenting the inflation menace.

He charged the danger "is greatly aggravated by the mistaken policies, bad management and poor judgment of the Federal Government which for years has been moving Heaven and earth trying to bring on just such an inflation."

He listed cuts in a "bloated and top-heavy bureaucracy" as the most important single attack on inflation and told the Westerners

The Gallup Poll

Truman Gain Of 6% Shown In California

By George Gallup
Director American Institute of Public Opinion

Princeton, N. J., Sept. 22.—A survey completed on the eve of the campaign "invasion" of California by both President Truman and Governor Dewey shows President Truman gaining in popularity throughout the State.

The number of voters who say that they plan to vote for the Truman-Barkley ticket is up 6 per cent as compared to a similar survey completed in early September and reported last week. Both Governor Dewey and Henry A. Wallace, the Progressive Party candidate, show losses since the earlier survey.

How the campaign speeches of the President and Governor Dewey in California Friday and Saturday will affect the situation remains to be seen.

The trend up to now follows:

"If the presidential election were being held today, how would you vote: for Truman, for Dewey or for Wallace?"

CALIFORNIA
(25 electoral votes)

	Early Sept.	Today
Dewey	49%	46%
Truman	35	41
Wallace	7	5
Undecided	9	8

The latest poll results give fresh indication of the importance of the Wallace voters in California as a balance-of-power group. In California as in other States the Wallace vote is drawn heavily from the ranks of former Democrats. If

President Wants To Keep U. S. From 'Going to the Dogs,' He Tells Listeners

By Edward T. Folliard
Post Reporter

Oakland, Calif., Sept. 22.—President Truman, barnstorming through California's Sacramento Valley this afternoon, called on the voters to help him in his crusade to keep the country "from going to the dogs."

He warned that a Republican victory would bring another Congress like the Eightieth, which would do the country "double dirt."

Talking to a crowd in Rosedale, Calif., he said that the paramount issue in 1948 was "the special interests against the people."

Terms GOP "Mossbacks"

"That is what I hope you will do," he said. "I hope you will join me in this crusade to keep the country from going to the dogs."

Earlier, in a speech at Reno, Nev., he said that Republican congressional leaders were a "bunch of old mossbacks living in 1890."

When his train reached Oakland, Calif., this evening, a handful of Wallace pickets were at the station, carrying placards which read, "End Jim Crow in the Army" and "America Wants No Quarrel with Russia—end the Cold War."

Mr. Truman motored across the bay to San Francisco, and made a nocturnal speech in front of the City Hall. He then returned to Oakland to address a Democratic rally and denounce the "power trust."

He was given an enthusiastic greeting by the crowd in San Francisco, which assembled between City Hall and the Veterans Memorial Opera House, where the United Nations was launched in June 1945.

Police Chief E. M. Mitchell estimated the crowd at 30,000.

Reads U. N. Record

Mr. Truman recalled that he was here when the United Nations was born. He said he had heard talk that the U. N. was not working. But he said he was sure that our progress toward peace was faster than it would have been without the great international organization.

He outlined the purposes of U. N. and then read the record of its accomplishments. When it was but a year old, he said, the Security Council persuaded Russia to withdraw troops from Iran. The U. N., he said, also had helped protect Greece's sovereignty.

He listed its achievements in Indonesia and other parts of the world.

He said nobody could ignore Soviet attacks, but he added that he was so thoroughly convinced that the plain people of the world wanted peace, that he didn't think the Soviet attitude was an insuperable barrier to that goal.

Mr. Truman said it was the policy of his Administration to keep foreign policy out of politics. He said he would continue to pursue this policy.

But it was necessary under the Constitution, he said, to have "a scramble" for the Presidency every four years. He went on to say that he was touring the country now to prove that the Democratic Party was the party of the people and the Republican Party that of special interests.

If the people wanted the Republican Party, he said, we would start out on another "boom-and-bust" cycle, which would do nobody any good but the Communists.

This brought a cheer from the crowd.

La. Assembly Considering Ballot Action

Gov. Long Convenes Session to Rescind Ban on Democrats

Baton Rouge, La., Sept. 22 (AP).—President Truman's name would go on the Louisiana ballot as the "National Democratic Party" candidate under terms of a bill introduced at the opening of a special session of the Legislature tonight.

The President's name was knocked off the ballot September 10 by the State Central Democratic Committee, controlling party body in Louisiana. It declared the States' Rights Democratic ticket of Govs. J. Strom Thurmond of South Carolina and Fielding L. Wright of Mississippi the State party's nominees.

The bill, introduced in the House by three of Governor Earl K. Long's administration leaders, would not allow President Truman to use the rooster, traditional Louisiana Democratic party emblem. Some legislators predicted that the donkey, used in many other States, would appear on the ballot over the names of the national Democratic nominees.

The session, hurriedly summoned last night by Governor Long, opened at 10:40 p. m., Central Standard Time.

Tonight's session was brief. The House received the bills, suspended rules to expedite them and assigned them all to committee. The House adjourned until 2 p. m. tomorrow, the Senate until 11 a. m.

The Governor took notice also of objections from the other side of the fence. Democratic National Committee Chairman J. Howard McGrath has said no solution will be satisfactory that did not place Mr. Truman on the ballot as the official Democratic nominee.

Hebert Sees 'Politics' in Spy Inquiry

By the United Press

Representative F. Edward Hebert (D., La.), a member of the House Un-American Activities Committee, asserted last night that "politics" has played a "large part" in the committee's current espionage investigation.

In one of the sharpest blasts of criticism ever directed at the committee by one of its members, Hebert said in a radio interview that he disapproves particularly of the treatment of Dr. E. U. Condon, director of the Bureau of Standards.

Hebert, who described himself as a States Rights Democrat, also accused Attorney General Tom C. Clark of failing to act as vigorously as he should in prosecuting Communists.

"I believe it is tragedy that politics has played such a large part in the committee's activities," said Hebert.

He asserted that "Democrats and Republicans together have contributed" to the situation, but laid special blame on GOP members.

Hebert emphasized, however, that he feels that "with all its faults, the Un-American activities Committee has done a noble job. It has alerted America to a menace which this country should have recognized long ago."

Auto Kills 2-Year-Old Boy Crossing Street After Mother

A 2-year-old boy was killed in Takoma Park, Md., last night as he darted across the street after his mother. The mother, carrying a 2-month-old baby in her arms, was going to a neighbor's home to inquire about a cowboy film the boy wanted to see.

Police said the boy, Frank William Neff, jr., died a few minutes after he was rushed to Washington Sanitarium in Takoma Park. The accident occurred at 6 p. m. at Philadelphia and Chestnut aves.

Driver of the car was listed by police as Ralph G. Shure, 100 Hodges lane, Takoma Park attorney and former Montgomery County trial magistrate. Shure said he did not see the child run into the street, nor did he know what had happened until he heard the mother, Mrs. Shirley Neff, 22, scream.

The boy's father, a civilian machinist at the David W. Taylor Model Basin in Carderock, Md., said: "I was building a partition on the back of the house and the boy was playing in a sandpile in the driveway before the accident. I heard a thud and my wife's scream and went to see what happened."

"Junior apparently struck the front bumper of the car and was dragged by the head by the car's undercarriage. He was lying face up about parallel with the curb when I next saw him. There were several bad cuts in his head."

12 Hours' Transfusions Renew Woman's Blood Three Times

HER LIFE SAVED—Mrs. Hazel Lorimer pauses in a wheel chair beside 20 empty pint bottles, indicative of the amount of whole blood she received in 32 transfusions.

By Don Olesen
Post Reporter

A wife who received transfusions of 32 pints of whole blood and plasma within a 12-hour period, following a complicated pregnancy, yesterday was released from Arlington Hospital.

Hospital physicians who described the remarkable case pointed out that the patient's blood was completely replaced three times during the 12 hours.

A complicating factor in obtaining blood was the woman's rare blood type—"O" RH-Negative.

The patient, Mrs. Hazel M. Lorimer of 2719 S. Glebe rd., Arlington, was admitted to the hospital September 9 in her ninth month of pregnancy.

Arlington Hospital physicians said severe hemorrhages Mrs. Lorimer suffered after pregnancy were due principally to failure of the uterus to contract as is normal after delivery.

Massage and drugs usually employed to cause the contraction failed in this case, doctors said. They explained the failure probably was due to a tumor in the uterus.

The 12 hours of hemorrhages occured on September 10 after

James Found Guilty in Brill Girl's Slaying

Baltimore Court May Grant Life Sentence; Defendant Unmoved

By Charles E. Davis, Jr.
Post Reporter

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 22.—Eugene H. James, 31-year-old handyman, was convicted of first degree murder today in the fatal stabbing of Marsha Brill, 11, in Baltimore July 6.

In convicting James, Judge Herman M. Moser suggested a motive that could also apply to the similar knife-slaying of 11-year-old Carol Bardwell June 27 in Rock Creek Park in Washington.

Washington police obtained a confession from James in the Bardwell murder and he has been indicted by a District grand jury.

"The motive," said Judge Moser in announcing his verdict today, "is not difficult to find. It is cruel and heartless and difficult for the normal person to understand.

"But to him it was as clear as daylight.

"He was under compulsion, a hostility toward immature females. So it was a deliberate, premeditated killing."

James, his jaws and chin matted with heavy beard, stood up and was escorted to the witness stand when Judge Moser began delivering his verdict.

His head was half bowed, his eyes only half open when he heard Judge Moser pronounce him guilty. There was not a twinge of emotion.

James' trial was without a jury

Blimp to Join Canada Search For Navy Plane

The Navy said a long-range blimp has been ordered to join the search for a Navy plane and three men missing in Manitoba, Canada, since Sunday.

The 300-foot blimp is being stripped of experimental gear at Lakehurst, N. J., and was expected to leave there about 2 a. m. (EDT), this morning.

Those aboard are Sir Robert Hamilton, British naval adviser; Capt. Ben Scott Custer of Chevy Chase, Md., U. S. naval attache at Ottawa; Lieut. (j.g.) Charles L. Wilcox, Oskaloosa, Iowa.; Chief Aviation Machinist Mate Jack M. Kastner, Tucson, Ariz., and Sergt. George Scalise, of Fort Belvoir, Va.

The Navy said the blimp has a range of 3000 miles. It set a record in October, 1946, by staying aloft more than 170 hours without refueling.

The blimp will carry a crew of 10, including two flight teams. Search base will be at the naval air station, Minneapolis, Minn.

Clews Prove Valueless in Auto Murders

Police Report No Arrests Near In Pair's Death

Clews in the murder of a 25-year-old postal clerk and his girl companion near Glen Burnie, Md., last weekend were exploded almost as they were found yesterday.

Chief John H. Souers, of Anne Arundel County police, said late yesterday, "No arrests and no prospects."

Nor did the autopsy report of Dr. Howard J. Maldeis, Maryland chief medical examiner, offer conclusive evidence in the murder of John H. Mahlan and 18-year-old Mary C. Kline, whose bodies were found Monday in a farmer's bean patch after a three-day search.

Bullet Wounds Described

State's Attorney James C. Morton quoted from the report and said bullets entered the heads of both Mahlan and Miss Kline.

Police said they did not know, however, whether the girl had been raped. They were awaiting receipt of a supplemental report on microscopic tests being made to determine the nature of her injuries.

Morton said the autopsy showed a bullet entered the base of the girl's skull and pursued a forward and upward path. Fragments of the missile were recovered and were being subjected to tests.

Miss Kline's body showed a bullet had nicked her left index finger and there were superficial bruises

West Sends Kremlin 'Final' Berlin Note; Intends to Stand Firm

Russia Defeated In All Attempts To Keep Issues From Assembly

Paris, Sept. 22 (AP).—Russian Deputy Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky charged today that certain powers are attempting to create a "disunited nations."

He did not name these powers, but he launched an offensive against every move by the Western nations to put controversial issues before the United Nations Assembly.

Then by thumping majorities the 14-nation steering committee voted to put on the Assembly work list every item opposed by the Russians.

Before the repeated defeats in the Steering Committee the Russians won two victories which had been expected. They got two vice presidencies in the Assembly elections, held at a short morning session.

The Soviet Union itself was elected by 41 votes along with the other Big Five powers. That is customary in the U. N. But Russia's other candidate for vice president, Poland, barely squeezed through with 28 votes, one more than the required majority of 27.

Mexico, supported by the western nations, was elected the seventh vice president by 29 votes.

The real scrapping began in the steering committee. This committee always gives a preview of the line the powers will take in the full Assembly debate.

In a fast-stepping session the committee decided to recommend that the Assembly take up these items:

1. Russia's veto of the U. N. membership applications of Austria, Finland, Eire, Italy, Portugal and Trans-Jordan.

2. The report of the Balkans commission, which Russia has boycotted. The commission reported that Albania, Bulgaria and Yugoslavia supported the Greek guerillas.

3. The report on the Korean commission. This tells how a Korean government was set up in the southern zone occupied by the United States under the watchcare of the commission.

4. Argentina's demand for a special conference of nations to study the question of the big power veto in the Security Council.

5. The report of the year-round Little Assembly, which Russia has boycotted. It suggested that the veto be outlawed on peaceful settlements.

The committee adjourned at 7:15 p. m. (2:15 p. m. E. D. T.)

The full Assembly will meet Thursday for general policy statements with Brig. Gen. Carlos P. Romulo of the Phillippines billed to lead off.

The Palestine issue will come up later when recommendations of Count Bernadotte are read and the Security Council report dealing with Palestine is heard.

Vishinsky reiterated the usual Soviet arguments against the items put on the U. N. agenda, declaring particularly that the veto was in the Charter and was there to stay. He called the U. N. Balkan and Korean Commissions illegal.

Finally he declared that any attempt to have the U. N. review a Soviet law making Russian wives nonexportable is a violation of Russian sovereignty. Chile's plea about its former minister whose son's wife cannot leave Russia was dismissed tartly by Vishinsky.

"U. N. business, he declared, is world peace and security—Russian marriage laws can hardly affect these.

Four Killed In Israel Ambuscade

By Kenneth Bilby

Jerusalem, Sept. 22 (NYHT.)—A Jerusalem-bound convoy was ambushed today as it passed the bomb-wrecked Latrun pumping station and four persons were killed, including an American engineer and the widow of a former Dutch consul in Jerusalem.

Jews blamed Arabs for the attack.

The assault on the seven-truck Jewish caravan led by United Nations truce officials, followed an ominous new threat against truce leaders and the provisional government of Israel by the organization which reportedly assassinated Count Folke Bernadotte last Friday.

Large printed posters, stuck on shop and store windows and signed by "the Fatherland Front," extreme terrorist branch of the Stern gang, warned "those who may try to touch us" that "we will amputate any hand that is raised against us."

The terrorists excused Bernadotte's death by saying he did nothing about the Arab demolition of the Latrun water pumping station.

Those killed in the convoy were John Locke Lewis, Philadelphia consulting engineer who came to Israel August 19; Mrs. Jeanette

Storm Moves Into Atlantic From Florida

Damages in State Put at $25,000,000; Gales Still Rake Area

By The Associated Press

Miami, Fla., Sept. 22 (AP).—A tremendous tropical hurricane moved into the Atlantic Ocean at Jensen Beach, Fla., today after raking Cuba and south Florida and leaving at least nine persons dead.

Property damage in Florida was estimated at 25 million dollars and in Cuba at five million dollars.

Three persons were killed in the greater Miami area and six died in Cuba when the storm hit there Monday.

The ninth victim was Frank Robert Lockwood, 50, whose body was found along the Government cut entrance jetty at Miami Beach. Police said he was the victim either of drowning or a crushing blow against one of the rocks which cover the jetty.

Torrential rains that sheeted down on gusts of wind up to 160 miles an hour left some communities in its wake under water.

Gales Still Rake Florida

The Weather Bureau reported the storm was moving away from Florida in a northeasterly direction at about 12 miles an hour.

Winds in the lake region were still near hurricane intensity and forecasters warned that "all precautions should be continued in the Palm Beach-Daytona Beach area." There is an extensive area of gale winds to the rear of the storm.

Hurricane warnings are displayed from Daytona Beach to Palm Beach and storm warnings north of Daytona Beach to Charleston, S. C.

Realignment Is Proposed In Top Posts at Gallinger

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

A proposal for a realignment of the top position at the District-owned Gallinger Hospital is now being discusseed by medical leaders after receiving initial approval, The Washington Post learned last night.

The proposed shifts in the administration of Gallinger, which has been frequently criticized in the past decade, were revealed at a closed meeting in Commissioner Guy Mason's office on September 13.

At present Gallinger as used as a medical training plant by students and staff of George Washington University Medical School. Next Monday, students from Howard University Medical School will begin studies there, too.

Nineteen medical and governmental officials held a two-hour conference to discuss the substitution of the following staff arrangement for the present one:

1. Medical director, nominated by the deans of the medical schools at George Washington University, Georgetown University and Howard University, and appointed by the District Commissioners with the approval of Dr. George C. Ruhland, Health Officer.

Latest Message Said to Demand Soviet Decision On 4-Power Rule

(From Press Dispatches)

London, Sept. 22.—The Western Allies intend to stake peace on an unyielding stand in Berlin, Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin stated unmistakably today.

He told the House of Commons that the choice is "either to stand firm or turn south and go to another Munich."

Shortly afterward, a foreign office spokesman announced that Britain, the United States and France had delivered new notes on the Berlin deadlock to Moscow's envoys in the three capitals today. Their contents were not divulged.

[The United Press said the "final" note asked Russia, in effect: "Will you or will you not accept four-power control of Berlin?" The alternative to a satisfactory reply will be an appeal to the United Nations, it was believed.]

Addressing a packed and hushed House of Commons, Bevin asserted the Russians are people "from whom you cannot buy peace" with concessions.

"Berlin stands out now as the symbol of resistance—a sort of salient," he said.

Will Boost Airlift

To save that salient, he declared Britain and the United States will boost the "airlift" of food and fuel into the blockaded German capital. Most of the increased winter burden will fall on the United States.

The three Western powers are not only "in absolute agreement as to the policy of the lift and of defending ourselves in Berlin, but in the policy we shall jointly pursue if it fails," Bevin declared.

A French Foreign Ministry spokesman in Paris said the notes of the three powers were addressed to the "Kremlin" in Moscow instead of to Soviet Foreign Minister V. M. Molotov, and thus might come to the direct attention of Premier Marshal Josef Stalin.

[Acting Secretary of State Robert A. Lovett declined in Washington to discuss the notes, saying that the situation was in the hands of Secretary of State Marshall in Paris, so that there would be no confusion. Lovett told the United Press that the center of gravity had moved to Paris. He emphasized the word "gravity."]

The notes are the latest move in eight weeks of negotiations over blockaded Berlin. They were the result of consultations in Paris this week among Bevin, Marshall and French Foreign Minister Schuman and their advisers.

On Plea of Schuman

[The United Press said Marshall and Bevin agreed to one more note to Moscow on the plea of Schuman, whose insecure government wants to put off a final showdown with Russia as long as possible.]

Bevin, referring to his remarks about an unyielding stand in Berlin, commented:

"I am not saying by that that we are committed to war.

"We have not reached that stage yet."

The Foreign Secretary stood hunched over a table reading from a prepared manuscript instead of indulging in his usual extemporaneous oratory. He gave no particular emphasis either to "war" or "yet." There wasn't a s'ir in the House as he uttered the words.

"We are firmly resolved to go on with our policy," Bevin said, "and I trust we shall have the wholehearted support of the House and the nation in doing it, because I am convinced that it is essential for peace and our security for many years to come.

"We are dealing with people who are contesting it now, from whom you cannot buy peace.

"It reminds me of 1940, after Dunquerque," Bevin said. "It will be recalled that the Prime Minister at that time (Winston Churchill), discussing the position we were in, said, 'whatever you give and wherever you go to meet the demands, you cannot settle.'

"He was right. In this case, if you try going any further than you have done in making conces-

PEOPLE In The NEWS

By Sam Stavisky

It wasn't so long ago that "syphilis" was a nasty word. It was never uttered in polite society—oh, my, no!—and it was shunned by the press and on the air. Today that word, and others associated with veneral disease, are as commonplace as sex and spinach.

A soft-speaking physican, whose quiet demeanor belied his crusading spirit, wrought the change. He ripped off the veils of shame and superstition. He yanked the ugly words out into the open. He sought to stamp out the diseases.

It's been a lifetime battle for Dr. Tom Parran—as a Public Health Service doctor in the field, as director of New York State's health department, as surgeon general of the United States. It's a battle he'll continue in his new job as dean of the public health school to be set up at the University of Pittsburgh, where he'll train younger men to carry on the fight.

Thirteen years ago, Dr. Parran was kept off the air for a scheduled Nation-wide broadcast because he refused to delete "syphilis" from his manuscript. This prudishness has slowly disipated. Only a few months ago a national women's magazine heralded a frank article by Dr. Parran entitled: "We Could Banish Venereal Disease in Nine Days."

In three terms—twelve years—as Surgeon General, Tom Parran has left an indelible imprint on the sands of public health progress. He developed campaigns against cancer, tuberculosis, mental disease. He pushed medical research at the National Institute of Health, and through grants in aid, in laboratories over the country. He initiated the construction of a network of hospitals and public health facilities under the encouragement of Federal financial aid.

But Tom Parran's greatest single contribution was his leadership in developing the national program of venereal disease control.

Dr. Parran was born in Calvert County, southern Maryland, in a glazed brick house which his forefathers built in 1655. He attended St. John's College and the University of Maryland, then took his medical degree at Georgetown University. He entered the Public Health Service in 1917. Of some 60 candidates for the USPHS, only eight passed the stringent examinations, and Parran led them all.

This auspicious start was given dubious impetus some months later, when unable to obtain medical supplies for the influenza-striken workers at the Muscle Shoals dam, Tom took it on himself virtually to hijack a trainload of Army supplies to meet the emergency.

Tom was a tireless worker, though, and possessed of a photographic eye which swept innumerable details into a keen, alert mind. He had moved up to assistant surgeon general when in 1930 Gov. Franklin Delano Roosevelt asked him at the instance of a special commission, to take over direction of the Empire State's medical department. Six years later, FDR called Tom Parran to Washington to be his Surgeon General, a post he held until recently.

At 52, Dr. Parran is a dignified looking gentleman with snowy-white hair, and a mustache which is closely cropped and a little larger than Tom Dewey's. He's father of four grown boys—one a medical student—and lives with his second wife—his first died—at the Hotel Congressional, 300 New Jersey ave. se.

Tom Parran's outstanding attribute is his follow through. It was a quality he preached to his children, and taught to them through example. On several occasions, of a frosty dawn, the good doctor could have been seen plodding through the snow delivering the morning paper. His youngest son, Dickie, who ran the route, was sick.

Moral Support

Dutch Deny Indonesia Armed Aid

Amsterdam, Sept. 22 (AP).—Dutch Foreign Minister D. U. Stikker said today the Netherlands would not give military aid to the Indonesian Republic in its fight to smash a Communist-led revolt.

Stikker refused to say what kind of aid would be forthcoming.

"You can call it moral support, but the Republican Premier Mohammed Hatta needs a lot more," he added.

Stikker made the statement upon his arrival here from Washington, where he said he discussed the Communist revolt in Indonesia with Secretary of State George C. Marshall.

Yesterday Hubertus J. Van Mook, acting Governor General of the Netherlands East Indes, said all kinds of help was contemplated for the Indonesian Republic.

A Batavia dispatch said today the republican army had gained control of the situation in Sumatra after a short-lived rebellion within the ranks of the republican army.

[The Indonesians today banned public gatherings of more than 10 persons as the government completed preparations to recapture Communist-held Madiun in East Java, the United Press reported.]

Parran Pleads For Starving Tots in Asia

Atlantic City, N. J., Sept. 22 (AP). Lewis L. Strauss, a member of the Atomic Energy Commission, said today some 4000 general hospitals in the Nation are financed by a "disorganized, hand-to-mouth, insecure system."

Strauss addressed the fiftieth anniversary convention of the American Hospital Association. He shared the speakers' platform with Dr. Thomas Parran, former Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service.

Parran, who was named earlier in the day to be the first dean of a new $13,600,000 graduate school of public health at the University of Pittsburgh, reported on his recent tour of the Far East.

Strauss suggested that hospitals seek support from local tax funds rather than "fees from patients able to pay, subventions from various governmental units . . . gifts from welfare organizations, insurance and charity from religious groups and individuals."

Strauss said the hospital could be presented as a local agency similar to public schools or fire departments.

"Local general tax funds can be made available on a basis of real—not nominal—cost for indigent patients, and the Federal Government's sole role would then be to set up standards and, perhaps, to help out in an emergency," Strauss said.

Parran told the delegates the health plight of children in the Far East now is "even more desperate than in Europe." He said many areas had not yet recovered from Japanese occupation.

In his tour during the spring and summer, Parran said major requests were for medical supplies, drugs to treat tropical diseases, malaria control, laboratory equipment, the training of native personnel and dry milk.

U. S. Businessmen Seek Trade Speedup in Japan

Tokyo, Sept. 22 (AP).—American businessmen indicated today they may go over General MacArthur's head to congressional groups in an effort to speed up trade methods in Japan.

The newly formed American Chamber of Commerce outlined the move at its last meeting. However, the group resolved to attempt to settle its business problems here first in a meeting with Maj Gen. W. F. Marquat, head of the Allied economic scientific section.

Parran to Head New School

DR. THOMAS PARRAN
Gets new assignment

Pittsburgh, Sept. 22 (AP).—The University of Pittsburgh today was given $13,600,000 by hte A. W. Mellon Educational and Charitable Trust for a new graduate school of public health to be headed by Dr. Thomas Parran, former Surgeon General of the United States Public Health Service.

The graduate school will emphasize occupational and industrial health and hygiene and do basic research in all phases of public health.

Paul Mellon, one of the fund's trustees, said "the project is conceived as a nucleus from which, through extensive research and the association of others active in the field, there will evolve a great institute of preventive medicine for the betterment of health conditions."

Mellon is a son of former United States Secretary of the Treasury Andrew W. Mellon, whose money set up the trust.

Mellon described the school's goal as "world leadership in industrial and occupational health and in other fields of preventive medicine."

A university statement said the school will train physicians in public health work and conduct basic research. It will be a post-graduate to the medical school.

South Korean Sees Dodge in Russian Offer

By The Associated Press

The personal representative of the President of the new Korean government said yesterday a Russian offer to quit Korea is a "clever dodge" to touch off civil war.

Dr. Pyung-ok Chough, arriving at the head of a Korean mission, said south Koreans hope United States occupation forces "will remain for the time being."

"We can't afford to have those forces withdrawn now,' he said. "The Russian plan is to leave north Korea and have the Red-trained north Korean army attempt to overrun the whole country. Those forces are estimated at from 200,000 to 300,000 men.

"Our defense forces in the south number about 60,000. It is questionable whether we can hold off the northern Red-traind army, but we will fight to the last."

He estimated it would take the south about two years more to train a force of "something more than 100,000 men."

If all Korea shoul go Communist, he said, "the whole of the Orient would be endangered."

Chough said he hopes to see President Truman soon and also make plans for establishing a Korean Embassy in Washington and consulates in other cities.

Note to Soviet Held 'One More Chance'

By Walter Kerr

Paris, Sept. 22 (NYHT).—The United States, Britain and France sent to the Soviet Union tonight a note insisting upon an early settlement of the German problem food blockade of Berlin.

The text was not made public, but it followed the line of western thinking that has been developed here in two meetings of the Foreign Ministers of the three Western powers. It was handed simultaneously to the Russian Ambassadors in Washington, London and Paris.

For this reason, it seems obvious that United States Secretary of State George C. Marshall, Ernest Bevin, British Foreign Secretary, and Robert Schuman, French Foreign Minister, are giving the Russians one more chance.

Alone Blocking Agreement

Apparently the Soviet Union is being told that only the Soviet Union is blocking four-power agreemen on Germany.

The Russians are being informed that the issue will be brought before the United Nations unless they give a clear indication that it is possible to reach an understanding on quadripartite control of the Soviet mark in Berlin.

According to French and British sources, the Western powers asked for a quick, simple reply.

This response, in their opinion, must indicate it is possible to come to some sort of an understanding with regard to Berlin—that further delay is out of the question—and that it is not necessary to raise the problem in public debate before an international body.

Insist on Four-Way Control

The Western powers are looking for only one thing—a statement that the use of the Soviet mark in Berlin will be subject to effective quadripartite control.

The effectiveness of control presumably was the stumbling block in negotiation that has gone on for close to two months. It is said that the Russians agreed to raise the food blockade if the United States, Britain and France accepted the Soviet mark as the sole currency of the former German capital. The three states agreed, on the condition the mark be under four-power direction, but apparently it was impossible to come to an understanding when the time came to define that control.

'Disunited' Laughter . . .

Associated Press Radiophoto

LIGHT MOMENT—Tense though the world situation may be, Warren R. Austin (right), head of the United Nations American delegation, and Andrei Y. Vishinsky (seated), Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister, enjoyed a laugh yesterday at the afternoon session of the United Nations General Assembly in Paris. Vishinsky charged at the day-old Assembly meeting that certain powers are attempting to create a "disunited nations."

'Final' Notes Sent Kremlin

sions of territory, it does not satisfy the demands.

"There is the conflict," he said. "We have to make our own position firm and secure. Berlin stands out now as the symbol of resistance—a sort of salient."

As to the dangers of firmness in Berlin, Bevin said, "We want to fight nobody."

But, he declared, "I felt that when the blockade was put on a grave choice had to be made. We made it. . . .

"I believe east and west has got to live together. I am ready to live together and ready to say, 'You live in peace in the idea you have got.'"

He argued, however, that when "people are upsetting your institutions and doing everything in order to promote expansion at a very cheap price—without war—that is a situation which, whoever occupies these (government) benches, I am certain in the name of Great Britain I cannot accept."

In the absence of Winston Churchill, R. A. Butler, Conservative former cabinet member, lined the opposition up with Bevin's declarations.

"If that represents the policy of the government," Butler said, Bevin "can go back to Paris and tell them there that we shall back him to put that sort of policy through."

Earlier Bevin had apologized to the House for disappointing its hopes of getting a review of the talks with Molotov. "The stage is not reached when it is possible to make known the results," Bevin said.

Western officials make no secret that they set no great store in the effects of an appeal to the U. N., where they might score a victory in debate but still be blockaded in Berlin.

The new notes to Moscow were described in Paris as asking for a clearcut answer on the Berlin currency question. Bevin said the Western powers were ready to have the Russian mark as the only Berlin currency, but it must be under four-power control. The question of control was what prevented agreement being reached among the four military governors after seven meetings in Berlin earlier this month.

To deal with the currency question any other way, Bevin said, would mean the West would be "subject to pressure just as bad as the blockade itself."

German Reds Called to Meet On Strategy

From Press Dispatches

Berlin, Sept. 22.—Berlin's political situation today apparently forced German Communists to call a new and perhaps significant strategy meeting.

Press reports in western Berlin said the Russians have summoned German Communist chiefs to Soviet headquarters at Potsdam, Friday.

Without elaboration, the Soviet press warned that the strong anti-Communist situation in western Berlin would not be tolerated for long.

The warning came as Ferdinand Friedensburg, acting Mayor of Berlin appealed to Col. Serge Tulpanov, Russian propaganda chief in Germany, to establish better relations between the Soviet occupation power and the German people.

Blaming Soviet sector police for recent rioting, Friedensburg declared that "a really free and politically and economically independent Germany will be a friend of the Soviet Union."

London, Sept. 22 (U.P.).—British Foreign Secretary Bevin and United States Secretary of State Marshall will work out a compromise on German reparations and factory dismantling soon in Paris, informed sources said today.

The United States says the dismantling should cease in the interest of the European recovery program.

Britain is continuing to dismantle some of the 496 plants in her zone. France has 176 German plants listed for dismantling.

In the Commons today, Bevin said:

"I know it is argued that to pull down plants in Germany and at the same time to build up production so as to make Europe more self-supporting seems contradictory. But there is really no inconsistency in it. Germany's industrial capacity today is in excess of her basic needs. There are large sections in industry not affected by the reparations program which are lying idle or working at half strength."

(At Brussels, Belgium, the Inter-Allied Reparations Agency today allocated 53 German plants to member governments. The United States received one plant at Hedderheim. Britain received three plants. France received nine plants and the Netherlands received four.)

Russia, Poland Win Places On U. N. Steering Committee

Paris, Sept. 22 (AP).—Soviet Russia and Communist-ruled Poland won vice presidencies in United Nations voting today, giving the Slav bloc two places on the powerful 14-Nation Steering Committee of the Assembly.

High U. N. sources expressed relief. A move had been reported under way to freeze the Russians out of the steering committee. The Russians were pictured as ready to protest bitterly if denied places on the Steering Committee.

China, France, Britain, the United States and Mexico were other nations chosen by the delegates to name vice presidents.

The steering committee is made up of the U. N. president, six committee chairmen and the seven vice presidents.

Dr. Herbert V. Evatt of Australia, candidate of the British Commonwealths and foe of the veto, was elected president yesterday.

The six committee chairmen also were chosen from nations outside Russia's sphere. A Tass dispatch from Paris, published in Moscow, today complained that "the Anglo-American bloc" prevented any Slav representative from being named chairman of a major U. N. committee.

Tass said the British-American bloc "does not hesitate once again to violate one of the basic principles of the United Nations, that which demands that in setting up committees, representation should be one of a geographical character."

A source close to President Evatt said there had been a move under way by some delegates to squeeze the Russian bloc out of the steering committee, as the Slav states had been frozen out of committee chairmanships.

This source said, however, it would have been contrary to U. N. principles to deny the Soviet bloc seats on the steering committee. Thus, when the move became evident, Evatt adjourned the session yesterday, putting over the election to today and permitting a geographical distribution of the seven seats, the informant said.

Even so, Poland nearly lost the seat. She was elected by 1 vote over the necessary 27.

Only 53 valid votes were cast, making 27 votes necessary for a simple majority. China polled 46 votes; France, 44; Russia, Britain and the United States, 41 each; Mexico, 29, and Poland, 28.

It was traditional for the big five powers to win vice presidencies.

The steering committee is made up of the following: President, Dr. Herbert V. Evatt, deputy Prime Minister and Foreign Minister of Australia; vice presidents, Dr. Wang Shih-Chieh, Chinese Foreign Minister; George C. Marshall, United States Secretary of State; Robert Schuman, French Foreign Minister; Ernest Bevin, British Foreign Secretary; Andrei Y. Vishinsky, Soviet Vice Minister of Foreign Affairs; Dr. Luis Padilla Nervo, permanent Mexican Ambassador to the United Nations; and Zygmunt Modzelewski, Polish Foreign Minister; and the six chairmen of the main assembly committees, Paul-Henri Spaak, Belgian Premier (political), Hernan Santa Cruz, Chile (economic), Charles Malik, Lebanon (social), Nazrollah Entezam, Iran (trusteeship), Dana Wilgress, Canada (financial), Dr. Ricardo Alfaro, Panama (legal).

Post Doubles Paris Shipment

Airmail shipments of The Washington Post to Paris will be increased to meet demands which brought a quick sellout in the first day of the transatlantic service.

Reports that Monday's inaugural Paris delivery was sold out within a short time after its arrival resulted yesterday in a decision to double shipments of the special edition, which is being flown daily to the French capital for delegates to the United Nations General Assembly there.

The overseas edition, which consists of the complete first section of The Washington Post's daily final edition, is being distributed in Paris through Nouvelles Messageries de la Presse Parisienne, a French news agency. On Sunday the editorial section is sent along with the main news section. Copies are delivered to Paris by Trans-World Airlines, and then distributed to newsstands at the United Nations General Assembly and hotels housing the delegates.

Hungary Accuses Two U. S. Oil Men

Budapest, Hungary, Sept. 22 (U.P.).—The ministry of interior said today that two Americans and four Hungarians had confessed sabotage by reducing oil production after Hungary was liberated from the Nazis.

A ministry communique said the six had been placed under "investigation arrest" last Saturday and that all had admitted they received and executed orders to sabotage oil production. The communique said they ordered drilling in places where they knew oil would not be found.

The Americans involved are Karl Ruedemann, Hartsdale, N. Y., and George Bannentine, St. Louis, president and vice president respectively of the Hungarian-American Oil Co., a subsidiary of the Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey.

It was understood that United States Minister Selden Chapin had protested the arrests.

Nominees Sought For Queen of D. C. Home Show

Church, school, civic and women's organizations yesterday were asked to sponsor nominees for queen of the National Capital Home Show Exposition October 16-24.

Pearson

James W. Pearson, executive director of the exposition, said a picture and letter about each nominee should be sent to the Home Show Exposition headquarters, Room 426, Investment Building, Washington, D. C., before October 22.

Judging, he said, will be based on general appearance, personality, and achievements in homemaking, business or government, and not mere beauty. Age also will be no factor. The winner will receive a $3500 all-aluminum vacation cottage with furniture and bathroom and kitchen equipment.

The home exposition will be held here at the National Guard Armory.

Czech Officer Sentenced to Hang as Spy

Prague, Czechoslovakia, Sept. 22 (U.P.).—A captain in the Czechoslovak army charged with delivering secret military information to British agents has been sentenced to hang, Prague Radio announced tonight.

The government-controlled broadcast identified the defendant as Staff Capt. Rudolf Hrazdilek.

The radio declared Hrazdilek had confessed that he "cooperated with British agents, and furnished them with secret military reports vital to the defense of the republic."

A government communique also announced the arrest of more than 30 alleged spies, including three said to have been trained and transported to Czechoslovakia by the American Counter-Intelligence Corps in Germany.

An earlier similar charge was denied by Gen. Lucius D. Clay's office in Frankfurt.

The Czech communique said those arrested were members of "a widespread espionage network" organized by Josef Novotny, former official in the ministry of information who fled to Germany after the February Communist coup.

U. S. Fleet Gets Orders

London, Sept. 22 (U.P.).—The American fleet based in Europe has been given new instructions to cover any possible emergency in the near future.

This became known today as the Eastern Atlantic and Mediterranean fleet massed at Gibraltar for its periodic rotation of warships assigned to the vital area.

Fourteen cruisers, destroyers and the 27,500-ton aircraft carrier Kearsarge are being relieved by somewhat heavier forces, including the 45,000-ton carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt.

Naval quarters described the changeover of warships as in line with previously announced policy, but other sources believed it was significant that the Roosevelt, which handles heavy bombers, replaced the lighter Kearsarge.

The new ships began arriving at Gibraltar September 10, the day Admiral Richard Conolly, commander of the fleet, and several members of his staff flew to Washington for important conferences on "current operational problems."

The role of the fleet, in event an invading power should sweep across Europe to the shores of the North Sea, the Atlantic and the Mediterranean, was discussed and established at these meetings, reliable sources said.

Conolly, who returned from conferences only last night, announced today he will leave Thursday to spend five weeks with the fleet in the Mediterranean and that the heavy cruiser Columbus will be his permanent flagship.

Conolly will observe tactical exercises by the Sixth Task Fleet under Vice Admiral Forrest P. Sherman and will visit several Mediterranean ports.

The Navy is believed to be operating on the theory that in any war in the foreseeable future it would face no particular danger from surface craft but would have to combat a large number of seagoing submarines of the most modern types.

Russia, for instance, is reported building such submarines in quantity.

The Navy is believed figuring that if it got into action its main job would be anti-submarine warfare, to keep supply lines open. It figures also it might have to serve temporarily as a bomb launching base.

The British navy is beginning to build up its own home waters fleet. W. J. Edwards, civil lord of the Admiralty, told the House of Commons today that Britain has speeded up the refitting of destroyers and escort vessels.

Navy Denies Fleet Strength Increased

The United States Navy last night denied London reports that it was increasing its fleet strength in Mediterranean and European waters.

"We are relieving ship for ship the Mediterranean Fleet in routine fashion," said a Navy spokesman.

He described Admiral Richard J. Conolly's trip to Washington as "routine" and they take place every two or three months.

As for Admiral Conolly taking new orders to Europe with him, the Navy spokesman said, "The Navy's mission is to be ready for an emergency at all times."

British Governor in Germany Calls 4-Power Rule Failure

Paris, Sept. 22 (AP).—Britain's military governor for Germany declared today that four power control of Germany "has failed."

The governor, Lieut. Gen. Sir Brian Robertson called it a "bold experiment" and added: "A new approach is needed. Even if Gen. Lucius D. Clay (the United States military governor) and I alone were administering the country together we would fail, not only because of our differences but also because our governments have different views about running countries," he said.

Robertson said Britain and the United States are aware of what risks lie in German economic recovery, but he asked if western Europe can be secure "merely because Germany remains impotent and weak."

"If we want to feel secure," he added, "we in western Europe have got to be strong ourselves, and if necessary fight for the things we hold dear. If western Europe is ready to do this, aggression will not come from Germany nor from anywhere else."

Robertson declared "it would be wrong to withdraw the western forces occupying Germany until peace is secure."

He referred to an editorial in Taeglische Rundschau, official newspaper of the Russians in Berlin, which said yesterday the Russians want to see all occupation troops get out of Germany.

"It would also be a mistake to remove the occupation forces until we are sure the Germans are able to construct a form of government and life in accordance with the wishes of the people and not in accordance with the desires of a small but well-organized minority," Robertson told British and American newsmen.

By "well-organized minority," Robertson obviously meant the German Communists.

"All Germans are united about one thing and that is the unity of their country," Robertson said. "They will never be satisfied until they get it.

Radar Firm Head Heard by Probers

By Mary Spargo
Post Reporter

Samuel Novick, president of the Electronics Corp. of America, yesterday was questioned in secret session before the House Committee on Un-American Activities which is currently looking into Communist espionage in atomic energy and related fields.

Novick denied under oath that he was a member of the Communist Party and answered all questions asked in what a committee member described as "after a fashion."

His company which manufactures radar equipment boomed during the war years from a $50,000 outfit to a six million dollar one.

Before going in to his own company, Novick was a director of the People's Radio Foundation, which was established by the late Joseph R. Brodsky, well-known Communist attorney.

The Daily Worker of May 3, 1946, carried a message of greeting from Novick. Novick also contributed $300 to the American-Russian Institute and was a director of it. Courses sponsored by the American-Russian Institute were barred from the New York Public Schools on December 12, 1947.

On December 12, 1945, Novick was the sponsor of a dinner for American Youth for Democracy, which is a successor to the Young Communist League.

He was also treasurer of the American Committee for Spanish Freedom on January 21, 1946.

During the war years in his radar, Novick employed Carl Bristol, important Communist and one-time manager of the New Masses, a Communist publication.

Novick spent two hours before the House Un-American Activities subcommittee testifying on the spy case.

The subcommittee was inquiring into Communist attempts to steal radar as well as atomic secrets during the war.

The New Yorker's firm produces radios, radar equipment and public address systems.

Representative John McDowell (R., Pa.) said that Novick gave "highly important evidence to corroborate the story we have put together."

Novick appeared to be in a belligerent mood when he entered the hearing room.

A photographer raised his camera to take a picture and Novick cocked his right fist as if he were going to throw a punch. The cameraman shot the picture. Novick dropped his clenched fist and went on into the room.

On his way out, Novick was more tractable. He posed cheerfully for the photographers, along with his attorney, Jack Last of New York.

Novick refused to discuss his testimony, however.

McDowell said other "important" witnesses would be heard behind closed doors Thursday. He indicated that the full committee would meet Friday to consider his proposal that the Justice Department be asked to seek espionage indictments against three persons who have testified in the spy hearings.

McDowell said Tuesday he believes the committee has amassed enough evidence to warrant prosecutions.

He declined to name the three, but said two of them are scientists who worked on the wartime atomic bomb project. The third, he said, is not a scientist and was not connected with the project.

14 Killed, 47 Hurt by Cairo Bomb

Cairo, Egypt, Sept. 22 (U.P.)—Fourteen persons were killed and 47 others were wounded when a bomb exploded in Cairo's Mouski quarter today. The blast touched off disorders that approached riot proportions.

Police said Jews fired into the crowd that gathered after the explosion, causing bystanders to attack the Jews and raid nearby Jewish-owned shops.

Police said 10 Jews, two Moslems and two unidentified persons were killed. Among them were three women.

The bomb exploded inside a Jewish house, police said, but it was not explained whether the bomb went off accidentally or was planted there. Two houses in the ancient quarter were destroyed and a third was damaged.

Police cordoned off the explosion site and brought the crowd under control.

French Set Elections For October

Paris, Sept. 22 (NYHT).—The French National Assembly tonight reversed itself and voted, 284 to 271, to hold local elections next month.

Earlier, a motion by the Socialists to postpone the elections until next spring was defeated by a vote of 319 to 255.

Twice before, the Assembly had supported the Socialist proposal to postpone the elections.

The reversal and defeat of the Socialists on whose support Premier Henrie Queuille's government depends, confused the complicated position of the coalition. Some observers saw the vote as a blow to Queuille's government.

Parliamentary observers believed the Socialists—whose parliamentary support Premier Queuille must have to continue in power—would launch a campaign for wage increases the Premier thinks excessive in order to attract labor support and cover up their parliamentary defeat on the election proposal.

Such a division between the Socialists and the Radical-Socialists (to which Queuille belongs) could lead to the resignation of the government, according to parliamentary observers.

The Premier and his ministers met tonight to consider the wage demands from a united labor front—both Communist and non-Communist trade unions.

[The Associated Press reported that a press spokesman for Gen. Charles de Gaulle today ridiculed charges made by a cabinet minister that the general's Rightist Rally of the French People (RPF) has the nucleus of a private army.

[But the spokesman, Diomede Catroux, said De Gaulle has a number of "militants" whose job is to keep the Communists from breaking up the general's political rallies.

[The charges were made by Interior Minister Jules Moch.

Britain Joins U. S. in Support Of Bernadotte

Paris, Sept. 22 (AP).—Britain lined up with the United States today in support of the late Count Folke Bernadotte's recommendations for establishing peace in the Holy Land.

The French were expected also to indorse the proposals of the slain mediator. This would unite for the first time the three big Western powers on a specific plan to end Palestine strife.

A Soviet spokesman said the Russian attitude would be made known soon.

Israel said it could not accept the full Bernadotte report to the U. N. General Asembly without study.

Arab delegations earlier had rejected the report.

Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin delivered the British pledge to support the Bernadotte plan to the Commons in London.

American support was voiced here yesterday by Secretary of State Marshall.

Bevin declared the assassination of Bernadotte was an attempt to prevent successful completion of his task and added:

"The best way for us to commemorate his death is to complete his work on the basis of the proposals which he put forward just before his death."

He said Britain is "squarely behind the mediator's recommendations" in their entirety.

[Asked if that involved recognition of the state of Israel, Bevin backed away and said, "We shall have to consider subsequent developments," according to the New York Herald Tribune.]

Bevin's statement apparently represented a far-reaching change in policy.

An Israeli spokesman said Israel was concerned over two of Bernadotte's recommendations, internationalization of Jerusalem and giving the southern Negeb to the Arabs.

Civil Rights Group Advocates Wide Powers for President

Members of a Civil Rights Congress group first denied, later admitted to a press conference yesterday that as American citizens they believe the President should have unlimited power to set aside indictments and declare laws unconstitutional.

The group had earlier presented a petition to presidential aide Philleo Nash and to the Department of Justice asking Attorney General Tom C. Clark to dismiss the indictments against 12 national leaders of the Communist Party under the Smith Act.

Led by Thomas G. Buchanan, executive director of the local Civil Rights Congress, who was recently discharged by the Washington Evening Star for membership in the Communist Party, four trade union leaders held a press conference in the office of Representative Vito Marcantonio (ALP, N. Y.).

The four were Dan Turner of Baltimore, a member of the National Union of Marine Cooks and Stewards; Joseph Flanagan, business representative of Local 6, Hotel and Club Employes, New York City; Helen Mangold, president of Local 19, UOPWA, New York City, and Walter Balasq, organizerd for Local 735, United Electrical Workers Union of Cleveland, Ohio.

All said they were not representing their unions but were merely present as members of the Civil Rights group. Miss Mangold said the stewards of her local had authorized her appearance in Washington but admitted that the local as a whole had held no referendum.

Asked by a reporter if he really believed the President could dismiss court indictments and even declare unconstitutional and set aside a law, Flanagan at first hesitated and then finally said he did not believe so.

Later another reporter read from the prepared statement the group had handed out at the press conference with the following sentence:

"We call upon you, Mr. President, to dismiss the indictments of the 12 Communist leaders, and to uphold the constitutional right of the American voters to be the sole judge of the program of any political party—including the Communist Party."

He asked if Flanagan stood by his earlier statement or by the prepared document. Flanagan finally said he retracted his earlier statement.

He said he would stand instead upon the prepared statement.

Miss Mangold said that Nash, however, had acknowledged that the Department of Justice did have the power to quash the indictments of the 12 Communist leaders.

Buchanan said the Civil Rights Congress believed the Smith Act, under which the 12 indictments were returned, to be unconstitutional.

He also said that Nash listened most attentively to the group and said that he was sure the President would reply to the petition of the group.

A petition which members of the group said bore the signatures of 1100 trade union leaders was presented at the White House by a delegation headed by New York State Senator Kenneth Sherbell protesting the indictment of the 12 Communists.

Ambush Takes Four Lives

Van Vriesland, widow of Siegfried van Vriesland; Balfour Cohen, commander of the Jewish convoy, and Givriel Eliasberg, Israeli soldier accompanying Lewis.

United States sources said the convoy had a white-painted U. N. jeep in front.

U. N. observers at Latrun Monastery said the ysaw Arab Legion soldiers doing the firing.

The incident occurred shortly after Dr. Ralph Bunche, acting mediator, boldly entered Jerusalem for the first time since Count Bernadotte's death. He flew from Haifa to Kalandia Airport in the Arab section and then crossed the Jewish lines under heavy police escort.

Disolution of Irgun Zvai Leumi continued on schedule as dissident soldiers flocked to the recruitment center to enroll in the Israeli army.

Brother of Victim Lives in Washington

Mr. Lewis' brother, H. O. Lewis, 72, a retired engineer with the Montgomery County government, lives at 202 Ascot pl. ne.

Mr. Lewis expected to leave Jerusalem for America on Saturday, he said.

The ambush victim was formerly employed by the Pennsylvania Railroad and had gone abroad as a consulting engineer on railroad construction and dock work as a representative of Knappen, Tibbetts & Abbett Engineering Co. of New York, his brother said.

He was 55 years old and lived on North 62d st., Philadelphia. Surviving, besides his brother here, are his wife and three sisters who live in Carlisle, Pa.

Chilean Reds' Labor Control Declared Lost

Santiago, Chile, Sept. 22 (U.P.).—President Gabriel Gonzalez Videla said today the Communist Party hos lost control of the Chilean working class and will be unable to carry on its "antipatriotic and antinational work."

Referring to Communist charge that his government is a dictatorship, Gonzalez said:

"I don't know that you call a dictatorship a government that goes before Parliament, chosen in free and honest elections, to ask for the legal tools it needs to defend the democratic principles upon which our republic rests."

rolled into Sacramento, the Golden State's capital, this afternoon, a large crowd was waiting at the station.

Mr. Truman, chuckling, noted that it was even larger than the one that turned out for him on his "nonpolitical" tour last June.

He did not mention a remark that he made in Sacramento on that occasion—that Gov. Earl Warren was "a good Democrat" but didn't know it. Warren, who became the Republican nominee for Vice President a couple of weeks later, was campaigning in the Midwest today.

Urges All to Vote

Mr. Truman charged that the Republicans in Congress had been the obedient servants of the power lobby and big business. He said that if he hadn't been in the White House, "those birds would have taken it all."

California Democrats admitted to newspapermen that the President was an "underdog" in this State, but said that he was "coming up." The biggest blow to his chances came, they said, when popular Governor Warren was named as Governor Dewey's running mate.

They conceded, too, that Henry Wallace will poll a sizeable vote in California, most of it damaging to Mr. Truman.

Stopping off in Reno on his way to San Francisco, the Chief Executive told how the men controlling the Eightieth Congress had blocked action on housing and other administrative measures.

"They're a bunch of old mossbacks, living in the 1890's," he said.

He told a crowd standing in front of Reno's famous courthouse that if the country voted Republican next November, it would get "more Wolcotts, Tabers, Allens and Martins."

Fresh as a Daisy

He was referring to Representative Jesse Wolcott of Michigan, chairman of the House Banking committee; Representative John Taber of New York, chairman of the Appropriations Committee; Representative Leo Allen of Pennsylvania, chairman of the Rules Committee, and Speaker Joe Martin.

Mr. Truman made his first speech this morning in Sparks, Nev. He looked as fresh as the proverbial daisy and was in a fighting mood.

Speaking from a flag-draped stand near the railroad tracks, he said the Democratic Party was for the people while the GOP was dedicated to looking out for the special interests.

"The Republican leaders," he said, "believe that there ought to be a ruling class that gets the best of everything and lets just a little trickle down to the small merchant, the farmer and the working man."

He told those in the crowd that if they voted Republican and got another Congress like the Eightieth, they would get just what they deserved. As always, this evoked applause.

Veiled Attack on Dewey

Here, too, he renewed his veiled attacks on Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, the Republican presidential nominee.

"You won't get any double talk from me," he said, referring to the GOP opposition. "But I fear it will be a long time before you know what they believe."

Mr. Truman and his entourage motored from Sparks to Reno, while the 17-car special train went on ahead.

Going through Reno, the caravan passed over the Truckee River, where the freshly divorced throw their wedding rings. Then came the famous arch with its slogan: "Biggest Little City in the World."

Gambling casinos lined the streets on either side of Mr. Truman, and in the midst of them was an establishment with a sign, "Money to loan."

The crowds that gathered for the President's speech in Reno was, for the most part, friendly and in a mood to applaud.

Dissidents Show Up

However, it included one dissident group. It was made up of a group of University of Nevada students carrying a Confederate flag and a placard that described them as "The Young Dixiecrats of America." They said they were from Florida, Georgia, Virginia and Alabama, and were so much opposed to Mr. Truman's civil rights program that they were rooting for the Thurmond-Wright ticket.

There was one woman who, apparently, did not even know Mr. Truman was in Reno. She was busy putting coins in a sidewalk slot machine, and didn't even look up as the caravan passed.

Mr. Truman made his first California talk in the town of Truckee. At the outset, he told the crowd that he wanted to present "the boss" and he called Mrs. Truman to the rear platform. Then he introduced Margaret.

"I'm awfully glad to have so many people in California turn out to see the next President," he said.

This was the first time he had made such a claim on this barnstorming tour, although he did it frequently when he was out this way last June.

Primary Victim

Stevenson Of Wisconsin Is Defeated

Milwaukee, Sept. 22 (AP).—A 59-year-old drug chain owner and a 34-year-old former Army sergeant will fight it out for Wisconsin's governorship in November.

Stevenson

The odds will be overwhelmingly in favor of the drug executive, Oscar Rennebohm, the present chief executive and Republican Party victor in Wisconsin's primary election yesterday.

His opponent will be Carl W. Thompson, young Stroughton attorney and hope of the Democrats.

The Republican primary produced only one upset, the unseating in his race for renomination of Representative William H. Stevenson, Third District representative for eight years. He trailed former Congressman Gardner Withrow by 1300 votes with only 5 of the district's 372 precincts missing.

Representative Alvin E. O'Konski, who with eight of the State's 10 Congressmen had opposition, had been pressed by Charles Madsen in the Tenth District, but with 370 of 404 precincts reporting, O'Konski's lead was nearly 2500 votes and he appeared sure of renomination. Other incumbents were renominated easily.

Rennebohm won the nomination by beating Ralph M. Immell, of Madison, a former Progressive, State Adjutant General and an Army general in the European theater during the Second World War.

La. Assembly Is Convened

the proposed legislation would allow Louisiana supporters of the President, from the ranks of organized labor or elsewhere, to qualify Truman elector candidates whether or not the National Committee chose to do so.

Governor Long, whose heavy-taxing, big-spending program rode through this year's regular legislative session on more than comfortable majorities, faced his first special session test confidently.

He spoke at a press conference as though his recommendations were certain of approval. They include, besides the presidential issue, increased appropriations for free school lunches, and for State institutions—but no new State taxes.

Also proposed were outright repeal of the already amended State civil service law and a chance for New Orleans to restore the city sales tax reduced by the Legislature this year.

Truman Gains in California, But Wallace Vote Is Barrier

Mr. Wallace were to withdraw from the race and if the bulk of his supporters went over to Mr. Truman, in preference to Governor Dewey, the race in California would be a photo finish, judging by the survey results.

California is Mr. Wallace's second strongest State among those reported so far by the Institute. He runs his best race in New York, where he polls 14 per cent, most of it coming from New York City. In the other States thus far reported—Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio, Missouri and South Carolina—the Wallace vote ranges from less than 1 per cent up to 3 per cent.

Institute reports will give the political situation in all the 48 States as the campaign proceeds. Of the seven States reported so far, Governor Dewey leads in five, New York, Pennsylvania, New Jersey, Ohio and California, while President Truman is ahead in one, Missouri, and Gov. J. Strom Thurmond in one, his home State of South Carolina.

In their simultaneous invasion of California the two major party candidates will cross paths in the southern part of State. Moving down the State from San Francisco, President Truman is scheduled to give a major address at San Diego on September 24. The Dewey campaign train will enter the State from Arizona and Governor Dewey's first major speech will be in Los Angeles, also on September 24, after which he will proceed to San Francisco for another address September 25.

Dewey Asks Cuts In Spending, Taxes

"there are too many Federal jobs. And that fact is not a red herring. There is too much loose and sloppy budgeting, too little business management and too much plain waste."

Dewey said individuals and Government alike must "spend as little as possible . . . pay our debts as much as possible."

Once again taking up the cudgels for the Eightieth Congress, he defended its veto-overriding slash in taxes and said further revision will help ward off a depression.

With national income at a peak, he argued, America can build up its military strength, reduce the national debt and still make taxes "less of a burden on our people and less of a throttle to their enterprise."

But he strictly conditioned any promise of tax or price relief to "events in distant parts of the world" and warned that peace is threatened by "slick and ruthless Communist revolutionaries."

"We are facing another program of totalitarian aggression which again menaces our freedom and security," he said.

Dewey said Premier Stalin has set out in a $2.50 book "how Communists are to be trained to sneak in positions of power and then to use them to liquidate their opponents by terrorism and by force."

And like Pat Hurley, whom he is pushing for the Senate against former Secretary of Agriculture Clinton P. Anderson, he said America must give more than "mere relief" to China.

Dewey chose Albuquerque to throw his full backing behind the western union idea.

Speaking of United States' assistance to Europe he said:

"This aid cannot be a program of mere relief. In Europe it must be the means of bringing unity. The nations of western Europe, together with western Germany, have a population almost twice as large as that of the United States. Divided into 16 separate and weak nations, each one is a constant invitation to attack. But united in a strong federation of free nations, they could be an enormous bulwark to peace. Here is our magnificent opportunity, to use our aid to bring about such a federation. That would be the greatest feat in the history of diplomacy and a landmark in the history of freedom.

"With unity among our people, with a government that will face the facts and is able to meet them, with the conduct of our foreign affairs in the hands of the ablest Americans, with an administration that knows how to work with Congress and works with it, with these things I firmly believe we can wage the peace as successfully as we waged the war."

Hurley rode with Dewey through New Mexico and presented him at some of the stops. Republican chances of annexing the Democratic Senate seat being vacated by Senator Carl Hatch are still rated a toss-up. As in Colorado, here the Democratic Senate nominee plainly has the present edge. Today's coat-tail swing is designed to drive home the "Dewey's in and he needs me" theme of the GOP Senate drive.

En route to Albuquerque, Dewey addressed station-side crowds of from 2000 to 5000 at Trinidad, Colo., and Raton, N. Mex. At Las Vegas, El Capitan, the Santa Fe's crack streamliner from Chicago, pulled up alongside the Dewey Special and the passengers listened to his speech. At Lamay, N. Mex., Governor Dewey and his party left the train for a motor parade to Santa Fe, where the Governor addressed a rally in the Seth Hall gymnasium.

In his rear platform and trackside talks, Dewey is still using the "let's get acquainted" approach, packing little news into his informal chats. He repeats everywhere his Washington "unsnarling, untangling, housecleaning" pledge, and it always gets the best hand.

Nothing High Hat . . .

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

ROLLING NEWS CONFERENCE 'CASUALTY'—Republican Presidential Candidate Thomas E. Dewey looks ruefully upon his grey felt hat on which he unknowingly sat during a news conference aboard his special campaign train. The reporters were amused. Among them, The Washington Post's political reporter, Robert C. Albright (center, background).

Brannan Asks Dewey To Be More Definite

Denver, Sept. 22 (U.P.).—Agriculture Secretary Charles F. Brannan today asked GOP presidential candidate Gov. Thomas E. Dewey to be more definite about what he wants to do for the farmer.

Dewey has indorsed Government price supports in "only the vaguest and most indefinite statements," Brannan said in a statement.

The Agriculture Secretary is attending a conservation conference here.

"The farmers of the country have awaited with interest the recent speeches of Mr. Dewey as he shadows President Truman across the principal food-producing sections in the hope that he would disclose his views on major farm programs," Brannan said.

He said Dewey has failed to:

1. Say at what level he would establish price supports.

2. Offer a solution to the present abnormal potato price support situation.

3. Defend the price support program against "the vicious and wholly false accusations" that it has contributed to the high cost of living.

Injunction to Bar Johnson From Ballot Granted

Fort Worth, Tex., Sept. 22 (AP).—Federal Judge T. Whitfield Davidson today granted a temporary injunction barring Lyndon Johnson's name from the November general election ballot in Texas.

The injunction suit was brought by former Gov. Coke Stevenson, Johnson's opponent in the Texas August 28 Democratic Party primary election for nomination to the United States Senate.

The judge continued a restraining order which has kept Johnson's name from being printed on the official ballot for the November 2 general election. Johnson now is a United States Representative.

Barkley Urges A Big Vote

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 22 (AP).—Senator Alben W. Barkley urged labor tonight to get out a big vote in November to strike down a growing threat to "progress and liberalism."

The Democratic vice presidential nominee heavily stressed labor's gains under Democratic administrations in a speech delivered at the Connecticut State Federation of Labor convention here.

It was his first campaign speech in Republican New England and followed a one-day swing through agricultural Delaware.

"Labor has too much at stake in this election to allow anything whatsoever to prevent it from marshalling its forces on November 2 and marching to the polls in an unprecedented array," he said.

"Labor must not only vote itself. It must see to it that its friends vote. It must organize its campaign to the most minute detail. It must leave nothing to chance."

Barkley received here one of the biggest and noisiest ovations of his current swing. The convention crowd, limited to 350 by fire laws, made up in enthusiasm what it lacked in numbers.

The longest ovation came when he reiterated his party's opposition to the Taft-Hartley law and its determination to fight for its repeal.

Warren Urges 2-Way Street Foreign Policy

Louisville, Ky., Sept. 22 (AP).—Gov. Earl Warren asserted tonight that America's bipartisan foreign policy "must be a two-way street" if American unity is to be preserved in the vital and critical field of foreign affairs.

Rapping "secret deals" and "under-the-table" diplomacy, Warren said an effective foreign policy also must have the approval and understanding of the people.

As the Warren special stopped at Henderson and Owensboro, Ky., the California Governor paid his respects to Senator Alben Barkley, the Democratic vice presidential candidate and his opposite campaign number.

"He is a fine American who has made many contributions to good Government in his years of public service," Warren said, speaking seriously.

Wallace Calls for New Blood In Political Leadership

New York, Sept. 22 (AP).—Henry A. Wallace said last night the Progressive Party "is not going to go out in 1948," but indicated he did not expect personally to be a candidate in 1952.

Speaking at a $100-a-plate dinner of the Businessmen-for-Wallace committee, he appealed to his audience to help bring out leadership he said the new party will need if it survives.

Wallace virtually bowed out as the party's 1952 candidate, saying he did not want the new party to be a one-man party like Theodore Roosevelt's Bull Moose and Robert M. La Follette's Progressive parties.

"This is not a party that depends on any personality," he said.

He and his campaign manager indicated they did not see eye-to-eye on some of the fine points of party strategy. The dinner was preliminary to Wallace's departure on a national tour tomorrow.

The campaign manager, C. B. Baldwin, spoke first. He outlined and defended a policy of giving Progressive Party support to "liberal" Democrats.

For example, he said he had urged Representative Helen Gahagan Douglas (D., Calif.) to file on the Progressive ticket—though she declined.

He said the party was willing to support such Democrats as Chester Bowles, candidate for Governor of Connecticut.

When Wallace came to the platform, he smiled at Baldwin and said:

"What are you doing to our party here—supporting Chester Bowles?"

"Maybe that's all right," Wallace added, "but when guys go in two directions at one time I just wonder where you are going to end up, because some day you are going to have to build a party."

Wallace said that if Bowles "doesn't think enough of peace to stand up, I just wonder how good he is going to be. I don't think we ought to wax too enthusiastic about the situation."

So far as Mrs. Douglas is concerned, Wallace said he wasn't sure of how she stands on the Truman doctrine, which he opposes. He said it was "important" that she be elected, but added:

"But it comes hard when she doesn't want our support—or does she want our support?"

About joining forces with Democratic candidates generally, Wallace said:

"While Beanie (Baldwin) may go along with them this year, the time comes when we've got to stand up straight and strong and cut clean."

Truman 'Ground-Swell' Seen by Labor Leader

George M. Harrison, head of a general labor committee supporting the Democratic presidential ticket, said yesterday there is a "ground-swell" among working people for the election of President Truman.

In addition, Harrison predicted at a news conference that the Democrats will gain six seats in the Senate, enough to take control, and will pick up 30 seats in the House.

A Democratic gain of six seats in the Senate would reverse the 51 to 45 edge now held by the Republicans. Harrison predicted the Democrats will win Senate posts now held by the GOP in West Virginia, Oklahoma, Idaho, Wyoming, Illinois and Minnesota.

Taylor's Turmoil

If any evidence were needed that Henry Wallace's running mate, Senator Glen Taylor, has gone off the deep end, Mr. Taylor supplied it in an outburst Monday at Madison, Wis. "Nazis are running our American Government," Senator Taylor charged. "So why should Russia make peace with them, If I was a Russian at the Moscow Conference, I wouldn't agree to anything."

These shocking words cannot be excused as a mere bit of campaign rashness. They come from a man elected by the people of Idaho to fulfill the high responsibility of a United States Senator. These are the views of the man the Progressive Party has nominated for Vice President of the United States, the man who predicts that the Wallace Party will carry five States in the November election. Senator Taylors' insults to his colleagues and the other men of good will in the Government who are struggling desperately to maintain a precarious peace are important only because they reveal the baseness to which the Wallace appeal has degenerated.

Health Budget

Dr. Ruhland's proposed reorganization of the District Health Department comes as a reminder of the enormous growth of health activities here in recent years. In spite of the perennial shortage of funds, the department has expanded to a point where more supervisory talent is needed. Sixteen active bureaus are more than one man can supervise if he is to give close attention to their programs and organization. Dr. Ruhland proposes that these 16 bureaus be more closely integrated into six divisions, with a separate division for hospitals. This is in line with modern trends of organization, and, incidentally, in line with the principles that the Hoover Commission is seeking to apply to the entire Federal Government.

It is not to be supposed, however, that more efficient organization can take the place of the new institutions and the expanded service that the Health Department still needs. In conformity with the Commissioners austerity budget order, Dr. Ruhland has avoided asking for any new construction in 1950, and all other proposed expenditures have been held down to a minimum. "Such a policy, if followed for any length of time," the health officer warns, "especially in view of the increase in population estimated on July 1, 1948, will result in poorer health for the community and a greater loss of life."

There is no economy in neglect of disease. The Health Department has amply demonstrated in the last decade that public health is purchasable. Neither the Commissioners nor Congress can arrest the normal expansion of our community health facilities without a reflection of that penny-pinching in the number of unnecessary deaths.

Rumble From Tokyo

Soviet insistence on workers' "rights" in other countries which would not be tolerated in the Soviet Union is exemplified in Soviet Ambassador Panyushkin's complaint to the Far Eastern Commission in Washington. The Ambassador, again in the role of fall guy, had complained of General MacArthur's "advice to the Japanese government to ban strikes by public employes." The counsel follows a line which is incorporated in the Taft-Hartley Act for application to our own public employes. The Ambassador thinks that General MacArthur's advice is contrary to international agreements, though chapter and verse is omitted. Evidently he wanted the commission to spank General MacArthur. Whatever happened at the Far Eastern Commission was lost to the news, for a rumble was heard immediately from the Supreme Commander's headquarters, and there came forth as tart a rebuke, with chapter and verse, as the newspaper correspondents can remember.

Talking of international engagements, said the general, what about the Potsdam declaration on prisoners? Here we are three years and more after the surrender of Japan, and the Soviet government still regards as a dead letter Article 9 of the Potsdam declaration reading, "The Japanese military forces, after being completely disarmed, shall be permitted to return to their homes with the opportunity to lead peaceful and productive lives." The Soviet Union still retains half a million Japanese soldiers as war prisoners, using them for slave labor "in works," General MacArthur says bitingly, "designed to increase the Soviet war potential." He might have added that in their spare time the Japanese are put through a course of indoctrination so as to fit them as missionaries of communism.

Reports differ as to the extent that the Russians are successful in their proselytizing of the Japanese. Some say that the converts, who are shipped home when they have matriculated, are of the "rice Christian" variety, though there must be exceptions, as the Communists in Japan are a source of considerable trouble in the factories. General MacArthur had not envisaged this kind of complication when he assented to the new Japanese constitution forswearing the establishment of military forces. Trouble-making by the Soviet will doubtless increase the quest for ways and means of circumventing the pledge. Lieut. Gen. Robert L. Eichelberger, retired commander of the American troops in Japan, the other day suggested a big increase in the police forces, all of them armed. It seems to us that the model to think of is the Philippine constabulary, which used to be American-officered. Certainly the security of Japan must be an American preoccupation for the foreseeable future, since it is the Muscovite purpose, shining through the Ambassador's complaint, to undermine it.

Speaking Of Gluttons

If President Truman is puzzled by the lack of response to his onslaught against Wall Street, he might well go back and read his own speech to the Democratic National Convention last July. The President made a special point of telling various groups how well off they are. Farmers, for example, had multiplied their income from less than 2½ billion dollars in 1933 to more than 18 billion in 1947. "Never in the world," Mr. Truman said, "were the farmers in any republic, or any kingdom or any other country as prosperous as the farmers of the United States . . ." The baffling question is why the President expects farmers who are so prosperous to get hot under the collar at the mention of "gluttons of privilege."

The same is true with respect to the wage earners to whom the President is appealing. "The wages and salaries in this country," he said in his acceptance speech, "have increased from 29 billion dollars in 1933 to more than 128 billion dollars in 1947." There has been a large additional increase in 1948. So far as material goods are concerned, the rank and file in the United States are better off than they have ever been before in spite of the high cost of living. It is scarcely surprising if their unparalleled prosperity leaves them cold to warnings about the big bad wolf of Wall Street and to loose talk about a "slave labor law."

If we look back over a longer period the improved position of the workers and farmers is still more striking. In The Structure of Postwar Prices, a study made for the National Bureau of Economic Research, Frederick C. Mills recently showed that since the 1912-14 period hourly earnings have increased 468 per cent; weekly earnings, 355 per cent; construction costs, 303 per cent; industrial stock prices, 187 per cent; farm prices, 177 per cent; retail food prices, 156 per cent; prices paid by farmers, 145 per cent; cost of living 138 per cent; wholesale prices, 133 per cent, and rent 26 per cent. Since the war broke out in Europe nine years ago stock prices have gone up 26 per cent, wages 100 per cent, and farm prices 200 per cent. Certainly in terms of relative position in our economy the Wall Streeters and the real estate interests have been pikers in recent years. And most of the big profits and big salaries that have been made have been siphoned off by taxes.

In very large measure the phenomenal rise in wages and farm prices is a result of the wartime economy in which we are still living. The problem is how to keep our national income up at the present high level—how to maintain full employment at good wages and a heavy demand for products of the farm. That problem is far from being solved, and it is certainly brought no nearer to solution by a campaign geared to the issues of 1932.

Aid To Productivity

The dramatic increase in industrial production achieved by the British people during the first half of this year is a tribute to the effort and determination with which they have tackled their rehabilitation problem. But, as Sir Stafford Cripps pointed out recently, increased production is not enough by itself. The increase, he said, has been achieved almost entirely by an increase in the total numbers of the population who are working. Further additions to the labor force cannot be expected. Britain must, therefore, attain the "absolutely vital" increase in production needed from "a higher rate of output per man per year." It is precisely for the purpose of promoting this "higher rate of output per man per year" that the British-American Council on Productivity has been established.

One of the barriers to greater productivity, as was pointed out on this page the other day, is the adherence of British workers to wasteful rituals and techniques which in this country are called featherbedding. This is due in large measure, perhaps, to a contrast in attitude between British and American labor. Where British workers have turned traditionally to rules and legislation for the advancement of their economic interests—operating mainly through their own Labor Government—American workers have tended to rely much more upon improvement of production methods, recognizing that their best hope for increased earnings lay in increased productivity. It may very well be, therefore, that the best way to promote productivity in Britain would be through direct contact between British and American workers.

Under a section of the Foreign Assistance Act of 1948 authorizing "procurement of and furnishing technical information," the administrator could undertake to bring a limited number of British factory workers to this country to work for stated periods in American factories. Observing American production techniques and the attitude of American labor unions toward plant efficiency, the British workers could go home prepared to preach the gospel of productivity to their benchmates and fellow union members. They would be quick to grasp the benefits in spared energy and added output of efficient operation and they would understand better, perhaps, than their bosses how to apply the lessons learned to their own jobs. Funds expended to furnish technical information by this means might well yield richer dividends in terms of productivity than anything else the joint council could attempt to do.

Vishinsky's Tack

The question of what to do with the former Italian colonies in north and east Africa could not be settled by the Big Four powers in a year of fitful negotiations. Now, under the terms of the Italian peace treaty, it goes to the United Nations for decision by the General Assembly. The debate, if early indications are reliable, will reveal all the tortuosities of Machtpolitik at play in the area stretching from Yugoslavia in the north to Somaliland in the south and through the whole east-west length of the Arab world.

The opening gambit was made by the Soviet Union a week ago. At the last session of the final, futile meeting of the Foreign Ministers' deputies Vishinsky suddenly reversed his field. Where only an hour or two before he had been arguing for putting the colonies under Italian trusteeship, he veered without warning to a new tack: put them under a collective U. N. trusteeship. It was strictly the sort of change in course that comes much more easily to a dictatorial regime than to a democracy.

In Paris a story has appeared that the Russian switch on the colonies is but part of a devious maneuver to curry favor in both Italy and the Arab nations at the same time. By reversing its stand on the colonies, Russia may hope to mollify the north African Arabs, who didn't like Russia's previous position. Then the Russians, who are no longer so anxious to further Yugoslav interests, can throw a sop to Italy and bulwark Togliatti's appeal by plumping for a Trieste revision favorable to Rome. This is the kind of Machiavellianism with which Secretary Marshall has to contend.

Age In The Air

There are many partisans of Gen. George C. Kenney who will be displeased, as the general himself probably was, over his transfer from the Strategic Air Command. A gruff man of action, with a genius for leadership and air combat, General Kenney built up an almost fanatical loyalty among his subordinates, so that he was in the way of becoming an institution. For the last 2½ years he has headed the Strategic Air Command and has been perhaps the most ardent spokesman for the potentialities of long-range bombing. He now goes to the comparatively tame post of commander of the Air University.

The explanation is one of age. General Kenney is 59, and while that by no means implies a lack of vigor, it does mean that his years of active command are limited. In transferring him to a teaching job, the Air Force is looking ahead, making room for the younger men who will have to carry the burden of future planning, and at the same time continuing to benefit from General Kenney's invaluable experience. His successor in the Strategic Air Command is a man who, despite his youth, has built a spectacular reputation. At 41, Lieut. Gen. Curtis E. LeMay has served both as combat commander over the group that first used the B-29 and more recently as head of the Air Force in Europe, where he has directed the Berlin airlift. General LeMay's successor, in turn, will be Lieut. Gen. John K. Cannon, a man adept at the liaison with the Army which the vital European command calls for.

In making these shifts the Air Force is following a course of realism, for the air defense of the United States will continue to be a task demanding young men of flexible imagination.

SEPARATE SEAS

In English class he pounced upon that phrase
And I can still recall my anguish when he said,
"A seven-masted ship? My dear young soul,
There are no seven-masted ships. And I—
Reared by the sea, myself, perhaps should know!"

But I had seen that ship long years before.
Visiting Norfolk, I had seen her lift
Proudly her many sails—their white on blue
Dazzling, majestic. And all of my childish heart
Shouted and shook with the utter joy of that seeing.

Afterward, going again to the southern Atlantic
Asking once more of that ship, I was told it had been
There on the summer days that my childhood remembered—
That it (and a twin) were made, but none ever after.

So, my friend, are the subtler eyes of the soul
Gazing on separate seas and recording the ships
The various ships, of intensely various passage.

Trust, then, give thanks—nor be meek at the narrower news
From another's more limited vision. Keep in your heart,
Silent, secure, if you will, your seconds of seeing,
But never doubt what you see—Oh, never deny
The truths which your eyes have known in their moments of glory!

Washington Calling

Monopoly Again

IN THE challenging speech with which he opened his campaign, Gov. Thomas E. Dewey outlined in broad sentences the pledges he presumably will develop in specific terms in coming days. We must, he said, protect our enterprise system from monopoly while encouraging free and fuller production for the benefit of all our citizens.

If Candidate Dewey spells that out in terms of actually curbing monopoly, he is likely to find himself, if elected President, faced with one of the toughest challenges ever encountered by an occupant of the White House.

Powerful forces are determined to nullify restrictions recently raised against monopoly. They are looking to the Eighty-first Congress and a Republican Administration for the kind of laws they want.

The Supreme Court last April upheld the Federal Trade Commission and outlawed the uniform pricing system used by the cement industry, which the court found was designed to suppress competition. This sent a shiver through many industries that have traditionally employed such pricing systems.

The big steel companies promptly announced they would no longer absorb freight charges for their customers under the basing-point system. At about the same time steel prices were raised, and the two things were somehow related as cause and effect. Against this background there has been a continuing propaganda aimed at the court's decision and the Trade Commission.

A Senate subcommittee headed by Senator Homer Capehart of Indiana seems definitely set to recommend that price systems such as are used in key industries be declared legal. This would enable the big producers to continue their domination, and there are many informed persons who believe it would freeze, once and for all, a pattern of monopoly in this country.

THUS DEWEY'S challenge is made at a time when a fateful decision must be taken. If Congress legalizes uniform pricing systems, based on geographical location—the Pittsburgh - plus system in steel, for example—then it is hard to see how politicians can continue to give even lip service to antitrust laws.

It would certainly be convenient for many industries if they were no longer harassed by antitrust prosecution, and many industrial leaders feel sincerely that what is good for their industry must therefore be good for the country. But, besides the long-range benefit, there is an immediate stake that could spur the drive to nullify antitrust laws.

In the wartime excess-profits tax law, definitions of excess profits were loosely drawn. The right of appeal was granted to corporations that could show that their profits were not excess in comparison to a base period from 1936 to 1939. Thus far appeals for refunds of $5,500,000,000 have been filed with the Bureau of Internal Revenue, and before the 1950 deadline it is expected that at least eight billion dollars in refunds will be sought.

TO HANDLE these appeals the Bureau of Internal Revenue has named an excess-profits tax council, made up of 5 tax specialists from the bureau and 10 from outside. The aim of the corporations that have appealed is to show that their profits in the 1936-39 period were as high as possible, so the comparison with the wartime years will be in their favor and the "excess profits" shown in those years will be small.

The tax council is drawing up general regulations. One of those regulations is to the effect that profits made through violations of antitrust laws will not be allowed in computing the 1936-39 profit level.

In certain industries charged with violating antimonopoly laws this could be an important factor. Although the Revenue Bureau feels it will be negligible in terms of the vast amounts involved, it could make the difference in some cases between a large tax refund and a small tax refund.

The long-range effects are, of course, far more important. There are those who say: Well, why not do away with the antitrust laws or, at any rate, pare them down so big industry will not be bothered? Isn't big industry efficient in mass production?

Even if the answer to the second question is yes, there is a grave danger overlooked by those who argue for this viewpoint. If one or two corporations dominate or control in each industry, it will be altogether too easy to transfer control to the State itself and clamor for such control will be louder and louder. That is a real danger that no one can afford to ignore.

Air Force Mission

Marshall Andrew's front-page article of August 30 on Air Force capabilities in reaching Russia's vitals with the ultimate expression of air power, the atomic bomb, has prodded into frenzied activity in these columns those who attempt to persuade the public that the Navy is still our "first line of defense"; that any intimation to the contrary is a "gross insult to naval aviation."

Despite their arguments, some valid and some fantastic—that the B-29 is no match for jet fighters; that the public has been "oversold" on the B-29; that the B-36 "is as dated as horse-drawn artillery"; that the Air Force is wasting taxpayers' money on the B-50; that the Air Force cannot reach Russia's interior—one hard, cold, inescapable fact still remains: Today only the Air Force has planes capable of delivering atomic bombs. Until such time as the Navy can take an active part in atomic warfare, it must lay aside its now departed role of America's "first line of defense."

The Newport Conference gave the Air Force responsibility for strategic, i.e., atomic, bombardment. The Navy's job was defined as keeping the sea lanes clear of submarines which now present a terrific problem with their snorkel and high underwater speed.

Although tomorrow the Air Force could drop atomic bombs on Russia, the Navy could not begin to keep Russian submarines away from our shores. Nevertheless, the Navy is not content with its assigned task, and although to date it has failed to solve its own problem, it is insisting on trying to shoulder the Air Force's primary responsibility.

Has the Navy forgotten its tragic failure in 1942—a failure of ideas, tactics and equipment, not merely lack of equipment—when submarines were averaging two sinkings a day just off our East Coast? When it was forced to call upon the Air Force for assistance in performing its primary mission?

Let the Navy solve its own problems before seeking a quarrel with the Air Force over strategic bombardment. L. B. M.

New Citizens

An in-law of mine was one of 39 applicants granted citizenship on September 7 in the Federal court room of Judge Letts. After months of delay and the screening of his application on all animate and inanimate levels, he was finally given the favorable nod. Graduation day arrived. The import of this induction—into—citizenship was impressively stated by Judge Letts. A speaker selected by the Bar Association and a lady from the Daughters of the American Revolution also gave stirring addresses. Navy men paraded and unfurled flags.

In a spirit of levity the writer stated his intent to authenticate everything by placing the news clipping in our family Bible. Why not? This citizenship addition to our family should easily rate as a form of birth or rebirth.

So, came the dawn and our Washington Post. Neither the sex nor the name of our new citizen was correctly reported. The residence address gave the only clue to his identity. We did note with approval, that two women received special mention. These ladies had renounced royal titles, or something. No more dwelling in marble halls for them. It also seemed clear that had one of the husky young men holding up his right hand been found to be under contract with Clark Griffith for next season, to help step-up fielding and batting averages, he also would have received special publicity. We found that the remaining 37 new citizens were typographically rated as of subordinate importance.

While our Government is trying to reach and influence the thinking and behavior of foreign peoples, we should go all-out to heartily extend the right hand of fellowship to new citizens. News reports should reflect our real feelings and permit no slam-bang treatment as to either display or accuracy.

Problem Presidents

Ruth B. Samis (letter published September 20) chides this writer (earlier letter published September 16) for not including Republican President Harding in my list of problem-Presidents. The issue raised in my letter was: How may a Chief Executive of the opposite political faith be held accountable for bad judgment and spiteful performance short of the impeachable?

Harding was guilty of the impeachable.

Atheists' Freedom

In The Washington Post of September 20, I read with dismay the report of the special House committee investigating the Federal Communications Commission. The committee, in an interim report, interprets the "Scott decision" of 1946 as not requiring stations to give rebuttal time to atheists.

Since when did God need the protection of the FCC? The right to believe in God carries with it the right to disbelieve and this is protected by the First Amendment. But apparently Representative Harness and his fellow committeemen are afraid to allow the Constitution to operate freely. They seem to fear that God will disintegrate under critical analysis and must be bulwarked by suppressing opposition.

The true atheist is not anti-Christ and usually does not deny the possible existence of God. He opposes superstition and he denies the existence of the traditional Jehovah of the Bible. Let me quote an atheist's creed of worship, that of Robert Ingersoll, great exemplar of atheists: "To do justice; to defend the right; to be strength for the weak; a shield for the defenseless; to raise the fallen; to keep the peace between neighbors and nations; this is worship." And this: "He who loves, worships." EARL CHRISTENSEN.

Ilse Koch

On Saturday I read with some amazement the startling announcement that the sentence of Ilse Koch had been reduced from life imprisonment to a term of four years.

This action on the part of the confirming authority in the European theater was indeed a surprise and shock to me. As the chief prosecutor of the Buchenwald concentration camp case, which was tried at Dachau, Germany, April 11, 1947-August 14, 1947, I was her prosecutor and am acquainted with the quantity and quality of the evidence presented against her.

During the course of her trial, in which 30 other Nazi sadists were brought to the bar of justice at the same time, the problem arose of trying to equalize the proof in such fashion as not to make the offenses of any one of those depraved creatures any more heinous than the offenses of any one of the other 30.

In conformity with this effort, I presented only 10 witnesses who testified concerning her activities at Buchenwald. These witnesses were but a small fraction of those who had personally suffered from her cruel and inhuman machinations. There were others present at the trial who could have corroborated the testimony of their comrades, but to put them all on the stand would have merely prolonged the trial and, relatively speaking, overemphasized her misconduct.

Confessedly, the best witnesses to Ilse Koch's misconduct were not present at the trial—they had long since departed this life and had gone up the chimney of the crematory in smoke! But the 10 men who did testify stated enough to justify a sentence of imprisonment for a greater period of time than four years.

Evidently the court that heard the case thought so, because it gave her imprisonment for life. The court had the witnesses before it and had an opportunity to observe their demeanor on the stand and was thus in a better position to arrive at the truth of the testimony than any reviewer reading the cold print of the record.

Fortunately, I still have some of the notes I took during the course of the trial. Incomplete as they are, they paint a picture of a depraved woman trafficking in human skin—all so well known as not to require repetition here—beating prisoners herself, and reporting prisoners to the protective custody camp leader so that they were beaten—and to such an extent that the prisoners died as a consequence. This latter fact I obtained by cross-examination from a Dr. Morgan, an SS Standarten-fuehrer, and police judge, who was called to the stand to testify in behalf of Ilse Koch!

One might say that inasmuch as I was her prosecutor, it would be impossible for me to give an objective appraisal of her case. But Ilse Koch was not the only Nazi sadist whom I have prosecuted. I suppose I have tried more war criminals than any other American—having tried 177 Nazis in four cases.

As chief prosecutor I tried the Dachau concentration camp case with 40 accused at a single trial, the Mauthausen concentration camp case with 61 accused in a single trial, the Flossenberg concentration camp case with 45 accused in a single trial, and the Buchenwald concentration camp case with 31 accused in a single trial. Of this number, four were acquitted, 132 sentenced to death, and the balance sentenced for varying terms of years.

With this experience, I think that I am fairly well qualified to determine when I have proved a case of substantial guilt which merits a severe sentence. In my opinion, to cut Ilse Koch's sentence to four years is to make mockery of the administration of justice.

The granting of clemency is an act of grace that should be administered wisely and dispassionately. Improperly bestowed it will undermine not only the faith of our own citizens in our institutions, but also the faith of those we have been trying to convert since May 7, 1945. I want the record to be perfectly clear that I do not oppose clemency. On the contrary, I am heartily in favor of it being granted in proper cases. Ilse Koch is hardly the proper case.

Gremlin's Triumph

Your gremlin department in the print shop must be working overtime! What's the big idea, to mess up such a nice heading like "Music Like Magic Heals His Mind" over the picture of Composer Ernest Salisbury in your issue of September 19 by calling his fine symphony Eloise a symphoney!

With so many phoney things going on in the world today, though, I don't blame them a bit. And I hope Mr. Salisbury will take it in stride without grumbling, gremlins being what they are—phoney. J. J. W.

Today And Tomorrow

Opportunity In Paris

A DECISION by the Western powers to take the Berlin dispute to the U. N. will be met, it is quite obvious, by the Russian argument that this action is contrary to Artcile 107 of the Charter: "Nothing in the present Charter shall invalidate or preclude action, in relation to any state which during the Second World War has been an enemy of any signatory to the present Charter, taken or authorized as a result of that war by the governments having responsibility for such action."

LIPPMANN

As against this specific denial that the German settlement is within the competence of the United Nations, we should have to cite the broad powers of the General Assembly which "may discuss any questions relating to the maintenance of international peace."

There is not much to be gained by precipitating a debate in which the issue would be not the merits of the Berlin dispute but whether the United Nations has lawful jurisdiction.

IT IS conceivable, however, that something better could be done than to fall into a sterile and bitter wrangle. If the Assembly discusses the Berlin dispute, all it can do is to make "recommendations." We might, therefore, ask ourselves what kind of recommendations the Assembly could make which would serve a useful and constructive purpose.

Nothing useful would be accomplished, it seems to me, by asking the nations of the Assembly to line up for us or for the Russians. Such a vote would merely register the division which is already clear enough among the leading nations of the world, and nothing would be gained by pushing the smaller nations which are not yet directly involved to take sides. Our moral position would be no stronger, and our burdens no lighter, after we had compelled the smaller Latin-American nations, the Arab states, and the new Asiatic states to take a position in a dispute which they can, as a matter of fact, do nothing to decide.

BUT ONE can imagine a different approach. The General Assembly might recommend a new procedure for the negotiation of a German peace treaty. It would be no violation of the letter or the spirit of Article 107 for the Assembly to recommend to the Big Four that they adopt different methods from those which have worked so badly in the Council of Foreign Ministers.

Many other methods are conceivable. For example, but only as an example: the Assembly might recommend the creation of a European commission, composed of the immediate neighbors of Germany—France, Poland, Belgium, Czechoslovakia, and the Netherlands, Luxembourg, and Denmark. The commission might be authorized to prepare the provisional draft of a German peace treaty, or of a European statute dealing with the frontiers of the German states and with the relations between the German states and their European neighbors. The commission might be authorized to negotiate with the existing German authorities in an attempt to reach an agreed draft, which would then, of course, have to be ratified by all the nations which were at war with Germany.

THIS IS only one of many procedures that could be devised. It may not be the best, and I have cited it only to illustrate the point that the deadlock in the Council of Foreign Ministers need not mean that the resources of diplomacy are exhausted.

The chances of any constructive action by the United Nations will depend upon whether in Paris today an influential group of statesmen—not too directly involved personally in the ordeal of the Berlin crisis—can come together and will come forward to speak for the United Nations as an agency of mediation and pacification. Is it too much to hope that Dr. Evatt and M. Spaak and Mr. Trygve Lie might take the lead and, emulating the example of Count Bernadotte, might help the United Nations to play in the great conflict over Germany a role as beneficent as it has played in the much smaller, but exceedingly difficult, conflict in Palestine.

THEY COULD not be sure to succeed. But they could be sure of instant and mounting support among the people of Europe and of the world, and therefore in the end of all the governments that must in any way take account of the sentiments of mankind.

Recreation Dept. Budget Outlines Plans for Fiscal Year

By Dorothea Andrews
Post Reporter

Refurbishing two swimming pools, converting a Chevy Chase auditorium to community use, and providing land improvements on 25 other recreation units is planned by the District Recreation Department during the 1950 fiscal year.

In a budget released by the District Commissioners yesterday, department heads asked $557,484 for capital outlays during the next fiscal year, as compared with $281,000 received during the current year.

In addition, the department wants $1,216,989 to spend next year on operating expenses, as compared with $1,072,000 appropriated for this year's operations.

More Recreational Directors

Part of the increased funds would go to hire six additional recreation directors. They would serve at the Taft, Turkey Thicket, Bald Eagle, Ridge, Watts Branch and Happy Hollow playgrounds. This year the department is building the first unit of a field house at Turkey Thicket, and a shelter building at Watts Branch and Ridge. At Bald Eagle, a building formerly used by the Navy has been reconditioned by volunteer community effort. Said Milo Christiansen, recreation superintendent:

"The need for this unit has been so great that for this fiscal year the community has collected funds to meet the expense of operation. Responsibility should now be assumed by the Recreation Department." The requested recreation directors would organize and direct activities at the centers.

The Georgetown and Rosedale swimming pool bathhouse facilities would be rehabilitated at a cost of $35,000 per project. The department wants to take away the "unsanitary, unsightly and worn-out cabanas" and the existing shower house and convert the present shelter into a bathhouse.

Other Proposed Projects

Recreation officials also want to spend $8,300 to build a larger electrical service line in the headquarters office at 3149 16th st. nw. They would like to spend $25,000 to convert the auditorium in Chevy Chase Community Building into a "usable and essential facility for recreation activities." Another $15,000 would be spent to demolish the harbor garage at the Jefferson Recreation Center. The department also is seeking $433,500 for grading, drainage, fencing, planting, construction of multiple use hard surfaced areas, tennis courts, walks, playfields and night lighting at 25 recreation units now in operation.

Money for these projects would be transferred by the department to National Capital Parks, whose maintenance crews would perform the work.

D. C. Stores Plan Antifraud Drive With Police Aid

Directors of the Credit Bureau of Washington are intensifying efforts to halt fraudulent charge account purchases, Secretary J. K. Althaus said yesterday.

He pointed out that local merchants are becoming concerned over "the increasing boldness of those who fraudulently attempt to charge purchases to accounts where they have no right."

Although not revealing how it will be done, a new system of "instant cooperation among the stores and police" will be used to check on suspected fraudulent purchases, Althaus said. Samuel E. Collegeman, credit manager of S. Kann Sons Co., heads the committee which will develop the new system.

Secretary Sullivan Write-in Candidate

Concord, N. H., Sept. 22 (AP).—Navy Secretary John L. Sullivan may not know it yet, but he's running for a House seat in New Hampshire's Legislature.

Secretary of State Enoch D. Fuller will notify Sullivan shortly that he was nominated in last week's primary with one "write-in" ballot.

Italian Colonies

A Communication

THE FUTURE of the Italian colonies is now the order of the day. The question is being discussed mainly from the point of view of international power politics. It would be fair and appropriate to consider this problem also with regard to Italy's demographic and economic conditions.

Under warm skies and rich soil in a number of regions the Italians developed their agriculture to a high level. But its possibilities are limited by nature (mountains, marshes, etc.) and the Fascist "battle of the grain" had extended the cultivated area to the verge of diminishing returns.

Even more important is the poverty of Italy's subsoil: it is deficient in coal, oil, and iron ore. Italy's industry depends on import of the main raw materials. With these meager natural resources Italy has to support 46 million inhabitants.

The very existence of the Italian people (which since the beginning of the century has increased by 50 per cent) is a miracle. It has been achieved through Italian industriousness, skill and thrift. But Italy's migratory outlets were of great undispensable help before the First World War. Emigration exceeded the natural increase of the population, while the immigrant remittances also contributed to the alleviation of Italian economic conditions. After the First World War this system was destroyed.

IT IS common to attribute the sharp fall of Italian emigration first of all to the Fascist policy, strongly opposed to emigration, and only secondarily to the restricted immigration policy of the United States and other countries. This is only partly true.

Even Mussolini was, during the first years of his rule, a promoter of emigration which he characterized as "a physiological necessity of the Italian nation." Only when it became evident that large scale peaceful migration was barred did he change his policy: the place in the sun has to be conquered by Italy, and therefore she must increase her population by all means (including rigorous emigration restrictions).

This was the new way which led to warlike expansion, and since it did not relieve population pressure, new military enterprises dedicated to this end followed one after another: the conquest of Ethiopia, annexation of Albania, invasion of Greece and finally the attack upon prostrated France.

AFTER THE war, amid Italy's destroyed economy, the specter of chronic overpopulation reappeared, more frightful than ever. Registered unemployed (over two million) with families involve one seventh of the population. Besides, there is the hidden unemployment, mainly in agriculture, where dwarf holdings (over two million holdings are not larger than 2.5 acres and another two million are under 12 acres) offer no adequate utilization for the farmer's and his family's labor, and do not supply them with even minimum requirements for subsistence.

The opposite side of the balance sheet of Italy's population problem shows a net emigration of less than 200,000 for 1946 and 1947. In pre-Fascist times the annual number of Italian emigrants approached the million mark.

The largest Italian immigration goes now to France. The agreement with France provided for a migration of 200,000 up to the end of 1947. Actually only 50,000 moved. Other countries are willing to take mainly those who are badly needed at home: highly skilled workers, indispensable for Italy's recovery.

Neo-Malthusian opponents of immigration emphasize that the population can be adjusted to means of subsistence either through increased production or through reduced natality, and since, under given conditions, no technological progress could enable Italy to feed 46 millions, they suggest that her only salvation is in birth control.

But what is usually overlooked is that since the turn of the century the Italians already have reduced their birth rate by one third, and that even if they decided to have no more children at all, no change in the labor market would be noticeable for 18 years.

LESS THAN half a year ago an explosion was close at hand. Just liberated from the Fascist yoke, Italy stood on the edge of a political precipice. A conquest by the Communists would have eliminated the surplus population—in the familiar totalitarian way: through civil war, concentration camps, flight of refugees and deportation of anti-Communists.

The Communist defeat in the April elections has given breathing space to take the required constructive measures. The restoration of production, as foreseen in the Marshall Plan, should be a sheet anchor for most of the western European countries. But the plan itself without a provision for large-scale emigration, cannot eliminate the organic disproportion between population and natural resources which determines Italy's tragic fate.

Recently Edward Corsi, New York State labor commissioner, reported that during his conversations with nearly every member of the Italian cabinet, all of them impressed upon him the necessity for finding an outlet for Italy's surplus population.

It is true that the absorptive capacity of Italy's former colonies should not be overestimated. In Libya, which is the most important of them, the Italian prewar population was below 100,000. (Mr. Sumner Welles, whose approach to this whole problem is very sound, was in error when he stated in The Washington Post of September 14, 1948, that "before 1939 three quarters of a million Italians settled in Libya.")

Still, apart from the problem of political control, an assured opportunity for settlement in the former colonies, which may involve another 100,000 Italians, would be regarded by the Italian people as the first step toward a constructive solution of Italy's demographic problem that is so critical for her recovery and escape from the Communist clutches.

WCTU Officer Sees Services As 'Schools for Alcoholism'

Portland, Oreg., Sept. 21 (U.P.).—The Armed Forces are "schools for future alcoholism," Violet T. Black of Evanston, Ill., treasurer of the National Women's Christian Temperance Union, declared here tonight.

Miss Black, here for the national WCTU convention opening in Portland tomorrow, called on Congress for "legislation to prevent the sale of alcoholic beverages on military posts or Naval bases."

She charged that the armed forces, especially during the peacetime draft, "are schools for future alcoholism in selling beer to enlisted men and allowing liquor in officers clubs."

"As a tragic aftermath of condoned drinking by the Army and Navy during the last war, the Veterans Administration has reported that 10,000 cases of alcoholism were treated in veterans hospitals last year, as compared with 3529 in 1945 . . . an increase of 300 per cent in three years," Miss Black said.

The WCTU treasurer added that Dr. Harvey J. Thompkins, assistant chief of the psychoneurotic service, estimated that "10 per cent of all World War II veterans discharged from veterans' hospitals last year entered with a patient diagnosis of alcoholism.

"Although it is obvious that many of these young men were teetotalers before entering the service, and despite this appalling aftermath the Army and Navy persist in introducing young draftees to alcoholic beverages," she said.

Miss Black said beverages were being sold despite laws enacted years ago "which clearly ban the sale of 'intoxicating' liquors on military posts." She said the laws were evaded "under the false definition of Army and Navy 'brass hats' that 3.2 beer isn't intoxicating, although people do get drunk on it, and the strange theory that liquor in officers' clubs is private property and therefore is served, not sold."

Several Airfields For Big Bombers Ready in Alaska

Pearl Harbor, Sept. 22 (AP).—At least one airfield capable of handling B-50 bombers and several large enough for the smaller B-29s are ready in Alaska.

Lieut. Gen. Nathan Twining, Alaskan commander, revealed the existence of the fields as he came here for a conference with Navy officials.

Twining, a veteran of the South Pacific aerial war, expressed the opinion American fliers were as adept at Arctic flying as the Russians.

The newly completed Ellson Field near Fairbanks is capable of maintaining an aerial offensive with the big B-50 bombers, General Twining said. He described the new field as "a big one."

American fliers training in the high north country observe the limits of the approach to Siberia, the general said, adding that so "far as we know," the Russians similarly were observing Alaskan limits. The Bering Strait, a distance of some 40 miles, separates the two territories.

19 Killed, 100 Injured

Algiers, Algeria, Sept. 22 (AP).—Nineteen persons were killed and 100 injured, 20 seriously, in southern Algeria today when two French army trucks loaded with explosives collided, the French News Agency said.

The accident occurred in the village of Laghouat. It touched off a fire which destroyed most of the town.

District's 4 Fiscal Offices Ask $37,460 Hike in Funds

The District's four fiscal offices want to spend $37,460 more in the 1950 fiscal year than during the current year.

This was learned yesterday when the budgets for the offices of the assessor, Collector, auditor, and the purchasing department were released by the District Commissioners.

Of the total requested increase, $30,666 is for in-grade salary advancements in the four offices.

Edward A. Dent, District assessor, in requesting $613,000 for operation of his office, predicted the 178 employes under him would bill approximately 63 million dollars in taxes on real estate, personal property, income, estates and inheritances, and special assessments.

In 1948, the department levied $62,762,300, of which $31,450,600 was in real estate taxes.

Dent pointed out that "through efforts of the division in securing returns from taxpayers who had failed to file," the department received 15,660 new returns during the 1948 fiscal year. The increase in returns, he said, had "overburdened the staff to the extent that it is difficult to process the work."

The assessor said he believed the seven additional persons he asked for the personal tax division would be "more than compensated for through audits aand the securing of additional returns."

Requested for operation of the collector's office is $321,460, as compared with $316,000 for the current year. Salaries and expenses for the auditor's office have been estimated at $428,000, compared with $418,400 for the current year. Salaries and expenses for the purchasing division are estimated at $95,300, compared with $91,900 for the current year.

Mechanical Mind Surpassing Man's Is Envisioned

Pasadena, Calif., Sept. 22 (AP).—Man-made robots which may become more intelligent than their human creators were envisioned today by a professor of psychiatry at the University of Illinois.

Dr. Wareen S. McCulloch said that already mechanical brains are superior to the human mind, which he described as "no more than a mechanical switchboard."

"The human brain," he explained, "reacts to stimuli of memory in stored experience identically with man-made electrical devices."

He foresaw mental machines fitted for the impulse of reacting against their own destruction and equipped with a "curiosity for the future" comparable to what he termed man's vision.

Forgery-Proof Paper to Correct Export Licenses

By The Associated Press

The Commerce Department announced yesterday it had put into use an "entirely new type of export license" made of "a unique forgery proof paper" to safeguard against counterfeiting.

Alleged racketeering in altered licenses has been under investigation by a Senate committee.

Textron Proposes Tax Cut, Speed-Up

Nashua, N. H., Sept. 22 (AP).—Royal Little, president of Textron, Inc., today offered to keep its Nashua mills operating if the State would allow a 90 per cent tax reduction for 10 years, and if the Little's proposal called for a $20,000-a-year tax ceiling, against its last year's tax of $220,000.

In a long schedule of proposed work loads, one item called for 51 men to do the work now done by 137.

The proposals fetched up short when a CIO textile workers union leader called the work load plan "an insult—not a challenge," and Senator Charles W. Tobey (R., N. H.) drew from Little an admission that the tax reduction plan would be illegal in New Hampshire.

Senators Investigating

Tobey and Senator Brien McMahon (D., Conn.) are investigating Textron's announced closing of its Nashua operations as a subcommittee of the Senate Committee on Interstate and Foreign Commerce.

Earlier, Little called for an amendment to the Taft-Hartley Act to prevent "any unions in any industry from setting discriminatory work loads."

Little testified that Textron was closing its Nashua plant, and expanding operations in Southern States, because the unions would allow greater work loads in the latter.

Little charged that the differences in work loads was driving New England industries away from the Northeast.

Harold Daoust, regional director of the New Hampshire-Vermont Textile Workers called Little's work load plan "an insult," and asserted that Little was trying to shift responsibility for the closing to the union and the City of Nashua.

Edward Ellingwood, director of New Hampshire's planning and development commission took issue with a statement by Little that Southern workers were "better" than those in New England.

Ellingwood said that many other textile manufacturers were "astonished" at the productivity of workers in New Hampshire.

Tax Plan Assailed

He also assailed Little's tax suggestion, declaring that the New Hampshire industrial rate was favorable in comparison with other sections of the country.

He asserted that the "so-called differential between New Hampshire and other parts of the country hasn't scared other industries."

Senator Tobey broke in to ask Little what he meant by saying that Southern workers were better than Northern workers.

Little replied that in some cases, where he has made comparisons, the Southern production was 100 per cent above that for similar workers in New England.

Little said that if the Nashua Textron mill continued operations as at present, the 1949 loss would be between one and three millions of dollars.

"A million dollar loss next year," he said, "would be the absolute perfect best we could do."

The Nashua plants which Textron plans to close employ 3500 workers. Senator Tobey said Textron also intended closing other plants in New England, employing a total of 6000. Textron meanwhile is planning an 11-million-dollar expansion in the South and in Puerto Rico.

Despite Daoust's voiced objections to Little's plan, he and Mayor Oswald Maynard agreed to meet with Little to discuss his proposals and attempt to keep the industry from moving to the South.

Daoust said Little's proposals call for "a tax advantage over every other enterprise in New Hampshire and the destruction of seniority."

Little said the first lay-offs for the Nashua mills are scheduled for Friday, and will continue gradually until the plants close down in December unless his proposals are supported by the union and the city.

The conditions under which he would continue operations in New Hampshire, Little said, would have to include:

1. Freedom of action for management in selection of supervisors and workers on the basis of efficiency and regularity.
2. Work loads to be on a par with competitive Southern workers.
3. Lower local taxes.
4. Immediate operation of his plan "so the workers dropped because of the increased work loads will be able to find new jobs before the situation gets any worse."

Petrillo Lifts Union's Ban On Harmonica Player Members

By Luke Carroll

Chicago, Sept. 22 (NYHT).—James Caesar Petrillo, who once ruled that a harmonica was not a musical instrument and that harmonica players were not eligible to join his union, has reversed his stand, it was learned today.

Adler

Already, the American Federation of Musicians has accepted as members Larry Adler, who has appeared on the concert stage in many cities, and a trio of harmonica players known as the Harmonicats, who have made recordings of many popular songs.

"I didn't think before that any harmonica player was a musician," Petrillo said in his office here in announcing that Adler and the trio had been admitted. "At least in the old days, we didn't have any good ones. Now they are making a real music and it's real art."

Petrillo, who said Adler had joined the San Francisco local of the AFM several months ago, admitted that one of the considerations that led him to change his mind was the fact that harmonica players were not affected by his ban on recordings. This enabled them to continue to make recordings while all members of the musicians union have been prohibited from doing so since last January.

"The good harmonica players are in competition with us when they make records," Petrillo said. "Since they are in competition with us as musicians, then they belong in our union."

He said the union would test the eligibility of any harmonica player for admission to the union by determining "whether they are in competition with us and if they make their living by playing the thing."

"We don't expect to take in everybody who can play 'Sweet Rosy O'Grady' on the harmonica," he said. "We want only the top musicians."

Under the rules of Petrillo's union, members cannot belong to any other show business union.

Twenty years ago today

- Washington embarked on its first Community Chest campaign
- The Nation was on the brink of a major depression
- That first campaign included 57 agencies . . . .

PRESIDENT TRUMAN SAYS:

"America today is a stage upon which a drama of human destiny is being appraised by the critical eyes of all the world.

"What Americans think, what Americans say, what Americans do is causing people in other lands to decide whether they want our way of living or another.

"At the core of our democratic tradition is the American ideal of working, living, giving together so all may benefit.

"It is significant that America gave birth to the plan and practice of voluntary welfare groups teaming together for joint planning and federated financing for everybody's benefit.

"In more than 1,000 American communities, Red Feather campaigns will be held this year to enable more than 12,000 Red Feather services to continue their work, meeting many of the health and welfare needs of all our people regardless of race, creed, economic status or political belief.

"Success in this cause not only will bring the satisfaction of proving to ourselves that an American ideal can be made to work, but will serve as a demonstration in practical democracy for eyes trained on us from all the galleries of the earth.

"We will do this job by giving—giving our time, our effort, our money. We will give enough for all our Red Feather services, enough to make us proud to be Americans."

LEON CHATELAIN SAYS:

"I accept with a deep sense of responsibility, the invitation to serve as General Vice Chairman for the Community Chest Federation Campaign.

"The Washington Board of Trade helped organize the Community Chest twenty years ago so that all the 'Begs Could Be Placed in One Ask-it,' as the phrase went in those days. We still believe in the principle that combined giving through a united campaign for private welfare agencies is sound.

"If the campaign for 1949 needs is to be successful, it is clear to all that the amount of money raised from business firms and the employees of private business must be increased substantially.

"The Board of Trade has a clear obligation to help meet this situation and it must be met this year. In the final analysis, we campaign neither for agencies nor a Chest Federation but through them for children, youth, the sick, the aged, and others who have every right to expect help from all of us under our American way of life.

"I hope all our Board of Trade members will personalize the Campaign from that level and help you strengthen your organization so that victory may be assured."

LEON CHATELAIN, President Washington Board of Trade

C. F. PRELLER SAYS:

"I heartily endorse the coming Red Feather Campaign of the Community Chest Federation.

"In my opinion, the Community Chest works for a cause that we of organized labor have long stood for—the welfare, dignity and self respect of human beings.

"Many of our members and their families make use of Red Feather Services. Our boys and girls, along with thousands of others, benefit from the wholesome fun, sports, hobbies and fine educational program of Red Feather Youth Services. Chest programs protect health, strengthen the security of families, care for the aged and the handicapped with kindness and understanding. Such a program benefits and serves the whole community, including the hundreds of thousands of trade union members in this area.

"Here in Washington a well-rounded program of labor participation in the planning and policy-making aspects of Chest affairs, as well as information for the members of trade unions on the services available, is doing much to increase labor's interest in the Chest.

"The Community Chest therefore has the cooperation of all branches of the local labor movement. Nine federated labor groups, including the Washington Central Labor Union, are affiliated with United Community Services of Washington. Through official representation on boards and committees of the Community Chest Federation and the member Chests, labor shares with all other citizen groups the democratic task of budgeting, planning and fund-raising for the general welfare.

"In helping to make the Red Feather campaign for funds a success this year, we have indeed a job in which all citizens of good will can unite. Let us remember the one big thing that unites us—our common humanity.

"This is good trade unionism—good democracy—and good sense."

C. F. PRELLER, President Washington Central Labor Union

Then . . . as now . . . it included agencies giving direct service to people; and then . . . as now . . . it also included preventive service which benefited everybody.

Its goal was $1,500,000 and it was raised 100%
Those were days of prosperity!

They were followed by: Depression, Unemployment, Federal Relief (Federal Security), Peacetime Draft, War-time Draft, USO and War Relief, War Prosperity, Postwar Lethargy, Inflationary Costs.

For 20 years, facing every possible kind of economic crisis, your Community Chest has, with efficiency and stability, provided the community with essential and well-regulated welfare services. It has reached its twentieth birthday with honor.

It has grown and become a Six-Chest Federation . . .
Today, twenty years later, it is:

The Community Chest Federation uniting Community Chests of Alexandria, Arlington, Fairfax, Montgomery, Prince Georges and Chest-supported agencies of the United Community Services of Washington with USO added.

Now . . . as then . . . it still represents time-saving economy and efficiency; it still saves many campaigns; it still budgets its member agencies after review and analysis; it still costs no more than 8% to run it . . . and only 4% of that for campaign costs.

Over 1,000 other communities have Community Chests similar to ours.

The pattern of organization is nearly identical. None are organized for "Charity" only. All finance services in the fields of health, recreation, child welfare, family welfare and overall planning.

All over the Nation the words Community Chest have become a household word—a part of our vocabulary—and an accepted and typical American institution.

It's an honor and civic responsibility to support our Community Chest.

It's a Landmark . . . An Institution

Loan Institute Names Consuls For First Time

By S. Oliver Goodman

New courses of Washington Chapter, American Savings & Loan Institute, will open October 4, and a record enrollment is anticipated.

Sinclair

President Richard H. Sinclair said last night.

He outlined the educational program at a dinner meeting of chapter officers, board of governors, consuls and faculty in the Burlington Hotel. Innovations this year include the appointment of 18 consuls to stimulate interest by directly contacting savings and loan workers, larger classrooms at the new Columbia Federal Building on 11th st. and the fall dinner meeting itself.

Raymond C. Williams, chairman of the educational committee, said instructors this year will be as follows: C. Nelson Bean, insurance; Harry Kane, real estate law; William E. Poulton, principles, and William K. Rippard, accounting. Classes will be conducted four days a week, from 4:30 to 6 p. m.

Edward L. McAleer, president of the District of Columbia Building and Loan League, stressed the importance of the educational program and lauded the chapter's work. The chapter was founded in 1933 and has expanded steadily.

Rubber Union Head Backed in Dispute

Omaha, Nebr., Sept. 22 (U.P.).—The annual report of President L. S. Buckmaster of the United Rubber Workers (CIO) leveling charges against the union's executive board was adopted by the thirteenth annual convention today.

The vote was 818 to 788.

The convention, by a 30-vote margin, accepted Buckmaster's charge that "a ruthless political machine" was operating undercover in the 180,000-member union.

Also adopted was Buckmaster's charge that the URW executive board had refused to repudiate the presidential candidacy of Henry Wallace as provided in CIO national policy, had delayed in approving the Marshall Plan of aid for Europe, and had stymied his administration repeatedly.

Numerous speakers today had criticized Buckmaster. F. M. Dickenson, Memphis, Tenn., charged the union head was serving the interests of "the company" instead of those of the union.

Martin Asks 'Square Deal' For Capital

Chicago, Sept. 22 (AP).—Representative Joseph W. Martin, jr. R., Mass.), Speaker of the House of Representatives, tonight told Western Hemisphere businessmen that they "have an obligation to give our investors protection and a square deal."

He spoke at the final session of the fourth plenary meeting of the Inter-American Council of Commerce and Production.

The three-day session ended with adoption of a four-point policy statement calling for coordination of American economic needs with the European Recovery Program.

The statement called for:

Marshall Plan—Utilization of all Latin American resources for European recovery but "the needs of Latin American countries for the means of production should not be prejudiced by the requirements of Europe."

The ECA should make its purchases as far ahead as possible, such stocks as might be found excessive to be liquidated in such a way as not to depress prices.

"Establishment of less rigid criterions of essentiality" in determining European essentials as compared with Latin American needs.

Foreign investments — Private capital should be encouraged in preference to the investment of Government funds in all situations where private capital is willing to venture."

An increase in the loans of the Export-Import Bank to Latin America.

That a commission be designated to study establishment of an inter-American bank.

That the International Bank for Reconstruction "give special attention to the present urgency of making and of guaranteeing private international loans of a productive character in adequte volume to Latin America."

Commercial policy — "Effective balancing" by financial and technical means of lower industrialized countries with those of higher industrial capacity.

Assurance and guarantees of equitable treatment to investors of inter-American capital.

And in any new agreements there be clauses "compensating the inequalities in the economic structure" of desperate countries.

Raw materials — measures be adopted to avoid great fluctuations in raw material prices facilitation of industrialization of raw materials nations.

The declaration also covered "sundry proposals." These included a plea that no new import permit or exchange restrictions be enforced until made public, and a recommendation that "customs treatment" among the American Nations be uniform.

The document was adopted unanimously and will be forwarded to the various American governments and to the International Economic Conference in Buenos Aires.

Earlier, E. M. Bernstein, director of research of the International Monetary Fund said that Latin American nations must have "more suitable exchange policies" if they are to play an important part in the world economy.

He was preceded by Rodolfo Tarantola, Buenos Aires, director of the Argentine Chamber of Commerce, who read a speech prepared by Arnaldo Massone, chamber president, recommending a Western Hemisphere customs union.

S. Africa Plans To Make Natives Self-Governing

Capetown, South Africa, Sept. 22 (U.P.).—Prime Minister Daniel Malan said today he planned to abolish native representation in the South African Assembly and set up self-governing bodies for natives in their own areas.

Malan said he would consult legal authorities to determine whether the change be made by a bare majority vote of the assembly, on whether it would require a two-thirds majority, in which case a referendum might be required.

Strike Threat Of 300 Averted By Airline

By The Associated Press

A strike threat by 300 Pan American World Airways employes, arising from the layoff of 50 radio officers, was averted yesterday.

Frank M. Swacker, arbitrator in the dispute, said the airline and the flight radio officers section of the CIO Transport Workers Union had reached an agreement by which the company will pay a total of $30,000 to 25 of the officers.

He did not say if the money represented severance pay or back wages.

Some of the other officers already had accepted severance pay and the cases of others will be straightened out at future meetings, Swacker said.

He said the agreement did not call for the retiring of the officers.

The men were laid off, Swacker said, because of the "technological advances made in the handling of flight communications." He did not amplify.

Last night, R. S. Taylor, secretary of the union, said the strike would be called at 8 a. m. (EST) today unless the layoffs were canceled.

Other labor developments included:

Communication: The CIO American Union of Telephone Workers studied an offer of the American Telephone & Telegraph Co. for wage increases ranging up to $6 weekly for 25,000 telephone workers. The offer affects plant craftsmen, operators and clerical employes in 42 States and the District of Columbia.

Shipping: Striking CIO longshoremen continued handling Army cargoes through Pacific Coast ports under contracts between the Army and two stevedore firms. The firms are not connected with the Waterfront Employers' Association against which a strike was called September 2.

ITU Head Says Legal Advice Prompted 'Standard Contract'

Indianapolis, Sept. 22 (AP).—Woodruff Randolph said today the legal approval the New York commercial printing industry gave a contract with the International Typographical Union led him to propose the same terms for union contracts with newspaper publishers.

The ITU president said attorneys for the New York commercial industry and his own union counsel assured him the contract conformed to the Taft-Hartley law and a Federal court injunction.

Randolph testified today, first for the Government and later as a union witness in the Federal court contempt case charging the ITU and its officers with disobeying Judge Luther M. Swygert's decree against Taft-Hartley labor law violations.

Attorneys for the NLRB say the contract form distributed by the ITU international to locals for use in negotiations with publishers contains clauses designed to violate or bypass Taft-Hartley law provisions, particularly the ban against the closed shop.

Besides claiming legal clearance on the contract form from the New York commercial printing industry, Randolph testified that the ITU had receded from even these contract terms in reaching agreements with New York City and Buffalo, N. Y., newspapers.

NLRB Winthrop Jones finished presenting the Government's case after introducing figures from ITU publications showing that the union has at times relaxed its requirement for comptency tests before printers can be admitted to union membership.

One part of the ITU's standard contract offer to newspapers requires nonunion members to take comptency tests but permits ITU members to take newspaper composing room jobs without question of their skill.

Johns has charged that the plan discriminates against nonunion job applicants in violation of Judge Swygert's injunction. He said workers are often taken into the union without tests.

The figures showed that ITU membership grew from 42,357 in 1907 to 87,167 in 1948 and, during that time, only 17,000 printers completed the union's apprentice training program although more than 32,000 members died.

Under Johns' questioning Randolph said he never would agree to a requirement that ITU members take competency tests before being hired in newspaper plants.

Veterans Pass Up Low-Pay D. C. Jobs

Difficulty in getting veterans to take District Government jobs, for which Congress provided no pay increases, was reported yesterday by the District Veterans Service Center.

In its 1948 annual report, the center said it had found jobs for "several hundred" veterans here and had been "largely responsible" for recruiting personnel for the various departments of the District Government.

Of the latter activity, however, it commented: Certain positions have been difficult to fill because of the increased salaries allowed employes by the Federal Government, which increase was not available for District employes."

The report said it was necessary in many cases to forward the applicant to other Government agencies where the pay increase, granted by Congress early this year, would provide the veteran with higher income.

The Service Center, operated by the District Government in the temporary building at 1400 Pennsylvania ave. nw., has served a total of 375,000 veterans and members of their families, the report shows, since it was opened December 27, 1945. A total of 87,549 were served during the past year.

This year's mimeographed statistical report is supplemented by a 32-page printed "activity report" containing pictures of the center's activities and letters from veterans organizations and individuals praising the center's work.

Eighteen free services are detailed in the report. These include: education consultation, employment service, vocational consultation, advice on procedure for obtaining War Assets material, American Red Cross, one-stop service on Veterans' Administration matters, GI insurance service, business and banking consultation under the GI bill, tax consultation, Army recruiting information, legal and medical consultation, typing and photocopying services, notary services, certification services, special-case transportation, and aid in correcting service records, securing back military pay, adjustment of allotments, etc.

Col. Waldron E. Loenard, director of the Center, describes one of its primary purposes as that of providing a "one stop" service center for the District area's veterans.

The statistical portion of the report shows the Veterans' Administration representative at the Center handled 8636 veterans during the year, having to refer only 400 to the VA regional office for additional help. The Center handled $4,390,500 in GI insurance during the year.

Other statistics: The education consultant interviewed 20,633 veterans; the legal consultant, 1667; the housing service, 36,058, finding homes for 8458.

Pamela's Parents Anxious . . .

Associated Press WIREPHOTO

MINUTES AS HOURS—As their daughter, Pamela, underwent the first of three rare operations to cure a deformity, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Lamphere of Chicago waited anxiously in the lounge of Cook County Hospital yesterday. Doctors brought them good news—Pamela's first operation was a success. Another will be performed in about a month on the child who was born with her bladder outside her body.

Taking Pictures

A Press Cameraman's Duties Don't Stop at the Firing Line

By Ollie Atkins

ONE OF THE easiest-going fellows we know is Bill Chaplis, photographer for the Washington Bureau of the Associated Press. Bill likes to tromp around the golf courses in his off time and at night worries about the itinerary of the White House News Photographers' traveling salon which various newspapers sponsor all over the country.

Bill is considered a baseball expert and every spring it is he who journeys down to Florida to photograph the spring training antics of the major leaguers so it took him a little by surprise that the A. P. picked him for the job of tailing Henry Wallace on his invasion of the Southland.

Hailing from Worcester, Mass., Bill has a Yankee accent which is unmistakable to the soft-voiced Southerners. I saw Bill the night before he took off and offered him my GI tin hat, but he was already overloaded with gear.

Now Bill is back from egg and tomato ducking. He told me he tossed away three shirts so badly stained by Wallace-bound egg yokes they were good for nothing more than expense account items—he hopes. The A. P. photographer was the only one to accompany the Wallace expedition. The other syndicates picked up from local papers or the "official photographer" with the Wallace party.

"The main trouble is," Bill told me, "that a photographer on the job must be close to the center of interest (Wallace) and very naturally more pot-shots at the principal character will be near-misses than hits, so the poor lensman gets it every time."

Bill's best shot was one of Wallace wiping the egg off the back of his head. The cameraman was alert constantly for a direct hit on the face but the Rebel aim was amiss.

Wallensak Optical Co. announces a new Synchromatic-Alphax shutter with built-in synchronization for lenses for focal lengths from 2 inches to 11⅞ inches.

Hollywood Precision Labs annouce the Shutter Speed tester which when used with the aid of a standard home phonograph quickly and accurately gaugest shutter performance. A 360 degree disc is placed on the turntable, the camera focussed and an exposure made with a strong light After the film is developed the number of degrees are counted and the calculation of exposure is computed by simple division.

Canadians Discover New Arctic Islands

Ottawa, Sept. 22 (AP).—Discovery by an RCAF photographic crew of two previously unknown Canadian Arctic islands off the west coast of Baffin Bay was reported today.

The islands lie close together in Foxe Basin, and total more than 5000 square miles. They were found July 14.

Reconnaissance determined the position of the islands at about 68 degrees north latitude, 76 degrees west longitude. One is about 85 miles long and 75 miles wide, the other about 20 by 10 miles.

First Operation Performed on Baby's Bladder

Chicago, Sept. 22 (AP).—Pamela Lamphere, the baby with her bladder outside her body, today underwent her first of three operations to correct the rare condition.

Later physicians said the operation was "a success."

The condition of Pamela, 22 months old, had caused a rift between her parents, Fred, 23, and Irene, 21. Physicians said the abnormality would be fatal unless she was operated upon.

The father wanted the operation but the mother said she preferred to have the child for the few years she was certain to live, instead of risking surgery.

The Lampheres became reconciled after Mrs. Lamphere learned of other children who underwent similar successful operations.

Dates of the next two operations have not been set.

Special Police Must Qualify Anew Here

The District Commissioners will cancel all special police commissions on December 31.

All applicants for commissions, including those who now have them, will have to comply with more stringent regulations for special officers from then on.

The new order is an outgrowth of a fracas June 8 near Oxon Hill, Md., in which a James O. Davis, 52, Washington special policemen was beaten and an Air Forces lieutenant, Wayne Sheppard, 28, shot in the hip. Davis accosted him and a girl in their car parked by the road and started the row, Sheppard said.

The regulations, promulgated September 9 and released yesterday, provide:

1. Special officers must be 21 years of age or over.

2. They cannot display a badge or pistol except on the premises they are authorized to protect.

3. Pistols may be carried only while on duty and in the premises or in fresh pursuit of criminals from the property.

4. Revocation of the commission on conviction or forfeiture for crimes, exclusive of traffic violations.

5. They must turn in their badges within 24 hours of termination of their commissions or face a $300 fine.

6. The application is $10 plus $2 badge deposit.

7. The commission is good for one year.

8. Distinctive uniforms must be worn.

All Europe But France Exceeds Steel Quota

Geneva, Sept. 22 (AP).—Steel production exceeded national goals in every major producing country of Europe except France and the French zone of Germany during the first half of this year.

This was reported today by the United Nations Economic Commission for Europe, whose figures include 12 principal steel areas. Not included is the Soviet Union.

Total production in the 12 areas was 21,772,000 metric tons during the six-month period. This is 6 per cent above the goal and 27 per cent above total production during the same period last year. (A metric ton is 2204.6 pounds avoirdupois.)

3 Turks Face Recall

Check Charge Dropped in Belshaw Case

A bad check charge against Walter D. Belshaw, 30, of 4620 47th st. nw. yesterday was dropped for lack of evidence during a hearing in Arlington County Court.

According to the charge, Belshaw had given the $500 check to the William Realty Co., 3806 Wilson blvd., Arlington, to secure his contract for eventual ownership of a filling station at 5618 Lee hwy., Arlington.

In yesterday's hearing, Assistant Commonwealth's Attorney Paul Brown was unable to prove the charge of insufficient funds. A bank memo attached to the check noted that a pass book would be required when the check was presented for cashing.

Last Saturday, the Arlington Commonwealth's Attorney's office had dropped a second check charge against Belshaw.

This was brought by the Cherner Brewer Auto Sales Co. of Washington, which claimed that Belshaw had given them a $3595 check drawn on the Arlington Trust Co. as payment for a 1948 Buick convertible. According to the company's warrant, Belshaw "had no account" at the trust company.

The charge was dropped by Arlington when it was learned that both the car and the check had changed hands in the District, and hence was beyond Arlington jurisdiction.

Henry Cherner, part owner of the motor company, said he would press no further charges since the auto was returned to him by Belshaw September 16.

The Washington Post reported erroneously that Belshaw also had been charged with giving a $5000 check to the Williams Realty Co. without having sufficient bank funds to cover it.

No charge ever was made against Belshaw for any $5000 check. The Washington Post regrets the error.

Broadmoor Co-op Taken to Court

At Silver Spring

Way Cleared For 94-Unit Apartment

A $750,000, 94-unit apartment development will be built near Manchester rd. and Sligo parkway, Silver Spring, as a result of a zoning action yesterday by the Montgomery County commissioners.

Approved was a petition for rezoning filed by Sligo Park Properties and spokesmen for the firm said a garden-type development is planned on the three-acre tract.

Action on another petition by The Johns Co., Inc., which would pave the way for construction of 270 two-family homes costing $2,000,000 on Columbia pike near the Naval Ordnance Laboratory, White Oak, Md., was deferred.

A county official said the commissioners had indicated the petition would be approved "if the applicant is willing to reduce the area requested for rezoning."

In two other actions, the commissioners approved petitions filed by the Pickwick Construction Co. and Doris H. Miller. The former calls for apartment zoning of a two-acre tract near Old Bladensburg rd. and Long Branch, Silver Spring; the latter asked apartment rezoning of 12 lots bounded by Holman st., Hale pl. and Glen ave., Kensington, Md.

Thirty-three tenants of the Broadmoor yesterday asked District Court to permit them to keep their apartments without joining the newly organized cooperative.

The tenants, represented by Attorneys Spencer Gordon and Eleanor Sessoms, said that terms of the cooperative setup involve an illegal increase in rents and are against public policy. The Broadmoor is located at 3601 Connecticut ave. nw.

The suit is for a declaratory judgment. Defendants include Bernard Bralove and Edward E. Ernest, owners of the Broadmoor, and the recently announced Broadmoor Cooperative Apartments, Inc.

Terms Recited

The tenants state that on August 21 they were notified that the Broadmoor Cooperative had an option to purchase the property for the purpose of selling the home units there under a cooperative ownership plan. Prices for typical apartments range from $8500 to $20,000 plus 1 per cent of the price for initial working capital, plus 30 cents a month for each $100 of the purchase price for operation and maintainance, plus 38.75 cents a month for each $100 of purchase price for payment of shares of the first trust installments.

The tenants state that "great pressure" has been exerted to get them to join the plan. But scrutiny of the plan in many cases shows that in addition to initial costs, many tenants would be given rent boosts, it is stated.

Plaintiffs in the suit are Adeline I. Abbott, Walter S. Abernathy, E. C. Berry, Betty W. Biesemeier, Samuel R. Blanken, Ellis U. Brent, Manly F. Brent, George E. Brower, Agnes V. Curtis, Allen V deFord, William J. Devine, W. L. Fenstermacher, L. D. Gasser, Raymond J Gerber, I. L. Goldheim, Willard Goldheim, C. M. Hobart, Edgar C. Kaufman, Henry L. Kaufman, Alvin A. Kraft, Thomas E. Lyons, Robert Meyer, Joseph K. Moyer, Robert W. Nash, George W. Neville, Sara Ogus, Louis Pappas, Margaret D. Price, Hilda Schoenthal, Franklin H. Smith, Theodore Spector, Frank J. Police Officer Struck Him, Painter Says

An Alexandria painter yesterday complained a police officer had struck him without cause Saturday at Alexandria police headquarters after arresting him for reckless driving.

The statement was made by Frank M. Lindner, 34, of 106 N. Royal st., during his trial in Alexandria Police Court on charges of reckless driving and operating under the influence of alcohol.

Lindner, who pleaded not guilty to both charges, claimed that Lieut. George Everly struck him when Lindner tried to pick his truck keys up from the station desk. He claimed he had not provoked Everly in any way.

Everly, a veteran of more than 20 years on the force, admitted slapping Lindner. The officer explained Lindner had been arrested about 7:30 p. m. for driving his truck on the lefthand side of King st.

Everly said that when the man was brought to headquarters he started yelling, swearing and swinging his arms. Everly said he slapped Lindner with his open palm to quiet him down and to enable the desk sergeant to book him. He then added the charge of driving under the influence, Everly said.

Judge James R. Duncan dismissed the charge of operating under the influence, but fined Lindner $15 for reckless driving. Lindner noted an appeal to the Corporation Court.

Indian Military Orders Hyderabad Arms Turned In

New Delhi, Sept. 22 (AP).—Members of Hyderabad's army and police force have been brought under the direct control of the Indian military government, an Indian communique issued today in Poona said.

Police also have been asked to submit reports to the Military Governor on their progress in capturing Razakars, members of a private Moslem army in Hyderabad.

All illegal arms and ammunition were ordered surrendered before Sunday, after which house searches will be instituted for the recovery of such weapons, the communique said.

Former Vt. Legislator Shot Through Temple

Shoreham, Vt., Sept. 22 (U.P.).—Former State Representative William J. Anderson, 72, a Negro slave's son who became a leading legislator and friend of President Calvin Coolidge, was in serious condition at a hospital today.

Attaches said that if he recovered he would be totally blind. A .22-caliber rifle bulet passed through his head from tempe to temple.

Friends said he had been despondent over a heart condition.

Pa. Officer Rescued As Plane Sinks in Sea

Provincetown, Mass., Sept. 22 (U.P.).—Lieut. Carl Thompson, 24, of Wilkes Barre, Pa., a naval reserve officer, was rescued by a fishing vessel today after he made a successful water landing when the engine of his Navy Corsair plane gave out.

The plane sank, but Thompson's wingman on the routine flight, Ensign Richard Meserve of Kittery, Me., circled the area and relayed his position to the trawler North Sea.

The North Sea picked Thompson out of the water and reported he was not injured.

One on the Aisle—

Metro's Label, Nation's Film

By Richard L. Coe

THE CROWDED CRYSTAL BALL: Mighty Metro, as we intimates call M-G-M, is generally associated with the old razzle-dazzle, entertainment for box-office sake and the heck with Leo the Lion and "Ars Gratia Artis." . . . But here comes the big studio's second out-of-the ordinary picture of the year, "The Secret Land," which will be on the Capitol screen the week beginning October 21 . . . "The Search" was the first of Metro's unusual releases this year, that deeply-moving story laid in the reality of present-day Europe . . . "The Secret Land" is equally different; though it's a Metro release, it was filmed entirely by the cameramen of the Navy, Marine Corps, Coast Guard and Army on Dick Byrd's last visit to the South Pole . . . And what a fascinating (eerie picture this is . . . In preparation for Navy Day, October 27, when it will be shown in 80 cities across the country, "The Secret Land" was screened the other night at the Naval Gun Factory . . . You'll find it an extraordinary journey to one of the dwindling global spots still unexplored . . . The crunching of the ice as the ships crack through the lonely seas, the astonishing sight of a warm water lake in the midst of the polar waters, the comparative comforts of modern exploration over those of the ice-stepping past, all these things make for something different in movie-going . . . "The Secret Land" is still a month off, but the men in blue sure have a Navy Day picture . . . Not even Metro could have footed the bill for this one.

THE ZALE-CERDAN pictures finally hit the Trans-Lux screen yesterday afternoon at 3:22 . . . Before the shots got here, though, the management's assorted skins all but turned blue . . . They'd promised the fight early in the afternoon and Tony Zale's boosters were getting restless about when they'd see the little French Morrocan in action . . . At the newsreel house you get rounds 1, 2, 5, 10 and the critical eleventh complete.

"THE RED SHOES" opening date for the National is set: Friday, October 15, when the Women's Advertising Club of Washington will sponsor a "gala" to usher in the theater's new role as a film house . . . Tickets for the opening will be sold through the club . . . Details to be announced shortly.

"ROPE," the Alfred Hitchcock chiller, holds over a second week at the Warner; its just been banned by the Memphis Board of Censors, which feels the picture might prompt some folks to try "a perfect crime" . . . The Warner's downtown sister, the Metropolitan, plays host this morning to the one that started the musical films in earnest, Grace Moore's "One Night of Love" . . . "Abbott and Costello Meet Frankenstein" moves from the Palace to the Columbia today, with eight shows skedded Saturday beginning at 9:15 a. m.

THAT NOVEL contest for Theatrical Souvenirs at the Bethesda-Chevy Chase Harvest show was won by Scott Kirkpatrick, 1026 16th st. nw., for his collection of theatrical stage photographs . . . In the novel souvenir idea, pictures of Eva LeGallienne as "Peter Pan" in 1928, and a backstage opera shot of Margaret Truman with the Lawrence Tibbetts after "Rigoletto," captured the most interest with Central High folks recognizing alumnus Lloyd Edwards in a scene with Sonya Stokowski.

BACK TO SCHOOL shows, an annual K-B chain tradition, take over Saturday at the Atlas, Apex, Senator and Naylor Theaters . . . The Atlas doors open at 10:30 a. m., the others at 12:30 p. m. . . . There'll be prizes at all these neighborhood houses.

FIRST OR THE nearby Barter Theater dates to be announced is for Baltimore, sponsored by the Goucher Clubs for the benefit of the Goucher College Building Fund . . . "The Pursuit of Happiness" is scheduled at the Maryland Casualty Auditorium Saturday, October 9 . . . Details from the Goucher Alumnae office, 1 East 24th st., Baltimore 18, Md. . . . Still no home in Washington for the Barter.

MEMORABLE SCENE: "Ciribiribin" sings Grace Moore in this well-loved sequence of "One Night of Love," the musical hit that set a movie style, returning this morning to the Metropolitan screen.

Spy Scare 'Phony,' Tom Clark Says

Attorney General Tom C. Clark said yesterday that "we have the fifth column on the run in the United States."

Adams

At the same time he emphasized that "we can keep it on the run without resorting to trial by ordeal."

Hitting by inference at the Congressional investigations of espionage, Clark dubbed the "spy" stories now as "preposterous" and warned that "these tense critical days are no time to create hysteria—no time to create confusion."

He addressed an American Hotel Association luncheon, at Hotel Statler.

The Attorney General struck at critics of the President's loyalty program, who, he said, have ignored repeated requests that they "name any Communists in the executive branch of the Government." He also criticized Congress for failing to pass "certain laws to help us to deal" with subversive elements.

Referring to the recent indictment in New York of 12 top Communists, Clark pledged that they will be given a "fair trial in American courts—not by ordeal." He added:

"As you know, I, too, have a duty to protect the innocent as well as to prosecute the guilty Federal law violator. I am determined that it shall never be said that Tom Clark is responsible for the prosecution of even one innocent person."

The American people, he asserted, "can rest assured that our fight against Communists at home is going forward with such vigor and dispatch that will afford maximum protection to our Government."

Some persons, he declared, "have tried to make the welkin ring with all sorts of weird Communist 'spy' stories. These stories are as preposterous as to allege that all our hotels are harboring spies under the beds in every one of their rooms."

Miamian Elected

Earlier, a 53-year-old one-time dishwasher was elected president of the America Hotel Association in the final day's sessions of the thirty-seventh annual convention.

Joe H. Adams, operator of the El Comodoro Hotel in Miami, Fla., was elected to be top man in the hotel industry, the Nation's seventh largest. He succeeds Howard F. Dugan, executive vice president of the Hotels Statler, Inc., of New York, who became chairman of the board of directors.

Other officers elected were: T. Harry Gowman, Earl Hotel, Seattle, Wash., first vice president; Daniel J. O'Brien, Superior Jefferson Hotel Co., Toledo, Ohio, second vice president; Albert Pick, jr., Pick Hotels Corp., Chicago, secretary; J. B. Herndon, jr., Hilton Hotels Corp., Chicago, treasurer.

Broken Leg Plea Fails To Ease Fine

James O. Robertson, 43, who stated that police broke his leg in arresting him, was fined $20 yesterday for drunkenness leading to the arrest.

Robertson, who resides at 314 9th st. se., was found innocent of a companion charge of disorderly conduct.

Fine was imposed by Judge Ellen K. Ready after an hour-long trial in which Robertson, a housepainter, reiterated statements he made earlier, blaming police for his broken leg. When arrested September 13, he said, the arresting officers, Pvts. John Panetta and Lennie Daniels, dragged him so that he was injured.

The policemen denied any wrongdoing, stating that Robertson was cursing in front of his home and that they chased him into his house to make the arrest.

Robertson's attorney, Ralph Stein, said he would make a formal complaint concerning the incident to Maj. Robert J. Barrett, chief of police.

Warren Cases Nolle Prossed

The Government yesterday dropped prosecution of Philip Warren, 42-year-old lawyer, on two cases of soliciting alms and two of disorderly conduct.

The charges grew out of incidents in Franklin Park, where Warren often makes speeches and has founded the Franklin Park Civic and Humane Society, devoted, Warren said, to uplifting the park's fallen members and to influencing legislation for a uniform mental hygiene law.

In directing the nolle prosses, Assistant United States Attorney Robert E. Short stated in Municipal Court he did not have sufficient evidence to convict.

Warren stated to the court that he had been subjected to "extreme embarrassment by the false charges of begging and using improper language."

He said he was jailed and then kept for days at St. Elizabeths Hospital only to be proven sane and finally innocent of the charges involved.

Warren said the charges were instigated largely by "anarchists, atheists and Communists'" frequenting Franklin Park.

Probers Scan Club Records

Two Internal Revenue Bureau inspectors yesterday began examining the books, other records and whisky confiscated by District police in a raid Tuesday on the Gold Key Club.

The two inspectors were Dewey Vaughn and Joseph Clay, both from Baltimore. They said they had been assigned by Supervisor R. E. Tuttle of the Revenue Bureau's Fifth Tax District to check the books and whisky for any Federal tax violation.

Seventy-three persons were routed from the swank, after-hours club at 606 E st. nw. in the raid in which police seized, besides the records, about 1000 bottles of whisky and arrested the reputed president of the club and two waitresses.

The reputed president, Albert B. Glickfield, 46, of 2108 16th st. nw., and the waitresses, Mrs. Virginia Womack, 24, of 706 E st. ne., and Mrs. Shirley D. Dandall, 40, of 405 Quackenbos st. nw., all were charged with keeping and selling whisky without a license, and freed under $500 bonds for jury trials November 17.

Early yesterday, an inspector of the District of Columbia Alcoholic Beverage Control Board examined the confiscated whisky in the First Precinct detective bureau squad room in the Municipal Building. There was no announcement as to what the examination disclosed.

Baltimore, Sept. 22 (AP).—A $9,695,000 construction program for Maryland Teachers' colleges has been recommended by the State Department of Education.

The recommended program includes $7,095,000 for "urgent" projects and $2,600,000 for "desirable" structures. The program, which will be submitted to the State Planning Commission, is based on recommendations of a three-man committee of out-of-State experts who surveyed the four institutions this summer.

The committee was headed by Walter E. Hager, president of Wilson Teacher's College, Washington. Clyde A. Erwin, superintendent of public instruction at Raleigh, N. C., and Roscoe West, president of Trent State Teacher's College at Trenton, N. J., were the other members.

Storm Moves Into Atlantic

tonight that a check along the Florida keys and in Key West showed no one had been killed or injured in the 175-mile stretch.

Milk and other supplies will be flown to isolated Key West tomorrow, Red Cross officials said.

Citrus Groves Damaged

The storm crossed Florida's rich Indian River citrus groves. One grower estimated about 10 per cent of the crop was gone.

Associated Press Reporter James F. Fowler reported from Everglades City, 70 miles west of Miami, that the little town of 600 persons was in at least a foot of water.

"The town is without electric power and the only contact with the outside is by amateur radio," Fowler said. Not a single building escaped unscathed.

Every community in the path of the big blow suffered some damage, but in none of them, apparently, did it reach disaster proportions.

The naval air station at Boca Chica, 5 miles east of Key West, was in 1 foot of water except for runways and parking areas.

No water was reported on the Tamiami Trail across the State and automobiles moved regularly in both directions.

The Red Cross said 140 homes in the Miami area were surrounded by water, and 30 inundated.

Farmers in the Lake Okeechobee region, hit by the storm during the morning, feared another flood similar to the big one of last fall.

Early beans, potatoes, tomatoes, peppers and other vegetables in the communities of Bean City, Lake Harbor, Clewiston, South Bay, Belle Glade, Pahokee and Canal Point were all under water.

Clewiston reported winds of better than 80 miles an hour. It is a small sugar cane town on the southern rim of the lake.

Gale force winds and heavy rains swept South Florida throughout today. Miami had 8.34 inches of rain in the 24-hour period ending at 7 a. m.

Tips to Motorists

Driving at high speeds in low or second gear can easily double the amount of gasoline used in getting under way. Shift into high gear before a speed of 25 miles is reached.

Sauer Almost Says Navy Has a Chance

HALFBACK DICK SWANER
A California speedster against Navy in Saturday's game

'We Have a Good First Team,' Coach Boasts As Middies Hold Secret Practice for Bears

By Jack Walsh
Post Reporter

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 22.—Navy held a secret drill here today—its last heavy workout for California—but that wasn't the only football secret at the Academy.

Head Coach George Sauer and his assistants won't talk frankly about how they think their boys will go in Baltimore Saturday against Lynn Waldorf's big bad Bears.

Understandably, perhaps, they just aren't expressing any definite opinion. After all, they remind, it will be the first time they'll see the Navy squad in actual competition.

Sauer almost let himself get optimistic but apparently thought better of it.

Asked pointedly how he expected his Middies to fare, Sauer said: "California has a good team and we're going to have our hands full but." Then he stopped. It seemed that he was ready to add that the Westerners are going to have their hands full, too.

What he did say was, "we have a good first team. The boys are rough and tough and I'm sure they'll give a good account of themselves. In fact, they should play real good ball. Trouble is we aren't deep".

Although Sauer is wary of any prediction on Saturday's opener, he isn't reticent about discussing every man on the squad. In fact, he gave a complete rundown on the ranking of every position as it looks to him right now.

Williams Is Ready

McCully also is slated for fullback duty and Bill Weir is listed at both guard and tackle. It's an indication that Sauer isn't kidding about his strength being shallow in depth.

Williams is in good physical condition. The powerful runner from Miami underwent an ankle operation last spring and isn't showing any ill effects. If he plays like the Williams of old, it could make all the difference.

With game-wise veterans, it appears that the backfield will be stronger than last year. The line's another story, gone are Dick Scott, Dick Shimshak, Newbold Smith, Emerson Golding and Art Markel. They aren't easily replaced.

11 Couldn't Spy on Cal

Intelligence always has been a Navy speciality but Sauer can't say he learned much from Vic Bradford and Ray Schwartz who scouted California last Saturday when the powerful Bears rolled over Santa Clare, 41-19.

Psychologically, Navy should have an advantage in its all-important opener. Despite the 14-7 defeat at Berkely last year, Navy came off the field feeling that it had the better team.

California scored one of its touchdowns in the last 35 seconds of the first half when Bob Celeri was trapped, couldn't pass and then raced 21 yards for the score. Later Jack Jensen burst through tackle and went 64 yards for a touchdown.

But don't think for a moment that Navy can't surprise the team the experts already have put in the Rose Bowl next New Year's. Sauer and his assistants, Vic Bradford and Bob Ingalls, have been working just a little too hard to make it seem impossible that Navy could upset the invaders.

Povich on Vacation

Shirley Povich, The Washington Post's sports columnist, is on vacation. His column will be resumed upon his return.

Pirates Beat Dodgers, 5-1

Brooklyn, Sept. 22 (AP).—Brooklyn teetered on the brink of mathematical elimination from the National League pennant race today as the Dodgers dropped their third straight contest to the Pittsburgh Pirates, 5-1.

The Dodgers trail the league-leading Boston Braves by 7½ games. Unless they win their remaining eight contests while Boston loses it's last eight, the Brooks will be dethroned as National League champions.

Cards Win, 8-2, Delay Flag Party For Braves

By Joseph B. Kelley

Boston, Sept. 22 (AP).—Those never say die St. Louis Cardinals stymied the pennant aspirations of the Boston Braves at least temporarily today by thumping the Tribe, 8-2, with a 17-hit attack before 10,937 disappointed patrons.

So the pennant party—first in 34 years for the Boston Nationals—must be delayed at least until Saturday as the Tribe is idle until then.

The Braves can clinch the flag if they win two games.

The victory did move the Cardinals into second place, a half game ahead of the Brooklyn Dodgers, who were beaten, but the game cost them the services of Enos (Country) Slaughter, their classy outfielder.

Slaughter, racing towards second on a hit and run play in the fourth inning, was struck hard on the bridge of the nose by Nippy Jones' liner. Slaughter, although he remained conscious, was knocked to the ground.

Slaughter Injured

Carried from the field on a litter, he was removed under a physicians' care to St. Elizabeth's Hospital, where his injury was diagnosed as a fractured nose with accompanying hemorrhage.

Although Slaughter wanted to leave the hospital as soon as possible, he was ordered held overnight to be examined tomorrow by a nose and throat specialist, Dr. Vincent Kelley.

Stan Musial, leading hitter of both major leagues, led the 17-hit attack on five Boston pitchers and put himself in the record books.

Stan got five hits, the fourth time he has hit safely five times in one game this season, for a new National League record.

Musials' record equals the American League mark of five hits in each of four games in one season which the famous Ty Cobb established in 1922.

Musial's hit production included his thirty-eighth home run of the season, a double and three singles.

The loss, charged to Lefty Warren Spahn, who had won his last four in succession, snapped a Boston victory string which had extended through eight games.

Zaslofsky Asks $14,000 From Stags

Chicago, Sept. 22 (AP).—Max Zaslofsky, leading scorer of the Basketball Association of America, has demanded a five-year contract at $14,000 annually from the Chicago Stags, who have classed him as a holdout.

Zaslofsky, who scored 1007 points last season, said several clubs presently are seeking his service. The Stags reportedly have been offered $25,000 for the Brooklyn sharp-shooter.

Ike Favored To Retain His Title Tonight

By Jack Cuddy

New York, Sept. 22 (U.P.).—Because of his explosive punch, Ike Williams was favored at 4-1 today to keep his world lightweight championship in tomorrow night's 15-round fight with Jesse Flores, speedy California Mexican, at Yankee Stadium.

On the same card, Ray (Sugar) Robinson, welterweight champion, was scheduled to meet flashy Kid Gavilan of Cuba in a non-title 10-round bout. Robinson was favored at 3½ to 1.

Sol Strauss of the 20th Century Club expected a crowd of 20,000 and a gate of $100,000 despite the strong opposition his promotion received from the rival tournament of champions' Marcel Cerdan-Tony Zale middleweight title fight at nearby Jersey City last night.

Williams' Record

Brown-skinned Williams of Trenton, N. J.—making his third defense of the undisputed 135-pound crown—was favored because he is a much harder hitter than the light-punching but elusive Mexican from Stockton, Calif. Moreover, the champion boasts a string of 10 straight victories.

Williams, 25, became undisputed champion by knocking out Bob Montgomery at Philadelphia in August, 1947. He defended by winning a decision over Enrique Bolanos at Los Angeles last May 25 and he made a successful second defense by knocking out Beau Jack, former champ, at Philadelphia on July 12.

Nearly half of the champ's 89 victories were achieved by kayoes. He belted out 44 opponents and won 45 decisions. He lost nine scraps, two by knockouts.

Mexican Has Good Record

Admirers of 21-year-old Flores expect him to give Williams a hard fight because of his excellent left jab, his ruggedness and his elusiveness. The stocky, black-haired Mexican was knocked out but once in 50 professional fights.

Bob Montgomery disposed of him in the third round in March, 1947. Young Jesse improved much since then.

He made his New York debut last May, and was held to a draw by Johnny Williams. In a return bout with Williams in June, Flores won the decision.

And No Penn

Virginia Has Another Big Year Ahead

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Sept. 22.—Pennsylvania is off the Virginia schedule and there isn't a tear being shed in Charlottesville because of it.

Penn wrecked the Cavalier season last year.

The Cavaliers went into the Quaker game with six straight victories, all by lopsided scores. They came out of it with a 19-7 defeat and their dobbers down. They never recovered from the mauling and consequently dropped two of their last three games.

Coach Art Guepe & Co. admit Penn was the big objective in 1947. If the Cavaliers could hurdle Penn—and the feeling in Charlottesville was that they could—Virginia was all set for its first Bowl trip.

This year, however, it's different. Virginia is going to play 'em one at a time. They must scale one of the tougher hurdles on their schedule Saturday when they open with Miami (Ohio), of 1948 Sun Bowl fame.

AS THE RECORDS and big scores of six of their seven 1947 triumphs show, the Cavaliers did a shade better than all right when they faced T-formation teams. Murderous line play, the type single-wing attacks employ, wasn't necessary and the Virginia line was able to spring Guepe's swifties into the clear.

Against the lines of Penn, North Carolina and N. C. State, however, the Virginia wall took a licking and their backs were hamstrung. With this in mind, the staff has labored long and hard this spring and fall to build a line able to stand the pummeling last year's linemen couldn't take.

The coaches think they've improved the line, but they won't know until how much until Saturday's opener here. The only line losses were Tackle Joe Kirkland and Center Ed Frizzell. The Cavaliers are three deep at ends with Veterans Carlton Elliott and Bobby Weir and regular operatives.

Tackles are still questionable. Stuart Barbour and Dick Johnson, a pair of 220-pounders, are the regulars, but the reserves are much weaker than the staff would like to see.

WALTER SCHULTE and John Thomas will do as first-string guards. They'll be helped by Laurence Bauman and Donald Bazemore. There isn't too much weight there, Bauman being the only 200-pounder among the quartet.

Billy Walsh steps into Frizzell's center slot. It's a sturdy first string wall, light (averages about 195), but Guepe believes it's a better blocking line than last year's.

The backfield is Guepe's delight, only there aren't enough backs to suit him. He says he has only six "varsity" backs, compared to about a dozen last year.

Joe McCary, the passing star, quarterbacks the Guepe T, which depends on speed for its effectiveness. Ralph Shoaf and Eddie Bessell are at halfback with Gomar Jones, fastest man on the squad at 180, again at fullback.

Nats Beat Browns, 5-4, In 10 Innings

St. Louis, Sept. 22.—With the score tied four-all, the Nats pushed over a run in the tenth on a single and three walks to defeat the Browns, 5-4, tonight.

After one was out in the tenth, Early walked and Sam Meeks ran for him. Thompson fouled out but Coan singled to right. Fannin then walked both Kozar aand Robertson to force in the winning tally.

The Nats scored three runs in their second on singles by Mickey Vernon, Eddy Yost and Mark Christman, and Sid Hudson's two-base blow. They added another in the third on Al Kozar's triple and a long fly by Ed Stewart.

The Browns in the meantime had scored three in their third, and tied it up in the fifth.

Joe Had Better Stick to Managing

Cleveland, Sept. 22 (AP).—Marse Joe McCarthy, never celebrated for his eagerness to talk, started his listeners today when he not only predicted a Boston victory over the Cleveland Indians in the crucial game tonight, but picked his Red Sox to win the pennant and go on to whip the Braves in the World Series.

"So you want to know what I think." McCarthy asked before tonight's game. "I'll tell you what I have always thought. The Red Sox will win the American League flag and the World Series. I told some of you fellows that last spring, but you thought I was crazy."

Keltner's 1st Inning Home Run Highlights Victory Before 76,772

By Joe Reichler
Associated Press Sports Writer

Cleveland, Sept. 22 (AP).—The Cleveland Indians tied Boston for the American League lead tonight, defeating the Red Sox, 5-2, before 76,772 fans. Bob Feller limited the Red Sox to three hits for his fifth straight victory and seventeenth of the season.

A three-run first inning against Joe Dobson, which Ken Keltner featured with his twenty-eighth home run with one man on base, and two more tallies in the seventh on four singles, provided all Cleveland's runs. It was Cleveland's seventh straight success, and its fourteenth out of the last 16 games.

Feller simply was superb. His curve ball was breaking sharply and his fast one simply exploded. In many ways, it was the strikeout king's best pitched game of the season, considering the opposition and the importance of the game.

Only six Red Sox reached base against him, two on walks, and one on an error. He fanned six, all coming in the first five innings.

The Indians supported Feller with a dozen hits, 10 of them coming off Dobson, who previously had whipped them four times this season. Boo Ferriss replaced Dobson in the seventh and Lefty Earl Johnson pitched the eighth for Boston.

Two-Hitter for Eight Innings

The Red Sox did not submit easily. Held to two hits over the first eight frames, Boston got a lift when Dom DiMaggio reached first on Manager Lou Boudreau's fumble to open the ninth.

Feller bore down and got Johnny Pesky and the ever-dangerous Ted Williams to ground out. Vern Stephens singled to right, scoring DiMaggio with the Red Sox second run, but Doerr ended the threat by sending a long liner which Mitchell snared in deep left.

Dobson Greeted Warmly

The Indians greeted Dobson like a long lost cousin, scoring three runs in the first inning to clinch the game there. After Mitchell had bounced out, Thurman Tucker coaxed the first of five passes issued by Dobson, and stole second.

Joe Gordon singled to score Tucker with the first run. Ken Keltner then belted his twenty-eighth home run of the season into the left field seats, scoring Gordon ahead of him.

The Red Sox finally got to Feller in the sixth. Birdie Tebbetts got Boston's first hit, a double down the left field foul line. Dobson singled to left, scoring Tebbetts, but was out trying to stretch his hit.

The Indians finished off Dobson in the seventh when they scored two more runs.

It was the first time since August 26 that Cleveland reached the top.

Yanks Win, Are ½ Game Out of Lead

Chicago, Sept. 22 (AP).—New York's opportunist Yankees, behind Lefty Tommy Byrne's slick six-hit pitching, tonight whipped the last-place Chicago White Sox, 7-2, to trail the freshly-deadlocked American League leaders, Cleveland and Boston, by a scant half game.

Byrne had a three-hit shutout going into the ninth, but in the final frame the Sox nicked him for three more hits and their two runs.

Byrne actually won his own game at the plate with a sizzling double down the left-field line. It produced two of the four Yankee runs in the seventh inning which really settled the issue after New York took a 1-0 lead in the sixth.

Up until the seventh, Byrne and Bill Wight had hooked up in a rousing twirling duel. But that New York four-run cluster finished the former Yankee and pinned his nineteenth loss of the season on the White Sox lefty.

Newhouser Wins 150th of Career, 5-1

Detroit, Sept. 22 (AP).—Hal Newhouser hurled his way into a select bracket today, pitching his 150th American League victory as the Detroit Tigers beat the Philadelphia Athletics, 5 to 1.

Only one active pitcher in the league—Bob Feller—has won more games than Newhouser, now in his tenth year with the Tigers and needing one more win to become a 20-game winner for the fourth season.

Newhouser scattered seven hits taking his nineteenth decision of the season against 11 defeats.

The Tigers won it for him in the first inning, converting two walks and two singles into a pair of runs off Phil Marchildon, who promptly retired with a sore arm.

Ten Starters Certain for Cup Regatta

The battle for the President's Cup in the annual President's Cup Regatta races Saturday and Sunday off Hains Point will bring a record crowd, with between 10 and 12 craft in the starting line.

The defending champion, Miss Pepsi, owned by the Dossin Brothers of Detroit, and two former winners—Miss Canada III, owned by Ernest A. Dilson of Ingersoll, Ontario, 1939 champion, and Miss Frostie, owned by Detroit Sportsman Robert Frost, which took the title in 1935, 1937 and 1940 while operating for Herbert Mendelsohn as Miss Notre Dame—are definite starters.

West Coast Industrialist Henry Kaiser's boat, Fleur de Lac, appearing for the first time in the East, and Stanley Dollar, jr.,'s Skipalong, designed by Ernie Fetske, are due for workouts today.

Other sure entries are Mel Crook's Betty V, Upper Montclair, N. J.; Robert Hollenbach's Crickett 2d, McHenry, Ill.; Harry Lynn's La-Ha-La 2d, Lake Hopatcong, N. J.; Lou Fageol's So Long, Detroit, and Tommy Keane's Tomadge 4th, first Washington entry in the history of the President's Cup feature race.

In addition, Joe Van Blerck of Freeport, N. Y., is expected to enter his 225-cubic inch Aljo 5th, surprise winner of the National Sweepstakes at Red Bank, N. J., while it is possible that D. Cameron Peck of Evanston, Ill., will enter his Astraea 2d, a new powerboat, and Jack Schafer's Such Crust, Detroit entry, may be patched up in time to start.

The first heat for the big race will start at 4:40, and the next at 5:10, with the third at 2:30 Sunday, and the finals at 4:05 that afternoon.

Danny Foster won with Miss Great Lakes and Miss Peps the last two years here, still remained the big question mark. No one seemed to know just whose craft he would handle, but there is a possibility the Dossins will have him take over Miss Pepsi.

Cubs Whip Giants, 11-7, 3-2

New York, Sept. 22 (AP).—The lowly Chicago Cubs dampened the first division hopes of the New York Giants today by taking both ends of a doubleheader from the Giants, 3-2 and 11-7.

Andy Pafko was the big gun in the opener for the Cubs. The third sacker drove in all Chicago runs with his 26th homer of the year and a ground out.

Lefty Bob McCall, who had lost 13 straight games, was the winning pitcher in the nightcap. McCall, who last won on April 27, was lifted in the ninth when the Giants staged a three-run rally.

Rider's Wife Sees Spill At 1st Turn

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Bel Air, Md., Sept. 22.—Jockey Freddie Kratz suffered head injuries in a spill that marked the running of the featured Edgewood Purse here today.

Kratz's mount, E. P. Price's Virginia Beach, was caught in close quarters at the first turn, stumbled and went down head first, throwing the 27-year-old rider in the path of other horses.

Kratz, a Bridgeton, N. J., boy, was unconscious when he was sent to the Harford Memorial Hospital at Havre De Grace. The accident was witnessed by his wife. They have a 2-year-old son.

At the track it was feared Kratz might have broken his neck but X-ray disclosed he suffered a slight concussion at the hospital where he regained consciousness. He also was lacerated about the face.

Kratz's skull cap, compulsory jockey's gear, was credited with preventing more serious injuries.

A. M. Hirsch's La Vega came out of the gate first and had a clear lead going to the turn. J. J. Ring's Dainger Girl, the ultimate winner, M. Stanfield's Fast Slave and R. S. Watts' Royal Rogue were closely packed behind the leader.

Virginia Beach was in tight on the inside of Dainger Girl. Kratz attempted to take back on the filly, but she struck the leg of another horse and dived into the ground. Kratz was thrown away from his mount, but apparently was struck by one of the other entries.

Kratz came to the races as a steeplechase rider and survived several falls over the brush. Last winter he reduced his weight to try his luck at flat races and was a success from the start, leading the riders at Charles Town, his first meeting.

Dainger Girl won by 3 lengths in the role of favorite while under the handling of Jockey J. Owens. LaVega was second with Fast Slave third. The winner, clocked in 119 3/5 for 6½ furlongs, paid $5.60.

The accident took some of the attention away from sensational riding by Jockey Jimmy Rankin, who rode four straight winners. The former sailor began his string in the second race. He booted Lady Loudoun home at a $21.20 mutuel and put the finishing touches on a $68.80 daily double payoff, started when Jockey Patsy Grant won the first race with N. M. Smalley's Sagaman at $6.40.

Rankin's second winner was Lord Loudoun, owned as is Lady Loudoun, by S. H. Rogers of Washington, D. C.

Mrs. Stokes Defeats Mrs. Meckley, 5-3, in Mid-Atlantic Golf

Mrs. Bower Also Gains Semifinals

Mrs. Walter R. Stokes easily defeated Mrs. Betty Meckley, 5 and 3, in the battle of former champions which featured yesterday's Middle Atlantic Golf Tournament quarterfinals at Congressional County Club.

Off to a 1-up lead at the turn, Mrs. Stokes of Manor closed out the match on the fifteenth hole. She played out her round, though, and carded a fine 78.

Her victory leaves Mrs. Stokes as the only former Middle Atlantic titleholder in the field. She won the title in 1939 and '46. Mrs. Meckley captured the crown in 1935, '37 and '44.

The best golf of the quarterfinals was turned in by Mrs. A. B. Bower of Manor. The District Amateur queen whipped Baltimore's Mary Ann Downey, 7 and 6. Leading 5 up at the halfway mark, she ended the match with a brilliant 40-foot putt, which gave her a birdie 2 on the twelfth green.

Mrs. Bower also played out the 18 holes and finished with 76, ladies' par.

Mrs. Bower's foe in today's semifinals is June Vogel of Baltimore, who squeezed out a 1-up victory over Mrs. J. P. Trouchaud of Kenwood.

Mrs. Stokes' semifinals opponent is Mrs. T. E. Schluderberg, who nosed out Mrs. Herbert Allen, jr., of Newport News, Va., 2 up.

Mrs. A. B Bower (Manor) defeated Miss Mary Ann Downey (Baltimore), 7 and 6; Miss June Vogel (Baltimore) defeated Mrs. J. P. Trouchaud (Kenwood), 1 up; Mrs. Walter R. Stokes (Manor) defeated Mrs. Betty Meckley (Kenwood), 5 and 3; Mrs. T. E. Schluderberg (Baltimore) defeated Mrs. Herbert Allen, jr. (Newport News), 2 up.
Today's championship flight semifinals pairings:
Mrs. Bower vs. Miss Vogel, 9:50; Mrs. Stokes vs. Mrs. Schluderberg, 9:55.
Championship flight consolation quarterfinals results:
Mrs. S. B. Crocker (Kenwood) defeated Miss Elizabeth Garber (unattached), 2 and 1; Mrs. S. F. Little, jr. (Army-Navy) defeated Mrs. S. F. Little, sr. (Army-Navy), 3 and 2; Mrs. D. H. Henderson (Congressional) defeated Mrs. Rex Howard (Kenwood), 3 and 2; Mrs. L. G. Pray (Columbia) defeated Mrs. R. D. Watson (Manor), 6 and 5.
Today's championship flight semifinals pairings:
Mrs. Crocker vs. Mrs. Little, jr., 9:20 a. m.; Mrs. Henderson vs. Mrs. Pray, 9:35.

McCarthy Has Close Call in Seniors Play

Martin F. McCarthy, president of the District Golf Association, gained the quarterfinals of the Maryland State Senior tournament yesterday with a 1-up victory over Charles Baker at Columbia Country Club.

McCarthy gained the medal prize with 72 Tuesday, but he received a scare from his fellow Columbia Country Club member, who barely qualified with 89.

George Eistel of Country Club of Maryland defeated Al Reid of Sparrows Point, Baltimore, 4 and 3, to earn the right to meet the 51-year old McCarthy in today's quarterfinal round. Finals are slated for Saturday.

Martin F. McCarthy (Columbia) defeated C. H. Baker (Columbia), 1 up; George Eistel (Maryland) defeated A. Reid (Sparrows Point), 4 and 3; Dr. W. R. McLester (Washington) defeated R. M. Roudabush (Maryland), 6 and 4; A. H. Stump (Green Spring Valley) drew a bye; John R. Miller (Manor) defeated Clark Stoddard (Manor), 2 and 1; George Torney (Maryland) defeated C. A. Russell (Maryland), 5 and 4; H. A. Maher (Columbia) defeated T. T. Speer (Green Spring Valley), 1 up; Comdr. Philip Hambach (Maryland) drew a bye.
Today's semifinals pairings:
McCarthy vs. Eistel, 12:30 p. m.; McLester vs. Stump, 12:35; Miller vs. Torney, 12:40; Maher vs. Hambach, 12:40.

West Virginia Golfer Advances

Redskins Release Two More, Reducing Roster to 36 Players

The cockiness of the Washington Redskins reached some sort of a new high yesterday when they released a pair of linemen, one of them their most highly-touted rookie tackle.

Weldon Edwards of T. C. U., a 225-pound All-Southwest Conference ace who performed well in two quarters of the Chicago All-Star game in August, was shipped to the Wilmington (Del.) Clippers. Waivers were also asked on End Charlie Newman, 1947 captain of the Louisiana Tech eleven.

Thus the Redskin squad, four days before the 1948 National League opener against the Pittsburgh Steelers at Griffith Stadium Sunday, was down to a single player over the limit of 35. Another lineman was due to be released by Saturday.

Meanwhile word from the Steeler camp was that Ray Evans, rookie star from Kansas, was definitely out of Sunday's game with a side injury.

Most of the burden of the left halfback job in Pittsburgh's double wing attack will fall on Johnny Clement. Furnishing some help will be rookie Monk Moseley, who understudied All-America Harry Gilmer at Alabama.

Much Steeler hope also centered around Fullback Jerry Shipkey, U. C. L. A. flash who was good enough to force Steve Lach out of a job. Lach recently was released.

While Washington was losing three of its four exhibition games, Pittsburgh wound up losing all four of its pre-season tests. Their defeats were by the Chicago Bears, 28-14; Green Bay Packers, 9-7; Detroit Lions, 38-10; and the Chicago Cardinals, 35-14.

Cerdan May Box Non-Title Bout Dec. 10

New York, Sept. 22 (U.P.)—Representatives of Marcel Cerdan, new middleweight champion, opened negotiations today with the Twentieth Century Club for a possible nontitle fight at Madison Square Garden on December 10.

The gold-toothed Frenchman fought for the rival Tournament of Champions last night when he wrested the 160-pound crown from Tony Zale at Jersey City. And he is under contract with the T. of C. to make a June title defense for that outfit against Zale, or some other challenger if Zale retires.

Among the nontitle Garden opponents mentioned today were Johnny Colan, New York light heavyweight, and Anton Raadik, the Estonian middleweight, who had Cerdan on the floor three times in their Chicago scrap.

Tony's managers picked up his check for $120,000 at T. of C. headquarter tonight.

Young Halfback Shows Promise

By Herb Heft
Post Reporter

COACH FRED MULVEY of Western expects his football team to start slow and finish fiercely. . .

"We have an inexperienced team that will be tough as soon as it gets a few games under its belt," says Mulvey.

The Red Raiders got a 21-7 nonleague defeat under their belt last Saturday in their opener against strong Washington-Lee of Arlington.

But in defeat, the Raiders uncovered Dale Larson, a 15-year-old halfback, who promises to cause a lot of trouble to Roosevelt in Friday's league opener and to all of Western's foes.

Only 135 pounds and playing in his first game, Dale reeled off a 65-yard touchdown run against W-L and acted like a veteran in every other respect.

Hubbard was third string halfback last year, but is catching on quickly to the complex ball-handling duties of the T-formation quarterback.

The only letterman in Western's line is 190-pound tackle, Leonard Fay. Len is also Mulvey's heaviest lineman.

The graduation of Western's veterans gives Stanley Tinkham, Washington No. 1 junior swimmer for the past five years, a chance to show he's a football player, too. Stan, a 170-pounder, will hold down the other tackle position.

The rest of the Raiders' rookie line consists of Ends Bill Muchake and Buddy Jones, Guards Jim Cacheris and Larry Webster and Center Harry Steele. Cacheris is a tenth grader who has played for the Boys Club, and Webster played Jayvee ball last season. The others have never played tackle football before.

Tech-Central Tilt Switched to Friday

Public High School Athletic Director Hardy Pearce announced yesterday that the McKinley Tech-Central football game, originally scheduled for Saturday, will be played Friday at Central Stadium.

Other Interhigh League openers slated Friday are: Eastern at Wilson, Coolidge at Anacostia and Roosevelt at Western. All games start at 3:15 p.m.

11-Game Grid Card

Roseberry Looms As Triple-Threat

FAIRFAX HIGH'S football team, doormat of the Northern Virginia Conference for so many years, has a two-fisted chance to win the title this session.

The Rebels are banking on Triple-threater Warren Roseberry, who has spent the past two winters winning the South Atlantic High School middleweight boxing championship.

Roseberry is fitting nicely into the single wing offensive plans of Bill Edmondson, who succeeded Bob Mavity as head coach.

Regulars are back at almost every position, and the Rebels biggest weakness will be inexperience in the reserve department.

Edmondson is working on dispensing with future reserve problems. Besides the 45 men on his varsity squad, he has scraped together a 40-man junior varsity which will play 10 games, and a 20-man eighth grade team.

In the line, Edmondson is proudest of his left end, Skippy Tomlinson, stocky 180 pounder, who is a great competitor, a sure pass catcher, and a stone wall on defense.

At the other end is Carroll Barrett. Foster Bonner and Sam Breckenridge are the tackles, both weighing 175. The guards are Don Driefer and Milton Horseman and the center is Willie Beach.

Fairfax opens its home season Friday night at 8 p. m. against Montgomery Blair.

Tydings and Byrd Head Delegation To 'Keller Day'

Senator Tydings (D., Md.) and Dr. H. C. Byrd, University of Maryland president, will head a State delegation attending Charlie Keller Day in the New York Stadium Saturday.

The feature of the day for the slugging outfielder will be presentation of a college scholarship fund by University of Maryland alumni. Keller went to Newark of the International League after graduating from Maryland and the next year joined the Yankees.

Keller suggested the college scholarship be given some boy in the New York area rather than buy gifts for himself. Tydings, Byrd and William P. Cole, jr., chairman of the university board of regents, will accept the scholarship.

James Given Guilty Verdict

at the request of the defense. Judge Moser can send him to the gallows or commit him to life imprisonment.

Sentencing was deferred after Defense Attorney Charles H. Houston of Washington asked for time in which to submit a motion for a new trial. Maryland law allows three days for introduction of such a motion.

Houston, associated in the defense with Attorney William H. Murphy of Baltimore, made a brilliant but foredoomed attempt to save James from a first degree murder conviction in the closing hours of the trial.

He called James' widowed mother, Mrs. Bessie James, and one of his sisters to the stand in a move to establish an alibi.

Confession Attacked

He attacked what he called "inconsistencies" in the confession introduced by the State. He asked why the prosecution had found only a small stain of human blood on James' shirt when from such a wound there must have been a profuse hemorrhage.

But his main point in his closing address was that the prosecution had not shown the murder of Marsha Brill was premeditated. He quoted from James' confession and then said:

"Here you don't have a premeditated killer—you have an automaton. According to this alleged confession, he just walked away."

Points to Close Decision

Houston, who represented Fisher in that case, said that although Fisher had beaten, choked and finally stabbed Miss Reardon, there was evidence showing a lack of intent, and that he had lost a Supreme Court decision by only 4 to 3.

"Here you have only one stab blow," said Houston.

In closing, the veteran Washington trial attorney said:

"We deplore this crime. But the law is not a law of vengeance. It is a law of justice."

Houston's concentration on the theme of premeditation was plainly a bid for a lesser conviction.

Called "Clever and Cunning"

"His is a cunning, clever mind, however distorted it may be," said Assistant State's Attorney Ansel Sodaro.

The prosecution's final remarks were made by Assistant State's Attorney Alan Murrell, who said "no crime in the annals of this city was more brutally executed than this one."

He pointed out that medical experts who testified were agreed that while James might be only a low-grade moron, he was able to determine between right and wrong.

Transfusions Use 32 Pints

Mrs. Lorimer's baby had been stillborn.

Whole blood was rushed from Red Cross stocks; it was given by the hospital's roster of professional donors. The patient received 20 pints of whole blood, 12 of plasma.

In one instance, a resident hospital physician, who also had the RH-Negative type blood, gave a transfusion to Mrs. Lorimer, then washed his hands and aided in the subsequent operation.

Doctors admitted that at "two or three points we were down to the last bottle of blood" or the last donor, with more of the rare blood needed. On these occasions, a new blood supply was found just in time.

The hospital's problem in getting blood was double: first, donors had to be found with the common "O" type. In addition, these donors had to be among the roughly 15 per cent of the population with RH-negative blood.

Doctors said Mrs. Lorimer's recovery was even more remarkable in that she had suffered no reaction "of any kind" from the transfusions."

One Arlington Hospital physician, who had served in combat areas with the armed forces in World War II, said he knew of no case from his own experience where so much blood had been given over so short a period.

Mrs. Lorimer is the wife of Elza G. Lorimer of the S. Glebe rd. address. He is a meteorologist for the United States Weather Bureau. They have no children.

Clews Exploded in Mystery Of Double Md. Auto Slaying

on both knees. The autopsy also disclosed a 2-inch laceration on one shoulder.

Mahlan received a bullet in the left temple, between the eye and ear. It lodged in the brain, and was sent to Baltimore for examination along with a .38-caliber bullet found in the couple's abandoned car, 12 miles from the spot where their bodies were discovered.

Dr. Maldeis said no conclusion could be drawn from the autopsy as to the position of either victim when slain, since the course of the bullets was evidently changed by bone.

He said any comment on whether the girl was criminally assaulted would necessarily come from police, since he was not authorized by the courts to disclose such facts.

Police awaited the outcome of FBI inspection of fingerprints taken from Mahlan's car, which was pierced by two bullets.

Chief Souers said what appeared to be clear impressions of fingerprints had been taken and sent to Baltimore for study. A report on results was not expected before today.

One of yesterday's closely checked leads which collapsed was a tip from Delaware that a factory worker showed up at Seaford after the weekend with scratches on his face. It turned out that he had been scratched by his wife, investigators said.

Another hopeful moment came with the discovery of a pencil-marked, blood-spotted road map about a mile from the spot where Mahlan's car was found near Lippins Corner.

Mahlan's father identified the map, which had the route from Glen Burnie to York, Pa., marked, and said he recalled his son had made a trip on that road.

The third suspected clew which fell through was discovery that a blood-stained suit found in a Silver Spring tailor shop had no connection with the crime. State police said it had been sent to the shop by a man who had suffered a severe nosebleed Friday night.

GALLINGER—Fr. Pg. 1

Realignment Is Proposed In Top Posts at Gallinger

tant medical director, who would aid the director and take over in his absence, and an administrator, who would be responsible for the providing of facilities, supplies and "paper work."

3. Also under the director would be chief medical officers in various branches, such as medicine, surgery, obstetrics and pediatrics, who would be selected by the schools and paid by the District.

4. The chiefs would supervise the activities of residents, internes and attending staff from the medical schools.

This setup would replace the current arrangement headed by Dr. Alvin R. Sweeney, superintendent, who is paid by the District. Next is Dr. Percival S. Rossiter, chief of staff, who is paid jointly by Georgetown and George Washington. He had asked for retirement effective September 1, but agreed to stay on until 1949, to give the District Commissioners time in which to seek congressional approval for the top level changes and obtain needed funds.

In addition the hospital officials include a deputy superintendent, six full-time chief medical officers and two associate medical officers.

The $7,500,000 hospital presently handles about 1060 patients a day and has more than 300 medical beds available for patients. Proposed additions include a psychiatric building, a combined pediatrics-crippled children's structure and a labpratory building.

Commissioner Mason, who presided at the session, introduced the subject by noting frankly, "I have found after 7½ years experience here, that there are some loopholes in the existing organization.

"There is friction; too many people are running to the newspapers with criticism and things of that sort, which does the patient no good and the hospital no good. That I want to eliminate as much as possible," he said.

Mason explained that he considered the operation of Gallinger a "partnership." "We are to furnish the facilities and the patients; the university medical schools are to furnish the medical treatment in the large aspect, and there should be close cooperation and coordination."

The commissioner introduced Dr. Paul F. Dickens, chief of medicine in the George Washington division of Gallinger for more than 10 years and chief of medicine at George Washington University Hospital for more than five years. Dr. Dickens explained a chart of the proposed staff realignment.

After almost general agreement on the proposal, Commissioner Mason asked that several of the doctors present discuss the plan among themselves, then with officials of the three universities and finally submit a draft of the revised plan to him.

After a brief discussion on setting aside sufficient funds in the hospital's annual budgets for medical supplies and medicines, such as streptomycin and penicillin, Commissioner Mason invited representatives of the schools to sit in on the budget preparations and offer their suggestions.

Those present, in addition to those already mentioned, included Dr. Daniel Seckinger, assistant District health officer; Henry Gavens, administrative officer in the Health Department; G. M. Thornett, secretary to the Board of Commissioners; Budge Officer Walter L. Fowler; Ernest Cole, budget analyst for the District.

Also, Assistant Corporation Counsel Lee F. Dante, E. J. Rourke and Alanson W. Wilcox, Federal Security Agency; Dr. Walter A. Bloedorn, dean, GW Medical School; the Rev. Paul A. McNally, dean, Georgetown Medical School; Dr. Joseph L. Johnson, dean, Howard Medical School; Dr. Thomas Brown, professor of medicine, GWU; Dr. Charles Geschickler, pathologist, GWU; Dr. Harold Jeghers, professor of internal medicine, Georgetown; Dr. Sweeney and Dr. Rossiter.

Lane Weighs Death Verdict

Annapolis, Md., Sept. 22 (AP).—Governor Lane took under advisement today the claim that medical evidence at the trial of circus roustabout James V. LaGuardia was just so much gobbledygook to the jury which convicted him of rape.

"The medical report was not understood by the jury," Father Joseph J. Ayd, chaplain of the Maryland Penitentiary, testified at a commutation hearing. He said he had to look up most of the words in the dictionary himself.

LaGuardia, 29-year-old master rigger of the Ringling Brothers Barnum & Bailey circus, is now in the death cell, sentenced to hang for participating in a three-man rape of a thrice-married mother of two, near Baltimore June 4, 1947.

Father Ayd and others asked Lane to commute the sentence to life.

Dr. Frank J. Ayd, jr., of Perry Point Hospital, said the medical report introduced a year ago in Baltimore County Circuit Court showed the 30-year-old woman had not been raped but, that the jury apparently thought it meant that she had. No doctor appeared at the trial to interpret the document, he said.

3 New Polio Cases Reported for Area

Three new polio cases were reported in Greater Washington yesterday, as two other cases were brought here from Quantico and Warrenton.

The cases brought the Greater Washington total for the year to 165, as compared to a total of 31 for this date last year. District cases now total 91 and nearby areas of Virginia and Maryland cases have risen to 74.

The new area cases included a 16-month-old girl from the 4800 block of Benning rd. se., who is being treated at Gallinger Hospital; a 25-year-old woman from the 3700 block of Valley dr., Alexandria, also at Gallinger, and a 2-year-old boy from the 900 block of N. Fillmore st., Arlington.

Another 2-year-old boy from Warrenton, Va., was diagnosed as a polio case at Children's Hospital and a 3-year-old boy from Quantico, Va., who was admitted to Gallinger on Tuesday night, also was listed.

Throughout Virginia, the year's toll rose to 385 with reports of cases in Norfolk City, Portsmouth, Roanoke County and Accomac.

North Carolina Counts Polio Cost in Millions

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 22 (U.P.).—The disastrous polio epidemic in North Carolina this past summer will cost three million dollars for medical care and deprive the State of 37 million dollars in tourist trade and production, the State's March of Dimes director said here today.

'48 Polio Cases May Set Mark, O'Connor Warns

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 22 (U.P.).—Basil O'Connor, president of the National Foundation for Infantile Paralysis, tonight served notice on Americans that the current polio epidtmic may well outstrip in proportions all outbreaks within the past 32 years.

Speaking to approximately 100 State chairmen for the 1949 March of Dimes and representatives of various fraternal, civic, veterans and other service organizations, he declared, "It is very possible—even probable—that on a Nationwide scale 25,000 persons or more will have been stricken before the year is out. North Carolina, Texas and California have been all but overwhelmed by unprecedented incidence of the disease."

U. S. Officers' Clubs Sued On Wine Bill

The United States Officers and Noncommissioned Officers Clubs in the European Theater were sued yesterday for a $1,513,932 wine and cognac bill.

The suit was filed in District Court here by the American Commercial Co., Inc., of Milan, Italy. Named as defendants are the clubs and various Army officials.

The firm said the clubs breached a contract for a total of 1,600,000 liter bottles of Chianti wine and cognac after accepting and paying for approximately half a million bottles between July and October, 1946. Delivery was made to a warehouse in Nuernberg.

The original contract called for $2,255,000, but only $741,067 has been paid, it is charged.

According to the suit, the clubs, designed for recreation, have more than 100,000 officers and noncoms as members. The company said that it stands ready to complete delivery under the contract.

Lone Ranger Program Grounds for Divorce

Spokane, Sept. 22 (AP).—Mrs. Maxine Mayther testified at a divorce hearing that her husband, Robert E. Mayther, spent his time listening to children's radio programs.

"He thought the height of entertainment was listening to the Lone Raanger on the radio," she said.

Judge R. M. Webster ruled that was "ample grounds" for divorce.

School Bond Program Will Be Explained

Arlington's proposed $4,750,000 bond issue for school construction will be explained by School Board Member O. Glenn Stahl to the Citizens Committee for School Improvement at that group's meeting at 8:15 p. m. in the Rock Spring Congregational Church, 5010 N. Little Falls rd., Arlington. The bond issue will be approved or rejected by voters November 2.

Sasscer Urges Correction of Tax Overlaps

Correction of any "duplicate taxation" between the District of Columbia and Maryland was urged yesterday by Representative Lansdale G. Sasscer (D., Md.).

Representative Sasscer spoke before the Washington Rotary Club at a luncheon at the Mayflower Hotel.

The whole tax situation as it applies to Washington and adjoining Maryland counties, he said, should be restudied by both jurisdictions and any needed adjustments made.

He cited particularly the practice under which District firms which do business in Maryland must pay both District and Maryland taxes, and similarly where Maryland firms whose operations reach into the District are taxed by both Maryland and the District.

"Some remedial legislation was passed during the last session of Congress," he said, "but there are still a number of instances where each jurisdiction penalizes the residents of the other."

10% Rent Boosts Sought for 285 District Units

Rent increases of about 10 per cent on 285 units in the southeast section of the District were requested from the District Rent Control Administration yesterday.

The units owned by Harry Poretsky & Sons, Inc., of 1518 K st. nw., are located in the 200 to 400 blocks of Orange st. se., and 2900 block of 2d st. se. Some of the structures are four-family dwellings and the remainder are 12-unit apartment houses.

Present rents are $55 for three rooms, kitchen and bath and $62 for four rooms, kitchen and bath. Proposed rents are $60.50 and $68.20, respectively.

A Weak, Run-Down Feeling Is Often A Warning

That The Red-Blood Is Getting Low

If you do not feel like your real self, do not have the urge to be up and doing, why not check-up on your blood strength? Look at the palms of your hands, your fingernails, your lips, the lobes of your ears—are they pale and of color?

Every day—every hour—millions of tiny red-blood-cells must pour forth from the marrow of your bones to replace those that are worn-out. A low blood count may affect you in several ways: no appetite, underweight, no energy, a run-down condition, lack of resistance to infection and disease.

To get real relief you must keep up your blood strength. Medical authorities by analysis of the blood, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in building up low blood strength in non-organic nutritional anemia. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps you enjoy the food you eat by increasing the gastric digestive juice when it is non-organically too little or scanty—thus the stomach will have little cause to get balky with gas, bloat and give off that sour food taste.

Don't wait! Energize your body with rich, red-blood. Start on SSS Tonic now. As vigorous blood surges throughout your whole body, greater freshness and strength should make you eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better, have a healthy color glow in your skin—firm flesh fill out hollow places. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle from your drug store. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Phoebus Case Recessed After Seven Testify

Seven witnesses were heard yesterday by Brig. Gen. Gordon R. Young, Engineer Commissioner, during an administrative hearing on charges against Building Inspector William M. Phoebus.

The inspector, who has been in the department for 22 years except for service in World War II, has been charged with submitting false official reports on inspections of buildings and disobeying direct orders of his superior.

The all-day closed session was recessed indefinitely while General Young studies a transcript, as well as other reports previously prepared by District officials. Meanwhile, Phoebus will continue on annual leave awaiting disposition of the charges.

Among the witnesses yesterday were Phoebus; his son, William Phoebus, who is also a District building inspector; Jesse J. Kimball, chief of the field staff, department of inspections; Geoffrey M. Thornett, secretary to the Board of Commissioners, and three other building inspectors.

Phoebus' attorney, John B. Diamond 3d, cross-examined the witnesses. GWeneral Young said Diamond will be permitted to summon witnesses at later sessions.

Whooping Cough Breaks Out In District Industrial Home

Miss Winfred Thompson, assistant superintendent, said two cases have been definitely diagnosed since early last week and that a third child is under observation.

Definitely known to have the disease, she said, are two girls, one 4 and the other 5 years of age, both of whom were taken to Gallinger Hospital last week. Suspected of having it is a 4-year-old girl, also at Gallinger.

"We have no way of knowing whether children have such a disease when they first arrive," the assistant superintendent said. All children in the building have been given serum, she said.

The quarantine was placed on for a week, she said, but the District Health Department will make the decision as to when it will be removed. At Gallinger, the two victims and the suspected one were reported in satisfactory conditions.

Americans Spending Less for Medical Care

Chicago, Sept. 23 (AP).—The average American family spends a smaller percentage of its budget for medical care than it did four years ago, an economist said today.

New Civil Service Board Post Offered To Guy Moffatt

FEPC: The chairmanship of the proposed new Civil Service Board to handle race discrimination cases has been offered to Guy Moffatt, who has a long record of public service. A Negro who is retired from State's foreign service is another who has been offered a seat on the seven-man board.

In recent years, Moffatt has been a personnel adviser to both the White House and the World Bank. Previously he had managed a Rockefeller-endowed personnel fund. He retired some months ago to his Leesburg, Va., farm. The board will be made up mainly of retired Federal workers.

STORY: How's this for perseverance?

Carl H. Butman is a Washington attorney whose 16 years of Federal service entitles him to a small Civil Service annuity. Just the other day he received a letter from the retirement division which said he had been overpaid $65 during the week of November 8 to 15, 1918—30 years ago. The commission wanted to know if it was okay to deduct the $65 from his retirement.

Butman is noted for his long memory. He recalls distinctly resigning from George Creel's war information service to accept an Army commission. He says the $65 was for annual leave. So he has asked for a recheck.

What I can't understand is this—why should the Government now be checking 30-year-old records of employes where "peanuts" are involved? It probably didn't cost a cent more than $10,000 to find the alleged $65 error. Someone should tell General Accounting that it should audit the billions spent during World War II.

RETIREMENT: And on the subject of retirement, the House member who sparkplugged the new and liberal retirement law was defeated this week in Wisconsin's GOP primary. He's Representative William H. Stevenson, ranking Republican member of the House Civil Service Commission.

His defeat is a blow to Federal workers. He was, perhaps, the most liberal GOP committee member.

FRIEND: Out in Washington State a good friend of the Federal worker has won the Democratic nomination for a House seat. He's Hugh Mitchell, whose father is chairman of the Civil Service Commission and a former member of the Senate.

PEOPLE: Charles M. Brooks has resigned as assistant general counsel of the National Labor Relations Board to join the Texas Co. His successor is George J. Bott, who was in the Chicago regional office. . . . Earl Ward, who developed the air traffic control system for Civil Aeronautics, will resign to handle the air traffic system at the Chicago airport. . . Thomas A. Gorman has been given a meritorious promotion by Veterans' Administration. He installed a new accounting and reporting system in the agency . . . Charles Dicer will retire soon as chief of the CAA's aircraft service because of a physical disability.

SEC: A Community Chest campaign mass meeting was held yesterday morning in the Securities and Exchange Commission cafeteria. First, Chairman Hanrahan read a letter urging support of the Chest. Commissioner Harry A. McDonald gave the employes a pep talk—he said that the city's cold, poor and hungry must be clothed and fed. He then threw himself into the spirit of things by buying all the employes coffee and doughnuts.

CAA: That forthcoming reorganization of the Civil Aeronautics Administration will take months to be made fully effective. The first step, however, will come within a couple of weeks. It will involve the top CAA staff. These are among the changes planned:

There will be only one deputy administrator and that will be Frederic B. Lee. The jobs of all other deputy and assistant administrators will be abolished as such. Some of the deputies and assistants will be retained in their present jobs but under the title of director of this or that office. Several of the top brass will be eventually dropped.

Meanwhile, Administrator Delos Rentzel is working on a reshuffling of CAA's functions. This job will take a long time to complete.

UPWA: This left-wing CIO union is protesting again. Its national and New York local officers have been subpenaed to testify Monday before a subcommittee of the House Committee on Education and Labor. The union wants the President to speak out against the committee.

Apparently the committee will look into charges that the United Public Workers put the pressure on VA to deal only with New York schools which had signed contracts with its teachers' locals.

AFGE: The District Department of the AFL's American Federation of Government Employes has elected the following slate of officers: Richard C. Vingoe, president; Lawrence J. Wainwright, Fred W. Godfrey, Robert Browning, Verna Flagg, Janet Donnelly, William Brown, Frank Sherry and Frank Worden, vice presidents; Marguerite Shannon and Frances Morley, secretaries; F. R. Leaman, treasurer; Joe Agresto, sergeant at arms, and E. D. Atkinson, Charles Quander and Evelyn Gliem, auditing committee.

It now appears that Trail Price, jr., will be elected to the vice presidential job which was vacated when James Yaden was elected national AFGE president.

Guard Workers To Learn at Last If Raise Is Due

Rule Affecting 20 Civilians Was Delayed 3 Months By Official Snarl

Twenty civilian employes of the District National Guard, who may have been entitled to a $330-a-year raise since July 1, are finally on their way to finding out, yes or no.

The reason for the delay has been officially explained by the Guard as a "misunderstanding."

Col. Peyton G. Nevitt, adjutant, said Guard officials had "assumed" that District Auditor A. R. Pilkerton was asking Comptroller General Lindsay Warren to rule on whether the workers should have their pay envelopes bolstered by the recently enacted Federal pay raise.

Pilkerton, however, was not informed of this assumption and limited his inquiries to District departments whose funds he handles.

Same in Warren's Office

Warren's office, too, was not informed, and therefore has not looked into the matter.

But now the wheels of the Government have been set in motion and the Guard employes will get a decision. When informed yesterday that no request for a ruling was on file at Warren's office, Coloner Nevitt said he would swing into immediate action and dispatch such a request to the Comptroller General.

The rulings are necessary to determine officially whether the workers involved are "in and under" the District government and therefore excluded from the raise, or whether they are really Federal workers employed in connection with District agencies and entitled to the pay boost.

Thus far, the Comptroller General has approved the raise for 375 workers and denied it to 211. The two most recent decisions resulted in a raise for 16 workers in the probation office attached to District Court and five classified workers employed by the Commission on Mental Health.

A recent request by the District Unemployment Compensation Board for a ruling on 150 employes resulted in a decision of "no raise." Sixty-one employes of the Recorder of Deeds office got the same verdict.

Pay raises were approved earlier for 41 persons in the Register of Wills office; 164 in National Capital Parks, 134 in National Zoological Park, 15 in National Capital Park and Planning Commission.

Mother's Suit In School Row Is Dismissed

A 28-year-old mother's suit to recover $2 allegedly paid to the principal of Burroughs School for a bulb and globe broken by her 9-year-old son was dismissed on a point of law in Small Claims Court last night.

A motion by Assistant Corporation Counsel Milton D. Korman to dismiss the suit brought by Mrs. Jeannette McCray of 2006 Lawrence st. ne., against the District school system was granted by Judge Frank H. Myers.

Korman argued that the defendants were public officials and therefore not subject to or liable for the alleged misfeasance of the school principal, Miss Marie Turner.

The suit was an outgrowth of a dispute that began when Mrs. McCray's son, Wilson, and three other boys broke a light in the school building while throwing a ball last spring, and was climaxed when Mrs. McCray allegedly assaulted Miss Wilson, hitting her on the jaw and slamming a door on her arm.

Trial on assault charges brought by Miss Turner is to take place October 4.

Brass Rail Trial

Reluctant Witness Irks Judge

A reluctant witness whose testimony in the Brass Rail shooting case was at variance with a statement made earlier to Prosecutor Charles B. Murray, yesterday incurred the wrath of District Court Judge Henry A. Schweinhaut.

Turning toward the witness, Melvin Johnson, 1214 E st. ne., the jurist, wagging his finger, declared: "I direct you to come back . . . I direct you under pain of punishment by this court not to talk to anybody about this case!"

"Can I talk to my lawyer?" Johnson mumbled entreatingly.

Johnson had been asked by Murray to tell of a conversation he had with Henry M. (Piggy) Leake concerning events leading up to the double shooting for which Leake and Charles H. Nelson, Brass Rail night manager, are charged with assault with intent to kill.

The Government charges the men shot each other in an argument at the cafe to which Leake, according to the Government, had gone seeking Roger (White Top) Simkins whom Leake blamed for a decline in his lottery business.

Prodded by Murray and Schweinhaut to answer, Johnson gulped: "I can't . . . I'm bewildered . . ."

There followed a bench conference, after which the judge told Johnson: "I have read a statement purporting to be from you. It does not incriminate you . . . I direct you to answer."

Johnson had dropped his gaze from the ceiling and was intently studying his fingernails.

"Did you hear me?" inquired the judge.

"Yes, sir."

The question was repeated and Johnson answered:

"He (Leake) told me he had been drinking and had no recollection as to what happened."

Obviously flabbergasted, Murray, who had been vainly trying to get some testimony relating to the numbers racket here into the case announced "surprise," making Johnson a hostile witness and subject to cross examination by Murray.

The bench conference followed after which Johnson received his stern warning from Schweinhaut. Neither Murray nor Schweinhaut would reveal the gist of the statement which may be read to the jury today.

Earlier a former nurse at Freedmen's Hospital questioned about money in Leake's pocket after he was taken to the hospital started: "It was about two thousand . . ." Objection by the defense cut short her testimony.

Another Government witness, Police Pvt. Shirley O'Neill, testified Nelson had said that Leake had demanded to "see the boss" when he appeared at the cafe. Simkins is owner of the building housing the bar.

$2600 in Checks Cashed Here Lead To New York Pair

Police disclosed yesterday that they have traced forgery of $2600 in bad checks here to a husband and wife who used their infant son as part of their "front."

Held under $3500 total bond for grand jury action on false pretense charges were Benjamin Shapiro, 43, and his wife, Anna Louise, 24, of New York City.

In a hearing held before United States Commissioner Cyril S. Lawrence, police said that all of the checks were cashed here by merchants for the Shapiros on October 11, 1947, while Shapiro posed as a prosperous paint firm representative and substantial family man.

The two were arrested after an acquaintance called Detective Sergt. David Higgins and announced that Shapiro was seeking a loan.

Flirting Has Changed but It's Still Doing What Comes Naturally, Say 4 Lovelies at GW

The Washington Post

DO YOU BELIEVE IN SIGNS?—These four ranking George Washington University sorority beauties won't skirt the issue—they do flirt and it's no "Innocent Affair." They are (from left) Billie Klapp of the Chesapeake Apartments; Tot Weld of 4501 S. 9th st., Arlington, Va.; Dionne Dalton and Janet Glisson, both of 620 21st st. nw.

Gone are the days—in the art of flirting—of the dropped handkerchief, the come-hither look and the "Oh, you kid" whistle.

Rather, it's a question of doin' what comes naturally. Or, in the words of four lissome lassies from George Washington University, it's NOT what you do . . . it's the way that you do it.

Aghast at a report that 80 per cent of American coeds "like to flirt and men know it," Miss Tot (Atomic Age jargon for Dorothy Anne) Weld, 18-year-old, brown-eyed art major at GW, asked with a knowing smile and a cultivated blush:

"What happened to the other 20 per cent?"

She and three of her schoolmates, all sority girls, yesterday propounded their reactions—in a most serious vein—to a survey taken in connection with the movie, 'Innocent Affair."

One thing's for sure: They all flirt, in one way or another, but never, oh never, with strangers.

Miss Billie Klapp, a Spanish literature major who looks the part, is 21 and has a fraternity pin (from the same outfit) for each seven years of her life. The current "Sweetheart of Sigma Chi," she reckons half a dozen "passes" from men a day is "conservative."

Having an ear for music, she maintains "whistles can be so different." There's the "my, you're terrific" variety; and "oh, you kid" kind. The latter leaves her tone deaf.

Miss Klapp, though pinned, wouldn't be pinned down. She said every man is different and there's a different trick for each one. "It's just doing what comes naturally," she confided, soothingly.

Miss Dionne Dalton, 19, a sociology sophomore with expressive eyes and a figure to match, would recommend—from the feminine standpoint—the indirect approach.

"If you're having a good time with your date, and he seems to enjoy your company, that's the best way to attract another man," she said. Miss Dalton admitted, somewhat without guile, that she didn't mind "hawking" men once in a while, at that.

Miss Janet Glisson, a philosophy major who is blonde and 21, insisted there's "no future" in the coy wink or fetching glance at the man on the street. She drew a chorus of assent with her philosophical remark, as someone said "it's easy enough to make a bad impression without that."

"None of this 'well, honey' approach," agreed Miss Weld, who knows how to make 'em wilt. "Keep it on a strictly personal casual basis."

The idea seems to be, just like mother said, never speak to strangers.

Zoocomers, Personified . . .

Auto Testing Law Foreseen In Maryland

Maryland motorists will be required next year to submit their vehicles to compulsory inspection, it was predicted yesterday by W. Lee Elgin, State commissioner of motor vehicles.

Legislation calling for a Statewide inspection system has been approved by the Legislative Council, Elgin said, and will be presented to the Maryland General Assembly in January.

"Every Senator and delegate I've talked to is in favor of the idea, and I am confident it will pass," he declared.

Compulsory inspection of cars was in effect before the war, Elgin pointed out, but the system was abandoned in 1941.

Previously inspection stations were operated by private garages. Elgin hopes the Legislature will put the stations under State control.

State inspection stations are operated in the District and New Jersey, Elgin said, adding that the plan for Maryland calls for one station in every county, and five in and around Baltimore.

The disclosure was made as Elgin participated yesterday at Chevy Chase Motor Co., 7725 Wisconsin ave., Bethesda, where a "safety lane" was opened.

President Arthur H. Bowis, of the firm, invited motorists to visit the station for a free safety test and headlight adjustment during the next two months.

Approximately 50 vehicles were run through the "safety lane" yesterday, Bowis said, and of those 80 per cent were found to have some defect in safety devices.

C. J. Devries was elected president of the Oakland Terrace Citizens Association at its meeting at the Kensington fire hall last night.

Officers will be installed early in October.

Board of Trade To Renew Fight For Sales Tax

Technicality

Navy Couple Barred From Own Suites

Rear Admiral and Mrs. Joseph J. Clark suffered a judicial reverse yesterday in their attempt to get possession of two 10-room apartments in the building Mrs. Clark owns at 2500 Massachusetts ave. nw.

Admiral Clark is deputy chief of Naval Operations for Air. The tenants are George B. Dewey and Huston Thompson, the latter being former chairman of the Federal Trade Commission.

The Municipal Court of Appeals ruled that the lower court was wrong in giving the Clarks possession. The reversal was on a technicality in that improper papers were filed.

The Clarks, who now live in the Roosevelt Hotel, claim they need the apartments for themselves, children, grandchildren and servants. Mrs. Clark purchased the building in the heart of the "embassy belt" more than six months ago and has since been fighting to get occupancy.

Chatelain Asserts $15 Million More Must Be Raised To Operate City

The Washington Board of Trade served notice yesterday that it intends to renew its fight for a sales tax as "the only reasonable answer to our current fiscal dilemma."

Leon Chatelain, jr., president, addressing Elks Lodge, No. 15, at 919 H st. nw., emphasized that "additional revenue in the order of 15 million dollars must be provided to operate this city" and held that the sales tax is the "only reasonable means."

Such taxation would be less painful to the Washingtonian than "any other method," Chatelain said. He pointed out that a "very substantial amount of money would be collected in sales taxes from the 3½ million visitors who come to Washington annually and from the half million who live in nearby Maryland and Virginia . . ."

Rejected by Congress

Outlining other 1948-49 objectives of the 8000-member organization, as voted by the board of directors, Chatelain touched on another local issue that made little headway in the last Congress.

He emphasized that the board will again turn thumbs down on the Auchincioss "home rule" bill. The Board of Trade "will spare no effort to insure that if the form of government of the District of Columbia is to be changed the proposed new system will be an improvement over the present form of government," he declared. "In our judgment the Auchincloss proposals would not have met that test."

Representative James C. Auchincloss (R., N. J.) said before Congress adjourned in August that he planned to reintroduce the bill if he is returned to Congress in January.

Business Moves a Problem

Another top priority aim on the board's agenda will be "minimizing the forces which seem to be major factors in the movement of business establishments to outlying sections," Chatelain asserted. He emphasized that if the movement of commercial establishments from the central business district "gains too much impetus," property values will depreciate. In consequence, he said, total tax receipts will "shrink," with the result that "higher rates will have to be levied against residential property."

Thus far, the board chief pointed out, Washington has "not suffered the same devastating deterioration of the central business area that has occurred in some other large cities." He stressed the importance of maintaining a "healthy balance" between the "natural development of parking centers and neighborhood shopping areas on the one hand, and the concentration of important business in the central area on the other hand."

Chatelain announced that the board plans to continue its program of improving relations between the local community and the Congress. To further this end, he said, a dinner will be held January 4 welcoming new members of Congress to Washington.

He discussed plans for observance in 1950 of the Sesquicentennial anniversary of the Federal Government in Washington and asked for cooperation.

Chatelain's objectives were based on recommendations of the board's committee on Planning Activities, headed by Harry L. Merrick, who is with the advertising firm of Kal, Ehrlich and Merrick, in the Star Bldg.

Appeals Court Cites Webster On Vagrancy

Anyone who doesn't believe David Douglas Davenport, 32, the Union Station bootlegger, is guilty of vagrancy need only consult Webster's dictionary, the Municipal Court of Appeals ruled yesterday.

The appeals court upheld a 90-day jail term imposed on Davenport by Judge Thomas Dewey Quinn in Municipal Court. Davenport, out on bond, hasn't served a day of the sentence, however. His lawyer, Saul G. Lichtenberg, announced he was going to take the case "to the Supreme Court to get justice."

Judge Brice Clagett, speaking for the appeals court, said there was ample evidence to find that Davenport fitted Webster's definition of a "profligate person" under the vagrancy act. Webster defines "profligate" as a person "completely given up to dissipation and licentiousness."

The judge pointed out that at Davenport's trial, witnesses testified Davenport:

1. Sold whisky without a license at Union Station.
2. Offered a 15-year-old girl money to commit an indecent act and, when she rejected his advances, hit her with a towel.
3. Peeped into a window of a girls' dormitory in West Potomac Park.
4. Entered a clearly marked ladies' rest room.
5. Used lewd and indecent language to persuade a 16-year-old girl to commit an immoral act.

Davenport claimed he made his money caddying but couldn't prove it, Judge Clagett said.

4 High School Cadet Officers Are Appointed

Appointment of the four highest ranking cadet officers in the High School Cadet Corps was approved yesterday by the District Board of Education.

Named were Corpl. Patrick Henry Clark, jr., 1707 Columbia rd. nw., a member of Company B, First Regiment at Central High School, as colonel in command of the white cadets; Sergt. John Hamilton, 3525 13th st. nw., of Company A, Twenty-fourth Regiment at Dunbar High School, as colonel in command of Negro cadets; Elizabeth S. Manny, 1733 Taylor st. nw., platoon sergeant at Roosevelt High School, as lieutenant colonel in command of white girl cadets, and Doris H. Heggans, 2100 Flagler pl. nw., master sergeant at Dunbar High School, as lieutenant in command of Negro girl cadets.

According to Mrs. Elsie Z. Watkins, secretary of the Board of Education, who polled board members, cadet staff and line officer appointments will be considered at a later date.

Jury Holds Neighbor In Stabbing Death

A coroner's jury yesterday held Robert Bennett, 34, a roomer at 740 7th st. se., for action of the grand jury in connection with the death of John Alexander, 45, of the same address, who died Tuesday night of stab wounds.

District Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald said last night that testimony before the coroner's jury indicated the stabbing occurred after each man accused the other of looking into his room. An argument ensued, police reported.

Area News in Brief

Dooming of Trees Denied by Official

Reports that stately trees on New York ave. between 9th and 13th sts. nw. are scheduled to be destroyed were roundly denied yesterday by Lieut. Col. L. E. Cox, Assistant Engineer Commissioner.

Colonel Cox said no responsible official in the District Departments of Highways, Vehicles and Traffic, or in the Engineer Commissioner's office had recommended such a step. He added that Capital Transit Co. officers have not proposed the move, either.

His denial followed published reports quoting an unidentified "District highway official" as declaring that plans calling for removal of the trees have been made in connection with the withdrawal of streetcar tracks from the area.

In Case of Fire?

Brig. Gen. Gordon R. Young, Engineer Commissioner, disclosed last night that he is preparing a report on the controversy over what kind of fire alarm boxes should be installed at the proposed Birney School.

The report will be submitted to the Board of Commissioners next week, he said. General Young has received a report on the disagreement between Fire Chief Clement Murphy and Herbert A. Friede, superintendent of communications in the District Electrical Department, prepared by Assistant Engineer Commissioner L. E. Cox.

Bonds Exchanged

Exchange of $4,961,000 in 1 per cent Government bonds for 1¼ per cent bonds was completed by District Auditor A. R. Pilkerton yesterday to provide additional revenue for the District.

At present only 15 million dollars in short-term United States securities acquired during the war remains in the city vaults. Some of these will have to be sold to meet immediate expenses in January and February of 1949, because of slow income during those months, Pilkerton warned.

3 Policemen Added

Addition of three patrolmen to the Montgomery County police force was announced yesterday by the county commissioners. The appointees, who start October 1 at a salary of $2600, are Paul C. Jackson, 1020 McKenney ave., Silver Spring; Vincent J. Castiglione, 805 Greenwood ave., Takoma Park, and Joseph E. Stoltz, Gaithersburg. Police Chief Charles M. Orme said the county force now numbers 120 men.

Child Study Workshop to Open Monday

Montgomery County's first child study workshop, designed to help parents improve their understanding of juvenile problems, will open Monday at Woodside Methodist Church, 8814 Georgia ave., Silver Spring.

The four-day program, first of its kind to be conducted under the county's recently-established Child Study Program, will be sponsored by the eastern suburban study group. Directed by T. H. Owen Knight, supervisor of pupil personnel for the county's board of education, the workshop will be open to all county parents.

Sessions will be held Monday, Tuesday, Thursday and Friday, with classes scheduled each day from 9:30 to 11:45 a. m., and from 1 to 2:30 p. m. The sponsors have arranged for supervision of preschool children of participants by assigning them to the care of high school students.

Parents planning to participate were urged yesterday to get in touch with Mrs. F. Edwin Dieste, workshop chairman, at 405 Thayer ave., Silver Spring, or by telephone at Sligo 3444.

100 Fire Deaths Feared In Hongkong Tenement

Hongkong, Sept. 22 (U.P.)—Nearly 100 persons were feared dead today in a fire which started in a warehouse and spread quickly through five floors of a tenement building and an insurance office.

Firemen recovered 25 bodies. They said they believed many more will be found in the ruins. Sixty-six persons were injured.

Crawford to Command Pacific Fleet Group

Rear Adm. George C. Crawford has been named commander of amphibious group 3 of the Pacific Fleet, the Navy announced yesterday.

He succeeds Rear Adm. Frederick I. Entwistle, who is transferring to the bureau of ordnance here. A successor for Crawford as inspector general of the Atlantic fleet has not been designated.

15,000 Sought As December Draft Need

The Army yesterday asked Selective Service for 15,000 additional draftees in December, making a total of 25,000 to be inducted by January under the new peacetime draft law.

The December draftees will be called up during the first 20 days of the month to avoid inductions during the Christmas holidays. They will be drawn almost entirely from the pool of 23 and 24-year-olds who have registered for military service, roughly half from each age group.

The District's December quota was estimated by Selective Service officials at between 70 and 75 men, as compared with 55 men for November.

The national quota for November was set at 10,000. Of these, about 7000 will be 25-year-olds—the top age bracket in the draft—and 3000 in the 24-year group.

Army spokesmen said Selective Service boards have been notified that the Army will be ready to begin physical examinations of the potential draftees on October 4.

Neither the Navy nor the Air Force has asked Selective Service for men so far. They expect to fill their manpower needs by enlistments, at least until next summer.

The Army plans to raise its monthly draft quota to about 25,000 men in January and continue at or above that level until it reaches the maximum strength sanctioned by Congress.

In the District a total of 53,740 men 18 through 25 have registered under the Selective Service law, not including those who have passed their 18th birthday since Saturday.

As of late yesterday afternoon there were 539 late registrants, and officials expressed "concern" because of the number. "Either they are not giving proper attention to the law," one official said, "or else they don't know the seriousness of violating it."

To date questionnaires have been sent to 5140 of those who have registered here, and about 400 men have been classified for calls to service.

In Baltimore, Col. Henry C. Stanwood, State Selective Service director said about 225 Marylanders between 19 and 25 years of age would be inducted into the Army during December and 143 in November.

He reported a total registration of 122,354 men, of whom 31,002 were in the eligible class of nonfathers and non-veterans.

In Richmond, Col. Mills F. Neal, State Selective Service director, said a total of 192,481 Virginians had registered, of whom 53,341 men had been classified as nonfathers and non-veterans.

Fairfax, Va., Selective Service officials announced yesterday that residents of the county becoming 18 years of age would be registered in future at the Selective Service office in the Jesse Building in Fairfax.

About Uses for Slipcover Fabrics

Could you suggest any possible use of pieces (not too large) left from making slip covers? The material is in a large floral design, and in stripes with small floral design between stripes.
L. C. M.

You are fortunate to have matching pieces left from your slip covers to make protective pieces for the arms and back which receive the most wear. If possible, cut these pieces so that the pattern will match exactly the pattern of the spot where they are to be placed. Now, hem the edges or have them hemstitched for a picoted edge. They can be attached to the furniture by use of pins, sticking the pins into the upholstery, or they can be tacked down at the corners with needle and thread. Such protective pieces will not be conspicuous and will save wear on the spots which ordinarily wear out first, thus prolonging the life of your slip covers. Also, you can often freshen the appearance of the entire piece by washing just these small pieces.

You could also use some of the material to cover a waste basket for the room. Measure to fit snuggly and make it with a zipper up the side for easy fastening. If you wish you could place a small ruffle around the top for decoration.

Small pieces of cretonne can also be used for hot pan holders or mitts. Or, you could use some of it to make a cleaning apron. Make as wide across the bottom of the apron and stitch the strip to the apron in such a way as to make deep pockets. On cleaning day, these pockets could hold dust cloths, whisk broom, etc., needed in cleaning. Leave one pocket free for bits of string, paper and other small waste which is picked up as you clean, thus eliminating many trips to the waste basket.

PETUNIA!

Plain vanilla Pudding? It's SENSATIONAL with Chocolate Bits!

Yes'm, Petunia! Just add half a cupful of chocolate bits to the pan of hot pudding. Stir just a little, and you'll have a beautiful marbeled effect along with a delicious new taste!

Bishop—Bracken

Could you tell me where I could purchase some ball bearings or pins or whatever you call those little things that roll the drapes back and forth on a rod? I don't mean drapery pins that holds the drapes to the type rod. I am referring to those things that are bought in the rod that you hook the drapery pins to.
O. C. Mc.

The piece you refer to is called the carrier or slide and can be purchased in the curtain rod department of a department store which sells your make of rod.

The ecru colored tile floor in our apartment bathroom is badly stained by rust spots. I have used pounds of elbow-grease but to no avail. What can I use which will not harm the tile surface?
G. R. A.

Try a product which is especially made for rust removal. These products are sold in the housewares departments of most department stores.

I noticed you were advising a reader how to starch table mats. I wash my mats, let them dry and then dip directly into starch. That gives them a better stiffness.
P. H. R.

Thank you for this suggestion!

Since living in this apartment I find that my pastel colored bath towels are slowly becoming dull in color. We cannot dry, or even air anything outside and I believe the electric dryer is slowly dulling the colors. Can I do anything to brighten my colored things? I'm having no trouble with white materials as I use a clorine bleach in each washing.
G. R. A.

Do you use the chlorine bleach in the water, in which your bath towels are washed? Using one cup of bleach (no more) to each washer full of suds, every other washing, should do much to restore the colors to their original brightness without harming the colors.

The New Cabinet

If you are planning to have a cabinet built over the top of the mechanical refrigerator, allow at least 6 inches between the top of the refrigerator and the bottom of the cabinet. This will allow room for the heated air to escape.

After Eight Years' Marriage, Woman Begins To Burn With Resentment of Mother's Tenet That One Should Bear Meekly With Injustice

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: My mother is a cultured European woman and of late I have been rebelling at some of her teachings.

As a small child I was taught never to openly fight with anyone because it wasn't proper; and I was hurt many times but "turned the other cheek" and hid my hurt by pretending indifference.

My mother has never had a harsh word with any of our neighbors; but I must add that she has no bosom friends, either. She has never argued with her sons or daughters-in-law, and while I know she has been hurt many times, she takes care to conceal it.

Mother maintains that if persons hurt you, they derive satisfaction from knowing they have succeeded in doing so; and I have lived by her philosophy until now, but at times I find myself seething with resentment.

Is She Pugnacious or Rather Sensible?

I HAVE been married for eight years and lately an injustice has been done my husband and myself by some of our friends, and I would like to talk it over with them; but my husband and mother say that I should ignore it.

I feel that by talking it over, the air would be cleared and we could be close friends again; and that things can never be the same again between us if I don't mention it; but mother and Dave say that it would only cause enmity.

Am I pugnacious by nature or are my views more sensible than mother's? I don't want to grow old and be "beyond reproach" as she is. My husband says that I am an idealist, and that I will live to learn that mother is realistically right. Incidentally, he admires mother very much and they get along famously. Please give me your frank opinion. C. R.

Life-Principle Has to Do With 'Spirit'

DEAR C. R.: With reference to the human race, it is commonly understood that the life-principle has to do with spirit, which is to say, an animating quality that mediates between body and soul; and when we speak of a person of spirit, meaning a person highly endowed with life-force, we think in terms of "fire, courage, animation and enterprise."

This being the case, I question the intrinsic value of your mother's philosophy. It strikes me as making a virtue of cowardice or apathy, neither of which is a creative or admirable attribute, certainly.

Perhaps your mother belonged to a submerged social group,—as to sex, race, nation or class—in her European background, where protest of ill-usage dealt her kind had long been acknowledged futile, so that bland acceptance of affront became a cultural part of safety-first preparation for life, a sort of defense against worse usage inflicted on those who dared challenge injustice.

Insincere 'Charity' Builds in Pugnacity

IN ANY event, though your mother's philosophy may have served her adequately—albeit at expense of insulating her in cynical detachment from other people—it doesn't necessarily suit your temperament, too. As a matter of fact, the seething resentment you've begun to feel in consequence of trying to emulate her indicates that it's definitely bad for you.

One is niding hurt to his detriment, doing insidious damage to nerves and vital organs, when his soul begins to burn with habitually smothered anger; and the practice of "charity" not sincerely felt tends to build in pugnacity that wouldn't exist if the person met situations with spontaneous display of appropriate feeling, as the usual thing.

Your impulse to talk things over with the offending friends, with the hopeful purpose of clearing the air and restoring amity, is quite praiseworthy; definitely expressive of courage and enterprise, or dynamic life-force. But with your husband and mother dead-set against the idea, you probably couldn't carry it off very well, and if the venture fizzled and they chorused reproach, more fuel for brooding would fall on your heart. So my advice is to let this incident of injustice pass; but hereafter stand up for yourself in a quiet way, taking your mother's example with a shaker of salt. M. H.

Telepathy Is Studied

Prof. Rhine Explores Unknown Mental Powers In Research on Mind

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

WHAT IS A MAN? Is he a machine? Has a man's mind a nonphysical quality, is it something in its own right? Has it properties which, over time and space, transcend the laws of physics? What actual clews have we about a man's mind? These are just a few of the myriad questions Prof. Joseph B. Rhine, director of Duke University's Parapsychology Laboratory is grappling with . . . He was in Washington yesterday to attend a dinner, conduct a round-table discussion after the preview of Paramount's "Night Has a Thousand Eyes," a picture starring Eddie Robinson which entertainly skirts the fringes of the professor's subject.

The story of parapsychology is recorded in Professor Rhine's best seller "The Reach of the Mind" which was recently republished in condensed form by the Reader's Digest . . . Technically parapsychology is defined as "an explanatory branch of psychological investigation dealing with claims of unusual mental abilities which do not appear at present to be explainable in terms of the laws familiar to the physical sciences."

But the Reader's Digest does a more sensational blurb "laboratory researchers into the unknown powers of the mind—telepathy, clairvoyance, direct control of matter by a matter-of-fact scientist."

Science Is 20 Years Old

ACTUALLY, parapsychology isn't particularly new. Experiments in extra sensory perception were started 20 years ago at Duke. Since then research has continued at a dozen universities, much of it at the University of London and recently, in New York there has been enough work done to establish the science on world-wide basis. It started because skeptical scientists were confronted with so many stories supposedly based on superstition and exaggerated tales about happenings to persons claiming possession of unusual mental abilities.

Prof. Rhine

Take, for instance, a friend of Dr. Rhine's who suddenly laid down an unplayed bridge hand saying some inner force impelled her to telephone home. She contacted her maid who discovered the baby had half fallen out of his crib, was suspended by his head.

An experience like this would be impossible to test but an unlimited number of people could be tested under laboratory conditions.

Card Tests Are Made

THE TESTS were made with specially marked cards. The averages of chance are known; if the testee, without seeing the cards, could call correctly above the incidence of error, he possessed unusual extrasensory perception. The tests were stepped up, the experimenter laid down the cards without looking at them, a shuffling machine was used, cards were turned at points miles away from the testee, finally the testee was asked to prophesy how the cards would fall in future runs.

Professor Rhine has even worked the experiment with a certain Dr. Marcesi who lives in Zagreb, Yugoslavia. It was found, at first, that only one out of five people showed above the chance average. Later, it was found that under favorable conditions an incidence among the four who had failed made better scores.

Hope Seen for Human Relations

SIMPLY put, what parapsychology is trying to do is to collect fragments from the vast realm of human capacity. So far science has hesitated to delve into how a man's mind works. We can get along with people only in the degree of how we understand their nature. But if men do have nonphysical mental abilities they can be developed and in time we might find a clew on which to build some kind of world unity, to guide our badly tangled human relations more effectively.

At present we don't know how to establish ethical relations between, let's say, such diverging ideologies as Russia's materialistic Marxism, our supposedly more spiritual concept. Instead of worn out dogmas there's a possible approach through the upper reaches of the mind.

Naturally, the whole subject of parapsychology is controversial and has been bitterly attacked by fellow scientists. Scientists believe there must be something wrong with research which arrived at such unorthodox conclusions, but they couldn't put a finger on what was wrong. As time went on they could find no real fault and recognized the mathematical correctness of the research process which limelighted not only telepathy but clairvoyance, precognition and psychokinesis—or the effect of "mind over matter."

Dr. Rhine and Wife Work Together

DR. RHINE, who's name is practically synonymous with parapsychology though he has many distinguished confreres, is a handsome, simple North Ohioan. Both he and his wife, Dr. Louisa Rhine, came from the same farming district, went to high school together, simultaneously obtained their Ph.D.s at the University of Chicago.

Their ultimate degrees were in biology and they had determined to specialize in botany, be foresters. But a professor told them about several extrasensory perception cases which so challenged them that this realm seemed more important to investigate than their botanical studies. They first taught at the University of West Virginia for two years, then left good jobs for a year of study at Harvard where they met Professor McDougall whom they followed to Duke.

Their laboratory first consisted of a single room, now there are 12, and the promise of a separate building in the very near future. They have a number of assistants—they are continuing a long-range program on what people call their psychic experiences—which will not be considered as evidence but as clews in a study of man's personality and place in the universe. The Rhines have four children, incidentally, and so far none are parapsychologists.

Miss Chenoweth presented the chandelier yesterday to the Chapter House, along with another for the solarium, at the annual reception to open the new DAR social season

DAR Meets In Redecorated Chapter House

When Washington's Daughters of the American Revolution met yesterday for their annual reception opening the new season, they hardly recognized the dark, somber Chapter House of last year. Each room of the headquarters at 1732 Massachusetts ave. has been done over, with the accent on bright, sunny colors and plenty of light.

In addition to the new paint, wall paper and draperies, there are two new crystal chandeliers hanging from the walnut paneled ceilings. The chandeliers, a large one in the dining room and a smaller one in the solarium, were given to the Chapter House by Miss Lillian Chenoweth. The large one is in memory of her mother, the late Mrs. Elizabeth Nabers Chenoweth, and the other in memory of her aunt, the late Miss Bennis Nabers, former regent of Martha Washington Chapter.

In the customary dedication service, Miss Chenoweth presented the chandeliers to Mrs. Wirth Gill, gift chairman, who in turn gave them to Mrs. David L. Wells, State regent. Then Mrs. Wells turned them over to Mrs. Charles Carroll Haig, president of the Chapter House Corporation.

After the presentation, the guests—numbering several hundred—were received in the large drawing room by Mrs. Haig and Mrs. Wells. The walls of the room have been painted a brilliant white; the walnut paneling has been oiled and shellacked, and new flowered drapes of a dark red background border the front windows.

Soroptimists Hear Talk on DP Problem

Still to be repatriated or resettled in new lands are between 800,000 and 900,000 Displaced Persons in Europe. So Maj. Gen. Walter Wood, U. S. A. (ret)., who is in charge of the United States Office of the International Refugee Organization, told the Washington Soroptimist Club yesterday. Speaker at a luncheon held in the Willard Hotel, General Wood stressed the urgency of solving the Displaced Person problem. He said about 2500 DPs from Europe will arrive in the United States in October, one boat load in New York, another in Boston. These will be the first, he explained, of the 205,000 who can be admitted in the next two years under the act of Congress, commonly known as the Wiley Bill.

General Wood expressed a belief that the Wiley Bill will be liberalized by the next Congress so as to remove some of the restrictions that hinder and delay the influx of refugees into the United States.

"Two factors that hampered IRO in its effort to resettle and rehabilitate the DPs were lack of funds and a transportation bottleneck", said the speaker.

"Sixteen vessels are now operating to move the DPs," he continued, "and by the end of the year we hope to have 25 in operation." General Wood said that the Army operates the ships at phenomenally low cost—much less expensively than commercial lines.

Mrs. Ruth Jarvis, club president, presided, and Mrs. Constance Snow, program chairman, introduced the speaker. Miss Martha Biehle, who operates the Washington office of IRO, accompanied General Wood to the luncheon to give the human interest side of the DP story. Because of lack of time, her talk was postponed.

'Other Woman' Refuses to Give Up Baby

Principals in the case are Mrs. Natalie M. Whalen, 38; her husband, Joseph, 41, a bus dispatcher, and Mrs. Lillian Wille, 36, a widow living next door.

The situation developed, Mrs. Whalen told the court, because of her husband's practice of "sleeping two nights a week at home and five nights a week next door."

Mrs. Whalen's attorney, Harry X. Cole, gave this account:

In January the widow told her she was an expectant mother, that Whalen was the father and the baby would be born in August.

They agreed that Mrs. Whalen would go to Wisconsin in June after announcing she expected a baby. The Whalens, married since 1929, have no children of their own.

At the same time Mrs. Wille would go to Waukegan, Ill., have the baby under the name of Mrs. Joseph Whalen and turn it over to the Whalens.

Last December 17 the Whalens adopted Mrs. Wille's 18-month-old daughter, Linda, born shortly after the death of Mrs. Wille's husband.

"The plan was carried out with one exception," Cole related.

"On last August 6 Mrs. Wille, posing as Mrs. Whalen, gave birth to a daughter named Faith Whalen. The birth certificate was made out that way and the Waukegan paper carried an announcement.

"However, Mrs. Wille refused to give up the baby. Thereupon Mrs. Whalen sued for separate maintenance, alleging adultery."

"My client still loves Whalen but wants him back under one condition—that the baby come, too," Cole said.

He said the reason Mrs. Wille balked on the arrangement is that Whalen has discussed divorce so that he can marry her and so that they could keep the child.

Whalen agreed to consider for 30 days a possible reconciliation.

The court awarded temporary custody of Linda, the daughter adopted from Mrs. Wille, to Mrs. Whalen. It ordered the husband to pay $36 a week temporary support.

"Fashion Telling by Spadea"

Starts in Sunday's Post

A feature of standout interest for women begins this coming Sunday, September 26, in The Post.

It's "Fashion Telling by Spadea," a weekly forecast of coming clothing styles by an outstanding authority, Jean Spadea of New York. Attractively illustrated with artistic drawings of the garments mentioned, the series will cover three types of apparel:

1. "High fashion" merchandise soon to be sold in local stores.
2. Popular-priced merchandise copied from high fashions.
3. Special types of clothing such as college clothes, wedding gowns, rainwear, mother and daughter clothes, etc.

"Fashion Telling by Spadea" is a brand-new idea for newspapers—it tells women what clothing is going to be in style and on sale in the future as well as what is in the stores today. It gives them the type of news formerly available only in magazines like Vogue and Harper's Bazaar. It can help the average woman to be better dressed.

Dead Crew, Plane Found After 5 Years

By The Associated Press

Air Force headquarters reported last night that an American transport plane missing for five years with 11 aboard had been found in the Canadian wilderness near Fort Nelson, B. C.

Officers, however, discounted reports from Canada that a large sum in currency and gold bullion was aboard the plane in February, 1943.

The Edmonton Journal, which first told of the find, said there was $240,000 in currency and 400 pounds of gold bullion. It reported the 11 bodies were found in the crashed plane.

USAF officers said it was flying from Fort Nelson to Fort St. John's, over some of the wildest territory in Canada.

Announcement of the names of dead was withheld until the finding of the bodies has been formally reported to the families.

Greenbelt Honors Commander of Legion Today

Greenbelt, Md., will celebrate Jimmy O'Neill Day today, beginning at 3:30 p. m. when the national commander of the American Legion will arrive in town.

O'Neill will be escorted to the Greenbelt Center School by a squad of motorcycle police and will be welcomed by Mayor Thomas J. Cahning, Community Manager Charles M. Cormack and Town Manager Charles T. McDonald.

The key to the city and a copy of the town council proclamation will be presented to Commander O'Neill, following which the party will tour the town, ending at the gun club range, where a small-arms demonstration will be presented by special agents of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

In the evening, Battery A, 224th Field Artillery Battalion, Greenbelt unit of the Maryland National Guard, will be inspected and a band concert at 8:30 p. m. will be followed at 9:30 p. m. by a dance at Greenbelt Legion home.

Prince Georges New Voter Lists To Close Friday

Special registration at the Upper Marlboro Courthouse for Prince Georges County, Md., new voters will end Friday.

The county Board of Election Supervisors has been registering new voters at the courthouse daily from 8:30 a. m. to 4 p. m. to avoid the necessity for standing in line on registration day. This service will be continued until Friday.

General registration day will be Tuesday from 9 a. m. to 9 p. m. in the 46 voting places of the county. A second registration day will be held during the same hours October 5.

Persons who have declared their intentions to become citizens before November 2, 1947, those who become 21 years of age while living in Maryland and new citizens may register.

N. Y. Firm Plans Another Bid on Belasco Theater

The Federal Works Agency will shortly receive a new bid for lease of the old Belasco Theater.

Wallace Cohen, attorney for Joseph Curtis of New York, one of the original bidders, said yesterday he plans to place a new bid before John L. Nagle, deputy commissioner of the Public Buildings Administration in charge of real estate management, within a few days.

He declined to divulge contents of the offer, but said it would differ substantially from earlier proposals. Washington has been without a legitimate playhouse since the National Theater rang down its curtain last summer.

Rev. J. B. Mosley Quits D. C. Post For Wilmington

The Rev. J. Brooke Mosley, director of social relations of the Washington Episcopal diocese since 1944, was named yesterday dean of St. John's Episcopal Cathedral at Wilmington, Del.

Mr. Mosley said here he had accepted, and would assume the post November 28. His successor has not been selected.

Mr. Mosley, who lives at 2206 N. Albemarle st., Arlington, will succeed Dean Robert H. Hatch, resigned. Mr. Mosley is a graduate of Temple University and Cambridge Seminary.

Big Bequest Leaves Area Man Unelated

An appraisal yesterday in New York of the estate of the late Marie Louise Russell of that city disclosed that she left about $275,000 to her nephew George Alfred Eddy of Alexandria. Net value of the estate, which consisted largely of securities, was set at $608,269.

Eddy, a Government economist who lives on Seminary Hill, said it wasn't as good as it sounded. The figure, he said, was based on the high value of securities in 1946, when Miss Russell died, and was before taxes. Part of the rest, he said, will be held in trust for other survivors.

MEMO TO THE CITY DESK

They're sending out hundreds of invitations to join—and using the Congressional Directory as their mailing list.

IS THIS NUCLEAR OR JUST UNCLEAR?

Cartoonist Irwin's atomic puns bring this explosion from Bob Schilling of Seminary Hill, Westminster, Md.:

"In the electron this fall, we beta rays our voices and ask ourselves, 'Dewey want peace or don't we?' Otherwise we'll just be fission for trouble, and mankind will soon be back to the days of Atom and Eve."

MISCELLANY

When Mrs. R. C. Williams of 127 Poplar st., Fairfax, Va., got word from back home (Muskogee, Okla.) of the death of a 116-year-old resident of the city, her comment was typical: "It's that good old Oklahoma air that keeps 'em perking" . . . Grace Lee Watson of 2707 Lake ave., Cheverly, Md., organized a neighborhood show a couple of weeks ago, and raised $20 for Children's Hospital. Now 13-year-old Grace is in the hospital herself—and I'm certainly glad to hear she's getting better fast . . . There's going to be a whopping $1.50 worth of entertainment at the Virginia Theater (Alexandria) one week from tonight. It will include a good movie, a bang-up stage show featuring many real headliners, the Citizens Band, and a quiz down of civic leaders—so you'd better get your tickets right now. They're on sale at the Alexandria Gazette, WPIK, Alexandria Police Headquarters, drug stores and theaters—and every penny goes to the Robert Harris Fund, for the family of the Alexandria policeman who lost his life in line of duty. Let's pack that theater.

LAUNDRY COMES CLEAN

Seven years ago, Thomas M. Woodward of 3044 P st. nw. took his family up to Greensboro, Vt., for the summer, and during their stay there, the Woodwards sent out some laundry.

Letters were written, inquiries were made during subsequent vacation trips—all to no avail. It appeared that one more bundle of laundry, like darling Clementine, was lost and gone forever.

So, after seven years of trying, the Woodwards finally gave up. But the moment they had reconciled themselves to the loss of their duds, there came a stern admonition in the mail.

In pained tones, it stated that the cleaners had been patiently holding a bundle of laundry for seven years, waiting for the Woodwards to claim it. Inasmuch as storage space was at a premium, wouldn't they please be good enough to pick up their stuff and close the transaction?

And sure enough, the bundle was waiting for them when they called for it the other day. Few of the laundered items fit any more, but that's beside the point. It was a moral victory.

INFORMATION, PLEASE

George Savary of 3213 Wisconsin ave. nw. has invested a pocket full of nickels in the C. & P. Telephone Co., in an attempt to locate a stationer who sells white 6x9 envelopes, open side. No luck. He's sending out an SOS.

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

If you're one of those who think that women have nothing but frivolous things in their minds, and use Christmas and birthdays to entice luxuries from their husbands, I submit the case of Mrs. Clarence Fisher.

Mrs. Fisher is chairman of the D. C. League of Women Voters Information Desk in the lobby of the Star Building. Setting up this service was quite a job, and she did it very capably.

But she didn't have a sign for her desk, and no funds were available for the purchase of a sign. So when Mr. Fisher asked her what she'd like for her birthday, she sighed: "There's nothing I want nearly as much as a real nice sign for our information desk."

So she got it. And if you want some non-partisan information about voting regulations in your home State, you can stop in and see Mrs. Fisher (and the sign) in the lobby of the Star Building.

Mrs. Alexander Guyol,
1119 Portner rd.,
Alexandria, Va.

Dear Mrs. Guyol:

What was the name of that building again? Bill.

VIEWS & HUES

A commie is a fellow who
Is tinged with reddish hues.
He sticks right close to party lines
And Josef Stalin's views.

For commies are like Mary's lamb:
They're always sure to go
Along with changes in the "line"
Decreed by Uncle Joe.

Leonard Lyons . . .

New York—The whereabouts of "Baby Peggy," the former child movie star, may make a newsworthy story . . . Joe Louis' announcement of his plan to fight again was prompted by his heavy losses in golf games. A Hollywood manager has beaten his regularly for large sums. Louis lost much money to pro golfers who backed Ben Hogan against Louis' choice, Sammy Snead.

John R. Hearst, jr., the 14-year-old grandson of William Randolph Hearst, spent the summer working as a cub reporter on the Los Angeles Examiner . . . The Ruth Gordon play, "Years Ago," will be televised by the Ford Theater, starring Louis Calhern and Patricia Kirkland. This one-hour program will require a three-week rehearsal . . . The London Express phoned Ben Hecht last week, reported that his screen credits have been removed from all his movies shown in England, and asked for comment. "Sure I'll comment," replied Hecht. "Tell your British readers, if pressed too far I'll give up Scotch."

Robert E. Hannegan is having his portrait painted for the first time. Under Government regulations, portraits are made of all Cabinet members, even after they retire. The artist is Greta McNamara, who painted President Truman . . . Harry Ruby, the songwriter who is being portrayed by Frank Sinatra in his screen biography, "Three Little Words," is wearing flowing bow ties, losing weight and affecting a dreamy look—so that Sinatra will resemble him.

John Gates, the Daily Worker editor, brought two lawyers to the American Veteran Committee's hearings in the ouster proceedings against him, to claim that he was being deprived of his civil liberties. Harold Makin, an AVC observer at these hearings, once was a member of the Veterans of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade, but was thrown out, without a hearing, on motion by John Gates.

The author of the next Robert Mitchum picture to be released is worried about the reaction to the running line throughout the story—the line in which Mitchum constantly keeps asking Robert Ryan: "Got a cigarette?"

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

Truman Saves a Dollar an Hour

By Drew Pearson

When and if Harry Truman leaves the White House, he will have saved—up until 1948—just about $4000 a year out of the total $75,000 annual salary which the people of the United States pay their Presidents. In the year 1948, thanks to a Republican tax cut, Mr. Truman will save more.

TRUMAN

The President sat down with paper and pencil the other day and figured that his job as President had paid him only $1 an hour—up until the GOP tax cut. He estimated that, getting up early in the morning as he always does, he had averaged 4200 hours a year on the job. After taxes and other heavy expenses of entertaining and travel, he saved $4000 the first year and $4200 the second—or about $1 an hour.

However, in 1948, thanks to the Republican tax cut, his net income will be $12,000.

"And I vetoed that bill," chuckled the President.

Today Mr. Truman is out on the hustings trying to break through his usual wall of bodyguards, servants and secretaries in order to show the people his human side . . . The truth is, that despite the steady stream of calls Truman receives daily and the reams written about him, only a few close friends know the real man inside the White House. Actually, he is a lonesome man.

Not many people know, for instance, that Truman keeps two large anthologies of poems on a desk by his bedside and, before dropping off to sleep at night, likes to prop himself up in bed and read from the classics.

His favorites are Shelley and Keats, but he can also recite at length from "Alice in Wonderland." One passage the President likes to quote is the Red Queen's remark to Alice: "Now here, you see, it takes all the running you can do to keep in the same place."

Truman also likes to read history—especially the biographies and autobiographies of his predecessors—because, he told a friend, "It is men who make history."

Historian Truman

Truman's secret ambition is to write the history of his own Administration, but it will have to wait until his term is finished.

"There are times when I make up my mind I am going to do it and I start assembling my thoughts," he confided to a friend. "Then the pressure of work forces me to drop it. There just aren't enough hours in the day."

He complained that the public never knows the true history of a period until long after it is past and sometimes forgotten.

"The trouble," he grumbled, "is that people have to depend on Drew Pearson and the Alsop brothers for their information."

As a boy the President used to crawl out of bed at 5 a. m. to practice on the piano for two hours, and he still gets up early. He has more important things to do now, but once he confessed wearily to a friend:

"Sometimes this job gets so strenuous that I think I should have stayed a piano-player."

The President has an orderly mind and an amazing memory. He kept a careful record and still recalls the exact number of rounds he fired as an artillery captain in the first world war. It was 18,342 shells. What's more, he remembers when he fired his last round—November 11, 1918, 10:52 a. m.

Truman's pet peeve is the way Senator Ferguson of Michigan has handled the former War Investigating Committee.

"I built that committee into one of the finest on the Hill," the President complained bitterly to an associate. "Since Ferguson has taken over, he has made it into a garbage company."

Reds in Religion? ? ?

House spy probers plan to follow up their Communist expose with a report on Reds in religion. They claim to have unearthed Soviet agents trying to infiltrate into American church groups.

The report will charge that if such infiltration was accomplished—which seems highly doubtful—the next step would be an anti-religion propaganda drive in the U. S. A. similar to that in Russia, with Red agents working from within to undermine the churches.

Merry-Go-Round

George Allen, former White House jester, is reported pulling backstage wires to block the sale of the Government's Cleveland blast furnace to Henry Kaiser. George, a director of Republic Steel, performed one of the greatest political favors for Truman. He persuaded Eisenhower not to run for President . . . Joe Jacobs, a career man, will be new U. S. Ambassador to Czechoslovakia . . . The Republican National Committee has hired Fred McLaughlin, high-powered Boston public-relations man, to make a political survey in the so-called border States.
